Wheeling Youth Committee

Teens seek to organize panel for better youth activities

by LYNN ASINOF

A small group of Wheeling teenagers is attempting to organize a committee to work for better youth activities in the village.

About 20 teens voted to form the Wheeling Youth Committee Sunday at a youth rally for the To Overall Progress Party (TOP). Those present agreed that Wheeling needs programs and facilities for young people in the village. They said the newly-formed committee would be one way for teenagers to decide what they wanted and then work for it.

Although the committee began with a push from the incumbent political party in the village, the committee co-chairmen said the group will steer clear of any further political affiliation.

"I would kind of like to stay away from being affiliated with either party," said Lynnette Valenza, one of the co-chairmen. "We want to be associated with the village, period." Miss Valenza is the daughter of TOP campaign Mgr. Mike Valenza.

Other officers elected by the committee include chairman John Dian and co-chairmen Bob Wargo and Dorothy Bieber. The four were scheduled to meet last night to develop a basic organization for the group.

DURING THE brief meeting Sunday, the committee members decided they could not plan any programs until there were more young people present to express their ideas for group projects.

"We don't want to tell them what we're going to do," Miss Bieber explained. "We want them to tell us." She said once more people were involved, the committee would be able to see what most teenagers in the village wanted.

"I think the first step would be for everyone to call your friends," Miss Valenza said. "I think we need to set up another meeting date."

The group agreed to meet again at 1 p.m. April 15 at the Whippettree Village recreation building. They said at that time the committee would begin to work on various projects for young people in the village.

Several ideas were suggested as projects at the first meeting. They included bicycle and mini-bike trails, skating rink and tennis courts, and a youth center that could be used for indoor sports and rock concerts.

Miss Valenza said she favored the youth center idea because it would be

AFTER LISTENING TO the ideas of three candidates on the To Overall Progress Party (TOP) ticket, a group of Wheeling teenagers formed a committee to work for better youth activities in the village. Lynnette Valenza, right, was one vocal member of the group and was elected a co-chairman of the Wheeling Youth Committee. The committee is planning to meet again Sunday to start planning projects for Wheeling young people.

David Sowa wins Illinois state grant

A Buffalo Grove senior, David Sowa, has been awarded an Illinois State Scholarship to attend Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Sowa, 203 Mohawk Dr., was nominated for the four-year grant by State Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-1st. Each state senator and state representative may annually award a scholarship to the University of Illinois and one other state university.

Glass said his nominating committee reviewed the applications of more than 20 students residing in the 1st District before selecting Sowa and Amy Goodman of Evanston for the scholarships. Miss Goodman will attend the University of Illinois.

Sowa, a senior at Wheeling High School, plans to study either journalism or business. He is in the top 15 per cent of his class, has served on the student council, is the business manager of the school newspaper and is active in intramural sports.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, snapping back at a butchers' union leader who urged President Nixon to fire him, charged that restrictive labor practices are part of the reason for high meat prices.

A leader of the American Indian Movement threatened that militant Indians would defend Wounded Knee, S.D., "with force of arms and loaded guns" if he could not meet immediately with White House officials.

The Democratic National Committee has asked for a federal court order granting it access to vital government documents on the Watergate bugging case — including the secret White House investigation of the affair.

Anthony Russo cried on the witness stand at the Pentagon Papers trial as he told the jury how deeply he came to feel for the people America was fighting in Vietnam. Russo is charged along with Daniel Ellsberg with espionage, theft of government documents and conspiracy.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., one of the Senate's leading anti-pollution advocates, predicted the Environmental Protection Agency would postpone the 1975 deadline on auto pollution standards.

President Nixon asked Congress for $361 million in additional budget authority for the current fiscal year, including $16.2 million to pay the claims of the prisoners of war.

The state

A plan to create a six-county mass transit system for Cook, Lake, Kane, DuPage, Will and McHenry counties was introduced yesterday in the Illinois House.

The search is continuing for cans of mushrooms, possibly contaminated with botulism, sold inadvertently in commissaries at Great Lakes Naval Base, and at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul.

The world

Arab guerrillas, in an apparent hijack attempt, attacked an El Al Israel airliner on the ground, while their comrades assaulted the home of Israel's Ambassador to Cyprus. Both assaults were foiled.

Three supply ships steamed up the Mekong River, through a barrage of Communist shore fire, attempting to reach the isolated Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Two more helicopters flying cease-fire control missions in South Vietnam were fired upon, and one was reported to have been destroyed. There were no casualties.

Prices registered a sharp advance on the New York Stock Exchange, but the volume left many Wall Streeters dubious. The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks was 16.48 higher at 947.55, its biggest leap forward since a 17.01-point gain on March 27. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 1.58 to 110.86, and the average issue on the NYSE scored a 55-cent gain. Advances led declines, 995 to 458, among the 1,792 issues on the tape. Turnover totaled 13,740,000 shares against 13,890,000 shares Friday.

Adams tells details of Jayne murder

by ROGER CAPETTINI
The state's star witness in the George Jayne murder trial, Melvin Adams, testified yesterday he watched from his car as the alleged triggerman fired a .30 caliber rifle through a basement window at Jayne's Inverness home the night of the killing.

Asst. State's Atty.
Nicholas Matherway

Adams, 39, who has been granted immunity from prosecution, said within the next two days he received $30,000 in payment from defendant Joseph LaPlaca for the murder. He said LaPlaca told him the day after the murder, "I think you did a real good job. It looks cool."

LaPlaca, Julius Barnes, the alleged triggerman, and Silas Jayne, the victim's older brother, have been charged with the Oct. 28, 1970 slaying of the wealthy horseman.

Adams gave his testimony during his second full day of questioning by assistant state's attorney Nicholas Matherway. His testimony closely paralleled the version of the murder plot he gave during various pretrial hearings last year.

The trial was recessed early yesterday evening and is scheduled to resume today at 11 a.m.

ADAMS SAID he and Barnes traveled to the George Jayne home at 1918 Banberry Lane, Inverness, at least eight times in the late summer and fall of 1970 looking for an opportunity to kill Jayne.

The night of the murder, Adams said he picked up Barnes at his southside Chicago home and arrived at Inverness about 7 p.m.

"We both thought it was too light," he said, "so we left. We went down to Palatine to the Mr. Donut where we had stopped often and I went in and got two coffees and two donuts." He said they ate the donuts and coffee in the car, then returned to the Jayne home about 7:45 p.m.

Adams said he first parked his car west of the house and Barnes walked to the rear of the home. "He was only there about 15 seconds when he came back and said, 'I think I see somebody in there.'"

Adams said he then drove around to Tweed Road, on the east side of the house, because he was afraid he had been spotted by a young man on a motorcycle.

BARNES RETURNED to the house, Adams testified, while he raised the hood of his car. He said he saw Barnes crouched down and move back and forth in front of the window for six or seven minutes.

"Then he brought the gun up to his shoulder again and I heard the shot and saw the flash," Adams said. "When he got back to the car I asked, 'Did you get him,' and he said, 'Yes, it's all done.'"

Adams said Barnes told him, "I was trying to get a bead on him for a long time but the old lady kept getting in the way. Then she moved — I got a bead on him — I got him dead center. I could see I hit him good. It didn't look like he was breathing. I think I got him."

Adams said Barnes took the gun into his own house later that night. He said he called LaPlaca to inform him they had completed the job. He said he met LaPlaca the next day and LaPlaca gave him $15,000. Adams said LaPlaca told him "that's all I could get up around the house, I will have to make a withdrawal for the rest."

Adams testified LaPlaca gave him another $15,000 the next day and he passed $12,500 to Barnes.

Less than two weeks after the murder, Adams said, he was questioned by agents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) but denied any involvement in the crime. He said the investigation of him continued until May, 1971 when he decided to cooperate with the police.

HE SAID GEORGE Jayne's wife, Marion, approached his wife, Pat, May 17, 1971 and showed her a briefcase full of money. He said his wife told him Mrs. Jayne offered Mrs. Adams the money if she would tell how Adams was involved.

During a meeting with Mrs. Jayne that day, Adams said, he told her he didn't kill George Jayne but he might have information that would lead to the killer.

He said he would need immunity before he could talk and Mrs. Jayne said she would help him try to get it. A couple of hours later he said he met again with the IBI agents and Mrs. Jayne and began to reveal the information.

Adams said two days later he cooperated with the IBI by meeting Barnes while wired for sound, and recovered the gun from Barnes. Barnes was arrested that night by IBI agents. Adams said he saw Barnes in the IBI office and Barnes asked, "Mel, what's going on?" Adams said he answered, "Barnes, I told them the truth. I told them all I know. All they want is the truth."

Under cross-examination by famed Boston Attorney F. Lee Bailey, Adams said he does not expect either he or his wife will receive any money from Mrs. Jayne. Bailey tried to imply Adams was implicating three defendants because he said Mrs. Jayne had offered $25,000 for information on the killing. Bailey said Mrs. Jayne wanted to implicate Silas Jayne, "who she hated with a passion."

During questioning by Bailey, Adams said he had not planned the crime well and admitted he was careless in "covering his tracks." He also admitted he used to boast about being connected with decreases," Brent said.

Farmers "who lost their shirts" aren't going to increase beef production, says Fleming of the need for adequate meat price levels. Higher production is needed to accommodate Americans' taste for beef, he said, a demand which "has built up tremendously over the past 20 years."

Meanwhile, leaders of the boycott are continuing their efforts this week. Mrs. Ethel Rosen, a Chicago area boycott leader, called on President Nixon to meet in Washington, D.C. on Wednesday with national boycott representatives. Three boycott leaders met in Ames, Iowa, yesterday with meat producers to discuss possible price rollbacks and the administration price ceiling on beef, pork and lamb.

Herb Fleming, a Chicago representative of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, said of the boycott effect, "I don't think it could possibly have any permanent effect. Certainly a continued reduction in consumption of meat would have an effect but it wouldn't be the effect anyone would want. When it ceases to be profitable to produce the supply, it and food items as of yesterday is a nuisance to many retailers, said Brent. This time-consuming procedure is required as a consumer benefit, he noted, "but it's a strange thing, like unit pricing, not many people pay any attention to it."

Some meat department managers have kept price comparison booklets on hand over the past months, he said, but not a single consumer looked at them.

see a decrease in price."

Illinois food retailers experienced an average 25-30 per cent drop in tonnage of meat sold last week, according to Jordan. Looking at this week's meat sales, he said, "Of course, Monday is always a bad day for meat sales, but there is no indication that the boycott is continuing."

Poultry, fish, frozen foods and other items were gainers in the wake of the boycott. Jordan reported that losses in sales at the meat counter were balanced by a similar increase in sale of other food items. Layoffs of butchers and others involved in meat processing are not heavy in Illinois, but a continuation of the boycott could sharply increase this trend, he said.

The meat boycott "could be petering out" if Monday sales are any indication of the sales for the rest of the week, said Ken Brent, director of communications for the National Association of Retail Grocers. "Monday purchases are back to normal," he said, but any residual effect of the boycott cannot be accurately measured until mid-week.

Nationally, the average decline in fresh meat purchases last week was 20 per cent off the normal levels, Brent said. A continued boycott could boost the prices for poultry and fish and other meat substitutes, he added. This was confirmed in higher poultry prices reported Monday.

THE PRICE posting required for meat

"GREATER supply is the only thing that will have an effect on prices," said Jordan. "The boycott brought down some prices temporarily but the supply must catch up with the demand. I think that by the third quarter (of this year) we should have greater supply, prices will level off. In the fourth quarter, you could killers and the syndicate but said it was not true prior to his involvement with the Jayne murder.

THE GEORGE JAYNE murder trial is in its second week before Circuit Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald and a jury of nine women and three men.

Adams said he "passed himself off" as an experienced hit man to "raise my ego."

Under attack by Bailey, Adams became confused and frequently changed his mind about when he first felt a "twinge of conscience." He said, however, he once agreed with Silas he would have to kill the entire Jayne family if they were witnesses.

Meat boycott petering out; effects 'temporary'

by LEA TONKIN

Licking their chops at the prospect of lower beef, lamb and pork prices, many a consumer kicked the meat habit for several days in support of last week's boycott. Now comes the bad news that most meat prices show little change except in a smattering of stores, and the boycott seems to have run its course.

A spokesman for the Dominick's food chain said on Monday, "There's been no change in the wholesale market, so there would be no change at the retail level."

In the Midwest livestock markets, hog prices were slightly higher than a week ago and cattle prices remained unchanged or uneven yesterday.

William Jordan, executive director of the Illinois Food Retailers Association, representing some 2,000 independent food stores, said Monday that he knows of no major food chain or group of independents in the Chicago area which is cutting back on meat prices across the board. A number of East coast chains and two Wisconsin food store operations announced meat prices reduced below the enforced ceiling prices.

Apology sent to family

Elrod denies rap in death notice

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 828 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in my apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

Sheriff's police that night asked Chicago police to send a squad car to the Albany Avenue address to notify Flodin's relatives but Leach said yesterday that there has been no confirmation that the car was sent. Mrs. Flodin denied that she received any notification from Chicago police.

Leach said no news of the fatal accident was released by the sheriff's department until the next day. He mentioned the Cook County Morgue, where Flodin's body was taken the night of March 27, as a possible source of the news release.

"WE RELEASED news of the death late in the afternoon of the next day" after talking to Regina Flodin, Leach said.

"And that was only because we thought one of our squad cars was involved. Before that (news of the death) could have come from somewhere else but it didn't come from (the sheriff's) office," he said.

After an investigation, sheriff's Patrolman Ronald Moers, 32, 1413 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and filing a false police report in connection with the hit-and-run death.

Moers' damaged squad car, which he had reported stolen, was found March 23 at a construction site in the 2400 block of Church Street, Des Plaines.

Moers was suspended from the sheriff's department and Elrod has asked for his dismissal. He will appear April 24 in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of leaving the accident scene and filing the false police report.

Leach said Elrod will send a letter of apology to the Flodin family. "We're sorry they feel this way and that they're offended," he said.

Eight from area in state table tennis tourney

Eight area residents are eligible to compete Saturday in state table tennis competition as a result of their success in the recent contest sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

The state tournament, conducted by the Illinois Parks and Recreation Association, will be played in Naperville.

Scheduled to compete in each category are Valeri Nicholson, midget girls; Mike Abbate, midget boys; Wally Czarny, boys 12-13; Stacy Workman, girls 12-13; Chris Reil, senior boys 14-17; Cheryl Workman, senior girls 14-17; Helmut Repich, men's; Ingeborg Adamicka, women's.

Besides winning the right to participate in the state tournament, the champions in each singles category and the second place winners in the park district contest received trophies.

Participants in the tournament numbered 83 singles and six doubles teams.

Stevenson High relays Saturday

The second annual Adlai Stevenson High School invitational relays will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

High schools participating in the meet with Stevenson include Wauconda, Lake Zurich, Warren, Grant, Grayslake, Round Lake and Lisle.

Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for total team points in the competition, according to Pat Gilmore, track coach and relay chairman.

used by young people of all ages. "I want something for the people who are out of high school and not yet 21," she said. "You're too old to go to high school and you're not yet old enough to go to bars."

ACCORDING TO Miss Bieber, young people in Wheeling have never organized before because no one has known how to get a group started. "I think everyone was just scared to be the first one," she said. I don't think anyone else has really known how to go about it."

Miss Bieber said she thought the committee could accomplish a great deal now that the organization has started. "The worst we can do is bomb out," she said.

Before the teenagers began talking about organizing the committee, three candidates on the TOP ticket spoke about possible ways the young people could work for better youth programs.

Incumbent candidate for village president Ted Scanlon said the group could work through local businessmen and civic organizations to get support. He said the committee might even find someone with an old farmhouse who wanted to donate it for youth programs.

Scanlon said although village officials favored better youth activities, they did not know what young people wanted. "Right now we don't know which way we're going," he said. "The youth are going to have to speak out and help themselves."

Trustee candidates Bill Hein and Dick Missing joined with Scanlon in urging the young people to organize their own committee. All three promised to support the group once it had an organization and some ideas for possible projects.

WITH HER HAIR standing on end in the wind, a young hiker rests at one of seven checkpoints along Sunday's 20 mile "Hike for Your Neighbor," to benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center. Nearly 900 hikers completed the 7 1/2 hour march despite the cold, windy weather.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre-and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

School news notes

The operetta "Hansel and Gretel" was recently presented by students at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling. The production was directed by Mrs. Lois Lederman and Sarah Ward.

An orchestra composed of students from Tarkington School and Jack London Junior High School provided music for the opening overture.

Scenery construction was supervised by Faith Otis. Fran Einhorn aided students in making costumes.

The main characters in the play were Pat Fay, Hansel; Chris Brahar, Gretel; Scott Wilson, the father; Barb Brauer, the mother; Ann Oslovich and Julie Schwein, Jack-in-the-Pulpit; Greg Bowen and Lori Jefferson, sandman; Jennifer Hacker, dew fairy and Mary Engh, witch. Lisa Klekamp, Ruth Rockett and Carrie Lyon served as narrators for the production.

A contest was also conducted to design the cover for the program. Beth Kash and Jennifer Hacker were the winners.

STUDENTS IN THE Cultural Arts Program at Sandburg School in Wheeling recently traveled to the Hillside Theatre to see a production of "The Sound of Music."

The trip was conducted for students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

STUDENTS IN MRS. Fran Hoffer's sixth grade language arts class at Alcott School in Buffalo Grove are busy creating their own puppets to present a show to the rest of the school in the near future.

The puppets are fashioned after characters in books. Many are being made from socks, while other students are using papier-mache.

PRETTY DOLLY. Miniature fairy princesses, grand ladies and, of course, tiny babies have always fascinated little girls. Barbara Rose, age four, admires a doll that was part of a collection displayed last weekend at the Family Outdoor and Hobby Show sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Park District.

Meet your candidates for village offices: Part 1

Otis 'Skip' Hedlund: Number of builders on local boards worries WHIP leader

Otis "Skip" Hedlund is concerned about the number of men on village commissions who are presently employed in the building trades.

The Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) candidate for village president said this represents a conflict of interest that is dangerous for the village. He said it is difficult for a commissioner to vote fairly on any matter when he knows his decision may affect his livelihood.

"It is an ethical or moral conflict," Hedlund said. "The people who have these conflicts should be removed."

Hedlund said he now knows of at least four persons who must vote on projects that affect their professions. He said these people sit on the plan commission, zoning board and electrical commission.

The candidate said, however, that he has no proof that any of these men have voted against the best interests of the village. "If there were proof, that might constitute bribery," he said.

Otis "Skip" Hedlund

HEDLUND also is concerned about the members of the regular village staff, particularly Village Mgr. George Passolt. The candidate said the present village board is not allowing Passolt to operate to his total capacity.

"I think the village manager has to be free to do as he sees fit," he said. "And from what I can see, I don't think Mr.

Passolt is being given a free hand to do this."

Hedlund said one example of the restrictions placed on the village manager is the hiring and firing of village employees. "Supposedly, the village manager is supposed to be able to hire and fire village employees," he said. "It seems that every week the village board goes into executive session on personnel."

Before advocating the firing of any village employees, Hedlund said he would have to evaluate the jobs they were doing. He said, however, he was concerned about the large number of employees who appear to be politically appointed.

"I WOULD say we have what appears to be a large number of political patronage workers," he said. The candidate said the largest number is probably in the public works department, but added that some department heads may also be political appointees.

"I think Mr. Guttilla is certainly politically appointed in his position (Wheeling

On April 17, Wheeling residents will elect five village officials who will represent them for the next four years. The positions being contested in this election include village president, village clerk and three village trustees. There are two candidates for each position.

Today the Herald publishes recent interviews with each of the candidates on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) ticket. The interviews briefly outline the candidates' views on issues in Wheeling government. Tomorrow the views of the To Overall Progress (TOP) party will be published.

police chief)," he said. When asked if Guttilla was qualified for his job, Hedlund said he did not know.

The WHIP candidate said the village could also make better use of its commissions. "I think they should be given more specific direction," he said. He explained that currently the commissioners are confused because they have been given only general direction from the village board.

For example, Hedlund said he would like the plan commission to do more general planning for the entire community. He said the plan commission currently is restricted to reviewing the plans for individual developments when it should be concerned with more long-range planning.

"I THINK THE village needs to take the master plan the village has, have it revised and then stick to it," Hedlund said. He said the village has not abided by its master plan, and as a result has a history of losing when its zoning decisions are taken to court.

The candidate said areas which badly need such long-range planning include traffic control, flood control, the village water system and garbage disposal. He said he favored village participation in any program which would help Wheeling plan for these areas.

Along with planning, Hedlund said it was important for Wheeling residents to understand the development in the village. "It's a matter of many people being tired of a lot of apartment building going on," he said.

He explained that the current Strong Street issue is an example of village residents finding their neighborhood was changing in a way they could not control. "That was the time to sit down with those people," Hedlund said.

Stories by Lynn Asinof and Rich Honack

Connie Heitkotter

Although Connie Heitkotter calls flooding "my favorite subject," she said the most important issue of the current campaign for village election is the lack of communication between the village board and the people.

Mrs. Heitkotter, who is running on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) ticket for trustee, said Wheeling residents currently have no way to communicate with the village board. She said the ordinance governing communication at board meetings is one reason.

"If something goes wrong for any particular resident over the weekend, there is no possible way for this information to be communicated to the village board," she said.

She described the present relation between the board and village residents as "living on an island."

MRS. HEITKOTTER said this lack of communication is one reason why there has been so much political discussion at recent village board meetings. She said because the incumbent candidates have refused to debate the political issues, the WHIP candidates must take their case to the board meetings.

"What other way is there to have a give and take of ideas?" she said. The candidate added, however, that such political debates must allow discussion from both sides. She said some members of the board have rebutted political arguments without giving the WHIP candidates a chance to respond.

Mrs. Heitkotter said she is also concerned with local flooding problems because they do not seem to be getting any better. "The flooding itself is not a political issue," she said. "It is what has or has not been done about flooding that is a political issue."

According to Mrs. Heitkotter, the Village of Wheeling is not presently doing enough to control flooding. "In the beginning, of necessity they were a leader because we were getting water from everywhere," she said.

DESPITE THIS good start, the WHIP candidate said the village has not carried through on programs that were promised in the 1968 referendum.

In elected, she said she would like to enact stricter flood plain ordinances so that building in the flood areas would be restricted. "Stop all building in the flood plain until we have the problem solved," she said.

Mrs. Heitkotter said she thought the village was taking the wrong approach with their present programs on flood control. She said instead of trying to solve individual problems in various parts of the village, the programs should start at the end of the creek and then move upstream.

"Start at Meadowbrook and work back to Dunhurst," she said. She explained that this approach would ensure that the solution to one problem and would not cause more flooding in another section of the village.

ONE FLOOD control program Mrs. Heitkotter favors is the development of large retention basins like the one planned by Buffalo Grove at Arlington Heights and Checker roads. "Retention basins are our biggest hope," she said.

Mrs. Heitkotter charged the present board has also neglected proper planning for village development. "The first thing we need is industrial development," she said. She explained that the village now has building codes which are too restrictive to attract industry. She said she would like to change these codes.

In residential development, Mrs. Heitkotter said she favors a balance between apartments and single-family homes. "I have nothing against apartments," she said. "But I like a bit of country too."

She said her major concern with apartment developments was that the buildings would not be maintained and would eventually become an eyesore. "This is what I do not want to see happen to Wheeling," she said.

IF ELECTED, Mrs. Heitkotter said she would work to reunite the various factions in the community. "I don't really believe it is as difficult chore as it seems," she said.

She noted, however, that if she was the only member of her party elected she would have little effect on the village. "I could be a watchdog. I could say no," she said. "But the whole point of this is we have ideas for the betterment of the village."

For village trustee

Don Jackson

Don Jackson sees the current development in Wheeling as growth without planning.

In fact, he said, the present trend in development was the major reason he decided to run for village trustee on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) ticket.

"As I saw more and more apartments going in, I became more and more concerned that the profile of the town was slowly changing," he explained.

Jackson said he thought apartments and condominiums should be built, but not in the numbers presently planned for the village. He explained that he favored development according to a set ratio of multi-family developments and single-family homes.

HE NOTED THAT developers tend towards apartments because there is more profit in them. "But if the trend goes that way, then it will be a preponderance of high density multi-family developments," he said.

In order to reduce the possibility of high density population in these developments, Jackson said he would like to reduce the number of units allowed on each acre of land. He said the present ordinance which allows 16 units per acre is too lenient.

Jackson also said the village board might encourage single-family development if it did not provide extra services for developers. He said the village's installation of water and sewer lines on McHenry Road was one example. "We don't have to romance these developers," he said.

Don Jackson

The WHIP candidate said he was in favor of Wheeling's expansion into Lake County, and said he would like the village to oppose Buffalo Grove's proposed annexation to the north of the village. He said Wheeling should have considered the possibility of expanding and been prepared for Buffalo Grove's efforts to grow.

"It should have certainly been thought about," he said. "The fact that this caught us so offguard is another example of lack of planning."

JACKSON SAID other areas which have not been considered in current village planning include traffic, industrial growth and environmental considerations. He said problems in these areas indicate the present administration has not taken the best interest of the village into consideration.

According to Jackson, the present board does not keep in close contact with the people they represent. "I don't think it's a conspiracy," he said. "They seem to think they can run the village best in a cloud of secrecy."

For this reason Jackson said he thinks it would be difficult to work with the present board if he were the only member of his ticket elected. He said if he were the only WHIP candidate elected he would be "a voice in the wilderness."

Jackson said the present secrecy in the village made it difficult to assess the performance of much of the village staff. He said he seriously questioned the qualifications of the village engineer and said he would like to replace him with a firm of consulting engineers.

He said, however, he would have to wait until he was elected to evaluate the job Village Mgr. George Passolt is doing. "We certainly can't go in and make a broadside firing," he added.

JACKSON SAID another high-priority area was the development of adequate flood control programs. He said the village has already lost two years of work on these programs.

According to Jackson, the Heritage Park retention basin would be his first concern in the area of flood control. "Then the work should be done on the creek," he said. "And we should proceed with all haste on the retention basin the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) has inquired about."

Jackson admitted that although he has been a Wheeling resident for six years, he did not register to vote until last October. "I'm certainly not proud of the fact I've been apathetic," he explained. "The reason I finally did register was so I could get something accomplished."

For village trustee

Harold Fagan

If elected, Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) trustee candidate Harold Fagan said he would work to consolidate Buffalo Grove and Wheeling into one community.

"I think the village should seriously consider consolidation with Buffalo Grove so we can share our resources," he said. Fagan noted that the two communities are currently suffering from similar problems, like flooding. He said if the two villages combined, they would be able to solve these problems together instead of competing.

Fagan said, however, he did not think Buffalo Grove would accept the idea as long as the present Wheeling administration is in power. "From what I understand now, Buffalo Grove would like to see a change in administration — a more open administration — before they did this," he said.

According to Fagan, the WHIP party represents the kind of change in government Buffalo Grove is looking for.

FAGAN SAID he does not think the present village board has a reputation for being cooperative with either nearby communities or outside agencies. He said the village has not cooperated with either the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) or any other agency to solve local flooding problems.

He said if he were elected, major revisions in the flood program would be his first priority. For example, Fagan said he would like to put the entire Wheeling Drainage Ditch 15 or 20 feet underground. He said this would be a sound answer to Wheeling's flooding.

Fagan admitted that burying the creek would require both governmental funding and intercommunity cooperation. He explained, however, that he favored such long-range planning. "You've got to have a definite plan sooner or later," he said.

The candidate charged the present administration has not lived up to its promise of flood control. "It's that they have not carried through on their programs, and they have dragged their feet," he said.

ACCORDING TO Fagan, the village claims of flood control progress are misleading. He said programs often alleviate flooding in one area, but merely increase the problem in other parts of the village.

He said the present village promises to widen the creek and replace the Jeffrey Avenue Bridge are merely part of political campaigning. "It's election year and you promise everything at election years," he said.

Fagan said he would also like to make some changes in the present village staff. He said the first one to go would be Village Mgr. George Passolt, who he said was not qualified for his job.

The candidate also said he would separate the dual job of director of public works and village engineer. He said he would hire an engineering firm for consultation because he felt one man could not handle both positions.

FAGAN SAID the village has been quite lax in the area of planning. He said the village master plan calls for a mixture of single-family and planned unit developments, and charged the board has been ignoring this balance.

"The board has stated they are not interested in single-family homes," he said. "The present board decided they wanted PD-4 (planned developments)."

Fagan said he would handle this problem by going back to the master plan. "Once this is established, you stick to it," he said.

Mass transportation is another area that Fagan feels the village board has ignored. He said he favored regional planning instead of insignificant programs like the present village bus.

"THE BUS IS inadequate in that it really isn't serving anybody," he said. "I would stop the bus if it did not inconvenience any elderly person who is wholly dependent on it."

Fagan said he would also like to see more open board meetings. He said he would have the present ordinance governing board meetings changed to allow open discussion at these meetings.

The candidate said, however, he did not think he would be able to develop these programs if he were the only member of his ticket elected. "Basically I could not change anything by one vote," he said. He added that he would be willing to work with the other board members.

For village clerk

Marlene Bokina

Marlene Bokina, Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) candidate for village clerk, does not like the closed door on the village office.

She said it is symbolic of what she terms the current closed-door attitude of the village. "I'd like to get rid of that closed door, that buzzer system," she said. "That door represents a barrier to the people of the village."

Mrs. Bokina said if she is elected she will get rid of the door so residents will have free access to village offices.

Instead of the closed door, Mrs. Bokina said she would have a full-time receptionist on hand to channel citizens to the proper village officials. "We don't have that now," she explained. "We have four or five different girls."

OTHER THAN changing that part of office procedure, Mrs. Bokina is not sure what other changes she would make. She said no changes would be made in personnel until she had a chance to review the qualifications of the current office employees.

"You won't walk in and say everybody out," she said. "That would be impossible."

Mrs. Bokina said she would like to have some of her own people working in the village office. She explained, however, that these appointments would not be political.

"The village clerk is not a political job," she said. "It can't afford to be." As such, Mrs. Bokina said that while campaigning she is steering clear of those issues which do not relate to the office of clerk.

She explained that while she does support the stands of her party, she would not let her views influence her work in the office. Likewise, she said her employees should be able to hold their own political beliefs.

MRS. BOKINA SAID she would prefer the village clerk's job to be an appointed position. She said candidates now must seek support from a local political group. "If it was appointed, it would take the politics immediately out of that job," she said.

Presently, the village clerk holds two other appointed positions — collector and office manager. Mrs. Bokina said that if she was elected she should undertake those duties as well. "I feel it probably goes with the job," she said.

As clerk, however, Mrs. Bokina said her role would be as "a communicator between the people and the trustees." She said the current clerk is not serving this function. "I don't think she is getting the voice of the people across to the trustees," she said.

MRS. BOKINA SAID the major deficiency in the current office of the village clerk was the attitude of the office. "I think it's the attitude, the I-don't-care attitude," she said. "That's what I'm hearing from the people."

To remedy this situation, Mrs. Bokina said she would try different ways of reaching the people, including a special newsletter to keep residents informed. She also said she would prepare a more detailed board meeting agenda so that residents would understand the business of a meeting.

She also said she would consider initiating office hours on Saturday and starting an "open house" program so residents could become acquainted with the village hall.

Mrs. Bokina said that while it would be difficult to replace a clerk with 16 years' experience, she thinks her background in office management is sufficient to handle the changeover.

If she was the only member of her ticket elected to office, Mrs. Bokina said she thought it might be a difficult situation. "It would be sort of unbalanced, wouldn't it?" she said. She added, however, that it was a situation she would be able to handle. "After all, people are people," she said.

Religion Today...by Lester Kinsolving

Underground, conservative church periodicals on rise

AUSTIN, TEXAS—Dorothy A. Faber, a striking redhead and mother of two who lives here, is becoming widely known in ecclesiastical circles as "The Episcopal Dragon Lady" — even though she was once the editor of "Real Romances" magazine.

For Mrs. Faber, a graduate of the University of Missouri's famed school of journalism and a veteran daily newspaper and wire service reporter, is editor of "The Christian Challenge." This unofficial and independent Episcopal monthly magazine is a pioneer among a growing number of underground — and conservative — church periodicals.

These include such reasonable publications as "The Good News" (Methodist) and "The Presbyterian Layman," as well as the strident "Christian News," which has helped significantly in igniting one of history's most bitter liberal-conservative civil wars, within the 2.9 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

As for "The Christian Challenge," most Episcopal bishops and other clergy regard Mrs. Faber's work as if it were a diocesan banquet catered by the original Typhoid Mary.

BUT THE Dragon Lady is butwarmed by a hardy and elfin sense of humor, an elephantine memory, a gigantic filing system and an impressive instinct for the hierarchical jugular.

She has therefore been able to report an average of at least a half dozen major or minor Episcopal scandals (or absolutely hilarious boo boos) in every issue of "The Challenge" for most of the past decade.

These unquestionably newsworthy incidents have generally been loftily ignored by the denomination's heavily subsidized official magazine, "The Episcopalian."

Since Episcopals are generally too sensibly sophisticated to appreciate the editorial Pabulum resulting from such puerile censorship, "The Episcopalian's" circulation has plummeted to 102,000, among the denomination's 3.2 million members.

THE SUBSIDIZED "Christian Challenge" has at the same time climbed to 77,000 — this in addition to four other independent and unsubsidized Episcopal periodicals ("The Living Church," "The American Church News," "The Anglican Digest" and "The Churchman").

Last Fall, the national Episcopal headquarters commissioned an unprecedented listen-to-the-grass-roots investigation. At a cost of $84,000, a specially trained task force of 101 people traveled 463,365 miles and met with 6,000 diocesan leaders for depth level discussion and tabulated evaluation of the present national Episcopal program.

Among results of this massive survey and evaluation, "The Episcopalian" has evoked "strong dissatisfaction" as being "neither a true house organ nor an effective church-wide channel."

Despite this horrendous X rating, "Episcopalian" editor Henry McCorkle and his band of editorial ostriches have revealed that, if little else, they surely have chutzpah. For in the very teeth of this all-"F" report card, they have asked the financially impoverished denomination to virtually quadruple their present subsidy of $185,000 per annum, because:

"We are most anxious to put our accumulated experience and our professional skills to work on a new kind of periodical."

WHILE THIS IS reminiscent of the classic lad who having murdered his parents pleaded for mercy because he was an orphan, McCorkle & Co. will probably be able to continue on the Episcopal Church payroll, at least until May of 1974 when Presiding Bishop John E. Hines' resignation takes effect.

For this column has learned that Bishop Hines was adamantly refused to fire the leader of another of the national survey's disaster areas in the Episcopal church's national program; Brooklyn black militant Leon Modeste.

For "Modest Leon" as revealed in official reports to the Episcopal Executive Council, has discriminated against other minority groups in his administration of the $6 million General Convention Special Program. He has even employed a Black Muslim as one of his assistants.

This column has learned that a number of executive council members have already asked Hines to fire Modeste — without success. As Virginia Theological Seminary's reversed theologian A. T. Mollegen puts it:

"Is there any way to get a Presiding Bishop who will fire Modeste? This is a serious issue which no candidate should be allowed to evade when Bishop Hines' successor is elected next September in Louisville."

Seven candidates in running

Two three-year seats up in Dist. 211 race

Robert Creek

by WANDALYN RICE

When Robert Creek cut off discussion of the high school attendance boundaries in Schaumburg Township at the High School Dist. 211 board meeting one night, he made many of the residents at the meeting angry.

Looking back, however, Creek does not believe the issue could have come out differently. The residents of Hanover Park were protesting the fact their children were being bused to two different high schools, but, Creek says, "I don't think there was any other decision to make about where Hanover Park was going to school."

When he cut off discussion on the issue, Creek adds, "It was because I and other board members felt that to prolong it was offering false hope. Someone had to bite the bullet, so I bit it. Maybe with a different personality I could have done it nicer, but it had to be done."

At the same time Creek, who has been president of the Dist. 211 board for three years, says he can understand the reasons the residents involved in the boundary shifts are unhappy. "If I'd been in any of those people's shoes," he says, "I probably would have been acting the same way they were acting."

Creek, who is vice president of administration for Union Oil Co. and a resident of Inverness, ran for the board three years ago saying he wanted to put the district into better financial shape. Now that the district no longer has to borrow money to meet its budget, Creek says he would like to see the emphasis on the board change.

"THERE'S MORE and more of the educational process showing up at the board meetings," he says. "We're in three businesses, really. We're in the business of providing an academic general education, providing career education and doing what the state tells us to do. The important thing is to link them."

Several years ago, Creek's son became the first student to attend both Harper College and a Dist. 211 high school simultaneously. Since then a cooperative program providing classes for high school students has developed involving high school districts 214 and 224 as well as 211.

That program, Creek says, has been expanding well and if he and Jessalyn Nicklas, his Inverness neighbor who is president of the Harper board, are both re-elected "I think the two boards will get together for another joint meeting."

With a unit school district study under way in Schaumburg Township, Creek, like the board as a whole, says he will take a "wait and see" attitude toward any changes in district organization.

However, he does have some general feelings about forming unit districts and thereby combining elementary and high schools under a single board of education. "I think there is good cohesion in Dist. 211 as it is," he says. "I suspect that there is a vast amount of conflict in a unit district between the elementary side and the secondary side."

IN ADDITION, Creek says he feels there are certain optimum sizes for school districts and that to split Dist. 211 so there were fewer high schools in each half "would make Fremd, for example, and all the other schools, less good."

Creek often tells the audiences at board meetings that the board's most difficult job is deciding on student expulsions. Even so, Creek recalls cases in which parents have actually thanked the board after a student has been expelled.

"In better than half the cases," he says, "an expulsion action is very positive, but if we knew a better way to handle discipline, we'd do it."

In most cases the students expelled have not been attending school, he says, but once they are out "many of them come back. I sign night school diplomas for a lot of them."

THE BOARD IS now considering starting "open lunch" programs at the schools in which students would be allowed to leave campus during their lunch periods. So far the board has proceeded cautiously, saying it must get reaction from parents before a change is made.

Personally, Creek says, "I am on the side of no open lunch, but not very strongly. I could be persuaded." He says open lunch may cause scheduling problems and may "make it harder for students to get a good education." In general, he says, "I have a number of reservations about it, and I don't see anything great to be gained on the other side."

On the question of negotiating with the district is teachers, Creek takes the pragmatic view. "Everything is negotiable, but that doesn't mean we're going to give in." He adds, "We've had some very tough negotiations in Dist. 211, but we've managed to settle them without giving away the store or having any lasting rancor."

Dianne Marks

by WANDALYN RICE

Dianne Marks of Hoffman Estates has been president of the Schaumburg Township Elementary Dist. 54 board, so it was natural when she decided to run for the High School Dist. 211 board that she began to compare it to the Dist. 54 board.

After sitting through several Dist. 211 meetings, Miss Marks said, "They're more formal, they're less friendly and they don't seem to have as much fun, but I'm sure they do a good job."

One thing Miss Marks thinks the Dist. 211 board can improve on is its relationship with the citizens who come before the board.

"I would like to see more information made available to the people who sit in the audience," she says, noting that it is a problem to follow the board's actions as a spectator. In addition, she believes the board should hear residents out when they come to complain.

"I WOULD rather sit there until 1 a.m. to let everyone have their say," she adds, "than have someone feel out of it. If people feel they will always be heard, even when the board can't do anything, then your community will have some confidence in you."

One issue Miss Marks believes she will be able to help the Dist. 211 board with is the question of formation of a unit school district. A study is now under way in Schaumburg Township which may affect Dist. 211. A unit school district in the township combining grades kindergarten through high school, would mean Dist. 211 would lose some of its territory.

"Since I've been on an elementary board, I think I'd be in a unique situation to help make decisions on a unit district with the high school board," she says. "I may change my mind when the studies are done, but right now I like the educational specialization the dual districts (separate elementary and high school districts) give us."

In addition, she believes communication can be improved between the high schools and elementary schools and would like to work on that as a board member. "I can only speak for Dist. 54," she says, "but, for example, in the foreign language program the French our children take in junior high doesn't do much good when they get to high school."

Another area Miss Marks believes is important is planning for growth in high school enrollments, particularly in Schaumburg Township. The district has Hoffman Estates High School under construction and another school site on Plum Grove Road in the eastern part of the township and "from what I can see they will need another high school site in Schaumburg Township," Miss Marks says.

A GOOD location for such a site, she says, would be the eastern part of the township in the vicinity of Hanover Park.

On the question of salary negotiations with the district's teachers, Miss Marks, who voted against the last salary contract in Dist. 54, says, "I'm not really against the teachers. I believe teachers are entitled to a fair wage and to form associations and bargain, but my big hang-up is arbitration. I don't believe elected officials have the right to give their responsibilities away to someone

Dist. 211 election April 14

Seven candidates are competing for the two three-year seats on the High School Dist. 211 board that will be filled in the April 14 election.

The candidates will appear on the ballot in this order: Orland Vangsness, Hanover Park; Dianne Marks, Hoffman Estates; Robert Weseman, Roselle; Edward Perry, Palatine; Robert Creek, Inverness; Countryside; John Heuman, Hoffman Estates, and John Kennedy, Palatine.

High School Dist. 211 schools: Palatine High School, Fremd High School, Schaumburg High School, Conant High School.

John Heuman

by JERRY THOMAS

An insider — that's how teacher John Heuman describes himself as he seeks a seat on the Dist. 211 board.

Heuman, a teacher at Maine South High School, has been endorsed by the political action arm of the Dist. 211 Education Association, the district's teacher bargaining group. He believes as an educator his experience will provide valuable insight on the board.

"I'd bring an appreciation of what goes on in the classroom to board discussion," he said.

He adds that he does not want to be directly involved in teacher contract negotiations. Instead, he says he will discuss teacher demands with the board members doing the direct negotiations. "I'd know if the demands were excessive or reasonable," he says, "and would act as a taxpayer and representative of the district."

HEUMAN SAYS HE would like to see better use of teachers in Dist. 211 and adds that teachers should have more to say about curriculum and programs than they do now.

He is critical of the curriculum Dist. 211 is now offering students and thinks the students' time is being wasted on some courses.

Every student should be taught a skill, whether he is college bound or not, Heuman says.

He says he believes the schools can increase student interest by offering a greater variety of meaningful courses, adding, "It's time schools stopped being diploma factories or just some place to get out of early so you can go to work."

He points out that large numbers of students in Dist. 211 do hold jobs and, although no one can prevent that, he says, "Ideally, a kid's job should be getting a good education, but if he has to work, then his parents and employers should be the ones to place greater emphasis on schooling."

HEUMAN BELIEVES school boards should work with other community and youth organizations to bring the young people back into the schools in the evenings.

"We waste school facilities. Things like our libraries, gymnasiums and auditoriums sit empty most evenings and weekends and should be utilized for social activities, and students should be encouraged to attend," he said.

He says he does not favor giving students "open lunch" by allowing them to leave school during their lunch periods. For one thing, he says, "The business community wouldn't stand for it."

In addition, he says, "If you let them outside for lunch, a lot of them won't make it back to class on time, no matter how much time they have."

STUDENTS IN Dist. 211 may rebel at being held in the school during lunch because they have a 20-minute homeroom scheduled after lunch, he says. "Usually homeroom means 150 kids are talking, sleeping or wasting time," he says. Offer students interesting classes and don't force them to waste time and they won't have time to rebel."

On discipline, Heuman's philosophy is based on control.

"You can't have education unless the teacher is in control," he says. Expulsion should be used, but only as a last resort.

His view on school financing is direct. "We should get more state aid and less strings attached to the money."

"I don't think property tax is the fairest taxation but if we let the state assume the complete financing of schools they will also take complete control — something I'm against," Heuman says.

A sound building program and development of the curriculum are also his concerns.

Heuman, his wife Rachel and children reside in Hoffman Estates. He is a member of the National and Illinois Education Associations, and National and Illinois Councils of Social Studies Teachers.

John Kennedy

by WANDALYN RICE

John Kennedy has watched school districts operate for the past 12 years from the inside. Now he would like to be on the inside to try to change some of the things he's seen.

A resident of Palatine for 2½ years, Kennedy has been calling on schools in Lake and Cook counties for 12 years as a salesman for IBM. "The exposure to the school systems has given me a great understanding," he says.

As a member of the High School Dist. 211 board, Kennedy would disqualify himself from voting on matters that might affect his company and would ask that he be relieved of sales responsibility in the area. He will, however, bring his sales background to the board.

Increasingly, he says, he has seen school districts cut back on the quality of purchases to meet budgets. This can often be more expensive in the long-run, he says, and "I want to take a closer look at some of the things the school district is doing."

HE POINTS TO one example of what he means from his experience visiting Dist. 211's administration building. "I have gone in and seen girls collating things by hand by walking around desks. I asked why they didn't get a collating machine and they said they didn't have money in the budget. So they pay all those girls to walk around tables."

In addition, Kennedy points out that the district, because of budget problems, has never bought a small press for their in-house printing. "They send a lot of the stuff out and pay top dollar," he says. "They are the only high school district I know of that doesn't have an offset press."

Kennedy would like to see the school district take advantage of the state's purchasing system for some of the materials it buys. "They can try to get a better price through their own bidding," he says, "but if the state has a good price, they should take advantage of it."

Another thing that bothers Kennedy is the way the board meetings are run. "The board meetings seem almost closed to the public," he says. He dislikes the requirement that anyone who wants to speak to the board must write in advance and says he would like to see audience participation allowed on any item on the agenda.

He adds, "From what I've seen Bob Creek (board president and a candidate for re-election) controls this board and he expedites the things he wants expedited and spends more time on the things he is interested in. There's no doubt that he's a dedicated and competent man, but the board is made up of seven people."

WHEN HE LIVED in Waukegan, Kennedy helped form the Lake County Community College and later worked for the formation of a unit school district in Waukegan, which combined elementary and high schools under one board.

He says he is "delighted" that a study on unit districts is under way in Schaumburg Township and says if possible "I would love to see a unit district."

He adds, "I'm a unit district fan and I think the high schools and grade schools should be under the same superintendent and board and should be community oriented." That is true for Palatine Township as well as Schaumburg Township, he says.

Assuming that Dist. 211 remains a high school district, however, Kennedy would like to see a study of the feasibility of providing indoor swimming pools for some or all of the schools. "I can't believe that a high school district in this wealthy area can't afford swimming pools," he says.

On the question of student discipline, Kennedy says, "The principal should be the primary decision maker." He also supports proposals to allow students to arrange their schedules to arrive late or leave school early, but opposes giving students "open lunch" by allowing them to leave their schools during lunch periods.

"OUR SCHOOLS aren't located with a lot of restaurants around like in Chicago," he says. "I think if you let the students get into their cars to go somewhere, you're looking for trouble."

Kennedy would like to see vocational education programs expanded in the schools, saying, "It's the school's responsibility to help students learn to make a living."

He would also like to see major changes in the ways schools are financed in Illinois. "Hawaii has the best answer. It's a state-wide school system," he says.

Reform in Illinois could take the form of a state-wide property tax and income tax with money being allocated to the schools throughout the state, he says. Local control could be maintained through local boards.

Kennedy has four children, none yet attending Dist. 211 schools. He is past president of the Hunting Ridge Homeowners Association in Palatine.

Edward Perry

by JULIA BAUER

Edward Perry has seen many school districts in his lifetime. After four children and 25 moves, the retired Air Force colonel says he's settled to stay in Palatine and wants to take on the job of being a member of the Dist. 211 board.

Perry, 52, lives in unincorporated Palatine Township. He retired from the military in 1961, worked in the aerospace industry and is now a Palatine real estate salesman.

He decided to run for the high school board, he says, because he knows more about high schools than elementary schools. He feels Dist. 211 "is relatively good as far as school districts go."

He taught air science at Bradley University, and has a master's degree in educational psychology.

Looking at today's students, Perry says, "I believe young people 13 to 14 years old know more than I did when I was 18." And that outlook has affected the way Perry approaches some current issues in Dist. 211.

"Open lunch," where students allowed to leave the school grounds, should be approved with some controls, he says.

"In California, they've had open lunch for years and it doesn't seem to have hampered education," he says, describing one system his children attended.

Perry says his strong points on the school board would be in capital improvement programs and curriculum. Teacher negotiations is one area he would rather avoid, partially because he has been a teacher himself.

"I believe that teaching is a profession and not just another job. It's a difficult job and sometimes more misunderstood than understood," he says.

Teachers, class size and school environment are chief influences on the quality of education, according to Perry, and the school board's job is to "provide the best education with the funds available."

Financing is another major problem facing school board members. Perry views the property tax as unfair in these times, as a tax "for being prudent and saving."

"In pure theory, I would favor an income tax only," Perry says. "Anytime money comes from a source, that source tends to want to control how it spends the money."

Elementary and secondary school district should remain separate and not consolidate into unit school districts, he says.

"Elementary and secondary education are different," according to Perry. "The state licenses them differently (in teacher certification requirements) for one thing."

In addition, he says, "I cannot believe there are any savings at all" with unit school districts.

Vocational education is another of Perry's concerns. He says two events marked the increased need for vocational education. One was the return of the World War II GI to college "challenging professors to prove why they were teaching." The expansion of junior colleges also brought a greater push for education not leading to a college degree, he says.

Today's vocational education courses "are a step in the right direction," but they should be aimed even more at preparing youths to earn a living.

Discipline has been a way of life for Perry, who was an Air Force unit commander for 11 years. He admits his most difficult task as a school board member will be "to adjust my frame of reference to the frame of reference the students would use."

"All I could hope to do would be to lend mature judgment to those decisions." For most students, Perry believes strictness doesn't necessarily enhance education.

"Most rules should be 'should rules,' not 'should not rules,'" he says.

He says Dist. 211 may be becoming complacent about the education it offers, but "sooner or later, some changes are going to be made."

Do-it-yourselfers will find a barrel of new ideas for thrifty pastime every Thursday in the HERALD.

election 73 Schools race in homestretch

Robert Weseman

by MARILYN HEISER

School board candidate Robert Weseman describes himself as pro-labor and opposed to increasing educational bureaucracy.

As a mathematics teacher at Taft High School on the far northwest side of Chicago and a member of the Chicago Teachers Union, he sees the teachers' and the students' sides of many issues as candidate for the Dist. 211 board.

As an example, he points to the controversy over transferring students from Sunset Hills in unincorporated Schaumburg Township out of Schaumburg High School and into Conant High.

"I think the freshmen students at Schaumburg were deprived of their constitutional rights simply because they were students," he says. "They should have had the option of transferring or remaining at Schaumburg. I would work for student rights as a board member."

WESEMAN SAYS he suspects the board forced the students to transfer because of problems with cost and staff transfer. adding, "The board finds the money to spend on so many things like non-classroom costs. If they had done this to an adult he'd scream bloody murder and go to the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union)."

Weseman was persuaded to run by his neighbors in Sunset Hills, most of whom were particularly upset with Board Pres. Robert Creek because of the boundary shift. However, after attending more board meetings, Weseman says, "I really have to respect Mr. Creek. I may disagree with him, but at least he stands up and makes decisions. He seems to really know what's going on."

In line with his opposition to increased administrative costs, he is "unalterably opposed" to the formation of a Schaumburg unit district, combining elementary and high schools under a single board. "It increases the opportunity for more educational bureaucracy, a proven danger in any system that gets too large. It will unnecessarily increase costs. I'm very pro-labor but the elementary teachers will want a single salary scale (same pay as high school teachers) and that will increase costs."

WESEMAN SAID HE would volunteer to serve on the board's negotiation committee because "someone should be on there who's pro-labor." He also supports the idea teachers should have class size guarantees and other classroom conditions spelled out in their contracts. "I feel teachers should have rights as well as responsibilities," he says.

This concept of responsibility applies to his attitude on student discipline. "Much of the discipline problem is caused by lack of supervision," Weseman says. In truancy cases, he adds, "I would hold the people accountable who are recommending expulsion."

While he says he has never expelled a student in 15 years of teaching, he agrees expulsion may be the only solution when a student refuses to come to school. But

Robert Weseman

Orland Vangsness

by WANDALYN RICE

Orland Vangsness is from Hanover Park, an area that has never before been represented on the High School Dist. 211 board.

As a result, one of Vangsness' first actions if he is elected to the board will be to try to reopen discussion of Schaumburg Township school attendance boundaries. As the boundaries are now set for next year, students from Hanover Park will be split and bused to Hoffman Estates and Conant high schools, East Schaumburg High School.

"I don't know if it will be possible to rearrange the busing in Schaumburg Township," he says, "but I want to look at some of the alternatives they studied and then maybe reopen it."

The Schaumburg Township boundary issue is not all that's prompting Vangsness to run for the board, however. Two years ago he was thinking of running when he suffered a heart attack. Now, he says, he is ready to run.

A FIVE-YEAR resident of the area, Vangsness says, "I've been a long time observer of education." He and his family lived in Champaign where he served on a Chamber of Commerce education committee. He has also served on Hanover Park PTA committees.

He believes high schools should increase their vocational education programs and, although he is impressed by Dist. 211's programs, says, "I think the counseling may have lagged behind the programs."

One thing he would like to do as a board member is to make sure counselors are aware of the need to guide students into vocational areas.

He says communication between the high school district and the public should be improved and, to this end, he promises to meet with Hanover Park area residents every six weeks if elected. He says he would like to see other board members do the same thing in other parts of the district.

HE SAYS HE is watching the study of unit school districts now underway in Schaumburg Township, but, as a former resident of an area having elementary and high schools combined under a single board and administration, he says, "I have seen systems where the high school athletes get all the money and I've seen the battle between what are now separate systems."

He says he might favor a unit district "if I could see long-range tax advantages."

Regarding salary negotiations with teachers, Vangsness says, "I have no objection to whatever is reasonable in the way of salaries." He also "can't see why railroad workers can strike and teachers can't."

He opposes "open lunch" where students can leave school during their lunch hours. "We have enough discipline problems and traffic problems now," he says.

ON THE GENERAL question of student discipline, he says schools seem to grant "plenty of student freedom." He adds, "I think dress codes are a good idea, but the law won't let you have them."

As a member of Highlands School PTA, Vangsness studied the possibility of a year-round school. He would like to see that studied on a district-wide basis.

"We found that there are a lot of advantages of year-round school," he says, "but it can't be done in just one school at a time. The one big negative was the effect it might have on mothers who work during the school year and are off during the summer, but airing the idea wouldn't be bad."

Vangsness has worked for IBM for 25 years. He has six children, four of whom have graduated from school.

Making money at home

Betsy's a figurine fanatic

by ELEANOR RIVES

She calls herself a figurine fanatic. One look at her house convinces you that Mrs. Raymond Vogt thoroughly enjoys the pleasures of plaster. Wall hangings, shelf decorations, knickknacks, centerpieces, lamps, fruit trees, candleholders, plaques, bookends, miniature animals, busts of famous people, picture frames, vases — you name it, she has it. Her painting talent is evident in every room of the house.

The Vogts, formerly of Elk Grove Village, moved to 915 Bradford Lane, Schaumburg, last July — children, dog, cat, figurines, plaster, paints and all. By Christmas, Betsy was holding a super-spectacular home bazaar with hundreds of people thronging through her house all day.

But selling from home is the exception; working at home is the rule. "Elizabeth Vogt Figurines" has grown enough to reach into hobby and gift shops and to warrant large commission jobs from national companies.

MUCH OF ITS success is undoubtedly due to Betsy's positive attitude. "Any ambitious, aggressive housewife who has a little business knowledge and is proud of what she does can make money at home," she asserted.

With Mrs. Vogt, it all began as a fluke. When she got bored with the Christmas gifts she had been making, a neighbor suggested she try painting plaster figurines. Betsy, who throws herself into a thing, went out and bought $100 worth of materials. She chose gifts to match the tastes of her friends, colors to match the decor of their homes. So well were they received that she's been painting plaster ever since.

People began buying the decorations right off her walls, the lamps right off her dressers, the centerpieces from her tables. "Why don't you put these things in gift shops?" asked her friends. And so she did, about two years ago.

Now her painted pieces are sold in "The Holy Cow" in Arlington Heights, "The Art Mart" in Schaumburg, "The Farmer's Daughter" in Elk Grove Village and in shops in Roselle, Keeneyville, Rockton and a shop in Kentucky. Her Aztec calendar decorates the wall of an Elk Grove restaurant. Her Early American lamp, with carefully depicted colonial scenes, one on each of its four sides, is displayed in the window of Craft Castle in Arlington Heights as an incentive for would-be plaster painters.

"I THINK IT'S the best thing I ever did," said Mrs. Vogt. It's certainly the most expensive. It's worth $65.

Not so with all of Betsy's finished work, though. Her miniature animals — frogs, turtles — sell for as little as 75 cents; her largest, heaviest wall decoration, $35, with a complete range of prices between most hovering near $5.

PAINTING PLASTER is a pleasure if you have a steady hand, patience and an eye for color. Betsy Vogt demonstrates how imaginative use of color heightens the design of a plaster jewel box. She developed her own technique of muting colors and dry brushing to produce the antique effect of the fruit compote at right. Betsy uses her "plaster money" for home furnishings.

"I like doing details," said Betsy. "Like tiny eyelashes. Faces are the most challenging. They require real concentration and a steady hand. I feel if I can put on my own make-up well, I can really do faces."

After her work was established in shops, Mrs. Vogt began exhibiting in art shows which opened new avenues for sales through commission jobs. Plaster supply companies needed samples for their showrooms; craft and hobby shops needed finished products to display.

She is currently "cowboy conscious" as she submits samples of her work to a company in need of 2,000 such figurines.

With two little cowboys of her own,

Christopher, 4, and Gregory, 15 months, one might wonder when Mrs. Vogt finds time to devote to painting. She explained that she works five hours a day at her craft, early in the morning while the baby naps and Greg is in nursery school, and after the children are in bed for the night.

BETSY IS ONE of those people who never sits down, never takes a nap, is never still a minute. Besides her profitable hobby, she is a substitute high school English teacher and a lay reader, grading 150 themes per week. She taught plaster figurine painting for the Schaumburg Park District last fall, gives programs for women's groups entitled "Plaster Pleasures — by a Figurine Fanatic" and is in charge of the Schaumburg Art Show to be held May 20 at the Park District's administration building. She will be painting figurines in the "Do-It-Yourself Show" at the International Amphitheater May 2-6.

"A small hobby can lead anywhere," declared Betsy. "You can go as deep as you wish. One link leads to another. I enjoy what I'm doing and I enjoy buying furnishings for the house with the extra income. We bought our piano with plaster money."

"Any totally organized person with a little initiative can earn money at home. But," she added reflectively, "home, husband and kids must come first."

Next On The Agenda

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS JUNIORS "The Child with Learning Disabilities" will be the topic discussed by Dr. Keith R. McCloskey, at tonight's meeting of Arlington Juniors.

Dr. McCloskey is on the staff at Northwest Community Hospital, the board of directors of COULD, a member of the board of Kirk School and is affiliated with the University of Chicago. He will answer questions following his discussion.

Election of officers for the 1973-74 year will also be held.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS OES

Mrs. Ruth Randle, worthy matron of Arlington Heights Chapter 992, Order of Eastern Star, has scheduled "Friends' Night" for Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, 1104 S. Arlington Heights Road.

Mrs. Dorothy Capen, worthy matron of Betsy Ross Chapter, will be the guest worthy matron, and Douglas Capen, worthy patron of Betsy Ross Chapter, will serve as the guest worthy patron.

Mrs. Edna Young, worthy matron of Glenview Chapter, will be guest of honor. Other officers of Arlington Heights Chapter have each invited a friend to serve as a guest officer.

MOUNT PROSPECT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB Guest speaker for Thursday's April 12th dinner meeting for Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club will be WBEM Outdoor Editor Art Mercier.

He is considered one of the nation's outstanding hunting and fishing experts, providing WBEM Newsradio 78 audiences coverage of all outdoor activities in the Midwest.

This is VIP night for the club and the members bring husband, sons, boyfriends or any other man of their choice.

Anyone wanting to know more about the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club may phone Betty Bolanos at 392-1100 during the day.

PALATINE NEWCOMERS

Palatine Newcomers will present "Do You Remember?" a nostalgic evening of fashions, music and history from 1900 to 1970 Thursday evening at Howard Johnson's on Northwest Highway, Palatine. The evening's affair begins at 8 p.m. and reservations should be made with Mrs. E. L. Mathisen, 358-3506.

Mrs. George Mahan, 230 Greenwood, is having a morning coffee Tuesday, April 17, at 9:30. Children are welcome but the hostess must be notified how many children are coming.

Mrs. John Morrisroe, 1661 Myrtle, will have an evening coffee at 8 o'clock Wednesday, April 18. Persons wanting to attend either coffee should call Mrs. Adrian Mohr, 359-0129, for reservations.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Des Plaines Chapter 635 of the Women of the Moose will hold a closed formal meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Moose Hall on River Road.

Mrs. Cyril Shanley is chairman for this "Membership Chapter Night." Co-workers are urged to attend to enjoy a special presentation of interest to old members as well as new.

In March, six new members enrolled in the Defending Circle: Marion Kuches, Lois Silk, Irene Nickalski, Carol Dooze, Peggy Goscinski, and Patricia Kowalski.

Green Cap co-worker Mrs. Don Roberts will be honored on Thursday, April 26.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS AAUW

"Woo Who May Wilson," an award-winning film documentary, will be viewed and discussed by members and guests at the Thursday general meeting of Arlington Heights Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

The meeting at the Methodist Church of the Incarnation, 330 W. Golf Road, Arlington Heights, will begin at 8:15 p.m., preceded by coffee at 7:15.

The Contemporary Thought Study group will serve as hostesses for the meeting.

"Woo Who May Wilson" tells the story of a Midwestern woman whose husband tells her that she no longer fits into his life because of her desire to express her artistic ability. The film shows Mrs. Wilson as she leaves for New York to build a new life style.

Members may bring guests and all interested college graduates from the surrounding area are invited. For information those interested may call Mrs. Thomas Bogen, membership chairman, 358-7374.

WHEELING GOP WOMEN

Mary Runion of the Illinois Attorney General's office will speak at 1 p.m. Thursday to Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club. The group will be meeting in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Library, 500 N. Dunton St.

Mrs. Runion will explain how her office can help those who feel they were pressured into buying magazines, those whose used cars suddenly develop new ailments and those with a myriad of other consumer complaints.

For the convenience of area residents a local branch of the attorney general's office has opened at the Buffalo Grove Village Hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. Runion operates this local office.

RIVERVIEW HOME-MAKERS

Members are asked to bring their white elephants and any arts and crafts they wish to sell to the Riverview Homemakers meeting Friday at South Park. Arts and crafts will be sold from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. when white elephants will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

There will also be an egg craft exhibit and a cake decorating demonstration by Helene Detzner. "What to bring for your dish garden" is the subject for the discussion period. Hostesses for this meeting are Mrs. Alfred Hasz, Mrs. W. Giese, Mrs. Henry Kussa, and Mrs. R. Ingles. Members are urged to bring guests.

Plans are underway for the May 10 spring luncheon at River Forest Country Club. Entitled "Vanities and Sanities," it will follow the ecology theme of creating something wearable from discards. Prizes will be awarded.

MAINE TOWNSHIP GOP

Candidates for election in the city of Des Plaines have been invited to speak at the open monthly meeting of the Maine Township Republican Woman's Club Friday. The meeting will be held in Oehler's Community Room, beginning with a social hour at 12:30 p.m.

The speakers will include City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach, running unopposed; incumbent Mayor Herbert Behrer, David Wolf and Burton Kosmen, all seeking election to the mayoral office; and incumbent Treasurer Irving Rateike and Thomas Mahon, candidates for the treasurer's post.

TOASTMISTRESSES

Council 6 includes the Terrace Club which serves the Paddock circulation area. Members of Terrace will serve as hostesses.

Babies share horoscope

It's not uncommon for roommates in the maternity ward to have babies on the same day. But it is a bit unusual for them to have babies just one minute apart, especially when both are little girls who were exactly eight days overdue.

The Mount Prospect babies who will share the same horoscope are Debbie Irene Lund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon T. Lund, 1717 Robbie Lane, and Kristin Patricia Stocke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stocke, 1540 Dempster.

Debbie, who weighed 10 pounds 7 ounces, has a 3-year-old sister Deanna, and her grandparents are the Clarence Kumerows of Chicago, and Mrs. Irene Lund of Park Ridge.

Kristin, the first child for her parents, weighed 7 pounds 4 ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cicerchia, Mount Prospect, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stocke, Duluth, Minn., are Kristin's grandparents.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Mayumi Mary Yamaze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yasuro Yamaze, 970 Jefferson Square, Elk Grove Village, was born March 23. The baby weighed 7 pounds 1/2 ounce.

Adam Christian Prybyl, first child for Dr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Prybyl, 920 Sterling, Palatine, was born March 25 weighing 8 pounds 3 3/4 ounces. Grandparents of Adam are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shorb, Palatine, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Prybyl, Park Ridge.

Paul Brian Knaub was a March 27 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Knaub, 1218 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights. The 8 pound 4 1/2 ounce baby is a brother for 3-year-old Julie and a grandson for Chicago residents Mr. and Mrs. Philip Capipelli and Herman Knaub.

Cynthia Ann Gibson is a sister for 2-year-old Jennifer in the William R. Gibson home at 8 Beechwood Court, Buffalo Grove. She was born March 28 weighing 9 pounds 15 ounces. Mrs. Kay Gibson, Des Plaines, and Mr. and Mrs. John Saylor, Chicago, are the grandparents of the girls.

Brigitte Michelle Marcus is the first child for Mr. and Mrs. Mark L. Marcus, 1522 Quaker Lane, Wheeling. She was born March 29 weighing 7 pounds 1 ounce. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Marcus, Buffalo Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rogala, Niles, are the baby's grandparents.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Justin Edward Barkley was a March 29 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Barry R. Barkley, 4700 Kenilworth, Rolling Meadows. John Austin, 4, is the brother of the 7 pound 3 ounce baby, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Ragsdale, Indianapolis, Ind., and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Roark, Peoria, Ill., are the grandparents.

OTHER HOSPITALS

Victoria Rose Duda was born April 4 in Resurrection Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Duda, 433 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights. The 7 pounds 15 ounce baby is a sister for 6-year-old Lora Rose, and a granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Duda, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Wood Dale.

Robert George Housworth was a Feb. 11 arrival in Sherman Hospital for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Housworth Jr. of Rolling Meadows. Dawn, 8, and Ronald, 5, are the sister and brother of the 8 pound 13 ounce baby. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Housworth, Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. George Springer, Algonquin, are the grandparents of the children.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I was greatly interested in what you had to say about the wattages of certain electrical appliances. I'm not certain whether these are the amounts consumed per minute, five minutes or hour. Can you explain?

—Mrs. Barbara Sonneberg
Oh, it had nothing to do with the time you have an appliance going — it was a guide so consumers would know what can reasonably and safely go on a circuit load. Time-usage is something else. The utilities charge by the kilowatt hour (kwh) for electricity. The simplest example is a single 100-watt bulb. If it's on for an hour, you've used 100 watts; for 10 hours, it would be 1,000 watts (one kilowatt hour). A clock takes two watts. If used 24 hours a day constantly, it would figure out to 17,520 watts for a year or roughly 17 kwh.

Dear Dorothy: I recently bought a new set of ceramic canisters. Granulated sugar becomes hard and lumpy in them, although I never had that trouble with my old wooden ones. I've put a piece of apple in the canister but no luck. Do you know of an answer?

—Mrs. W. Toutant
Either the cover isn't tight or the canister is porous. Air containing moisture is coming in from somewhere. Apple is fine for brown sugar (it needs moisture) but not for granulated sugar. You can check whether it is the cover or not by putting in a fresh supply of sugar, covering the top with a piece of foil, then putting the cover on tightly. If after a few days the sugar still gets lumpy, you've got a porous container.

Dear Dorothy: Soak sliced eggplant or sliced cucumber in salted water for an hour or two — and you'll never have a bitter taste. I've done this for 40 years.

—Adelaide Jarman
(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 220, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Auxiliary aids drug program

The national president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Mrs. Lola Reid, has chosen drug abuse as her special program and has asked the auxiliaries to place special emphasis on the program this year.

In accordance, the Elk Grove Auxiliary to VFW Post 9284 with the cooperation of A. Stone, principal of Grove Junior High, recently had two residents from Gateway House speak to the eighth grade students.

At a two-hour session members of Gateway, who are addicts themselves, spoke on how and why they started to take drugs and how it affected their lives; and how Gateway House has helped them. The two residents were 15 and 20 years of age. The session was followed by a question and answer period.

Mrs. R. Mayer, Auxiliary Drug Abuse Chairman, has also announced that a pilot program will be put into effect on the third grade level in the near future at Queen of the Rosary School, Elk Grove. This will be a coloring book featuring Kitty Kangaroo teaching the children the dangers in a medicine cabinet, who should give them medicines and why they should not take any medicines without their parents knowing or from strangers.

The auxiliary will also be sending out narcotic identification cards, to all post and auxiliary members of Post 9284. These cards name drugs, the symptoms of taking the drug and its reactions.

Fellowship to learn about new hospital

Archibald McKinlay, Director of Development and Communications for Rush-Presbyterian - St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, will be guest speaker at a Silver Tea Wednesday, at 1 p.m. at Southminster Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights. The tea is sponsored by the Women's Fellowship and the table will be prepared by members of Elizabeth Circle.

Mr. McKinlay's presentation will include a short film, and will reveal plans for the new hospital extension in Schaumburg, plus the educational endeavors of the medical center which involve Monmouth College, a Presbyterian supported liberal arts college and others.

All interested persons are invited. Babysitting will be available at 75 cents per child. For further information interested persons may call Mrs. David O'Neil, 439-6537.

A Weight No More Open House Tuesday

Weight No More classes at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights, will be holding an open house session Tuesday, April 17, at 8 p.m. in the field house, 500 S. Fernandez.

The classes include free recipes, private weigh-ins, group discussions and satisfying menus, plus personal attention from a nutrition expert who has lost 50 pounds on the program.

All who would like to lose weight are invited.

Annual meeting for gardeners

The annual meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois will be held April 15-17 at the La Salle Hotel, Chicago.

Area gardeners taking part in the meeting will be Joseph Kellen of Mount Prospect who will lecture on "Planting a Hanging Basket" and Mrs. Emil Fick, also of Mount Prospect, who will conduct a workshop for programs and flower shows.

Sunday night is the banquet for all presidents of clubs in the state, Monday night the awards banquet, and Tuesday at 1 p.m. is installation of officers. Mr. Kellen's lecture is planned for 11 a.m. Tuesday and Mrs. Fick's workshop will be Monday afternoon.

Reservations may be sent to Mrs. Bruno Ramthun, 2411 Brendenwood Road, Rockford, Ill.

Don't change road control

Taxpayers may suffer twice if legislation calling for a drastic alteration in the control of county highways is approved — their communities could be overburdened financially and highway travel could become even slower.

Either potential result is sufficient reason to oppose the proposal that would give virtually every village and city in the county more roads to maintain without any increase in revenue to do it. Taken together, they should cause all governmental officials in the county to work hard for defeat of the bill.

The proposed legislation, House Bill 511, would require that the portions of county highways within municipal borders become the responsibility of the village or city instead of the county.

The bill, unfortunately, says nothing about where those villages and cities are to locate the funds to finance the extra burden.

There are approximately 600 miles of county roads in Cook County, 400 of which lie within the borders of the 130 villages and cities. Under this bill, those communities would have to shoulder the added financial responsibility for control, maintenance and administration of those 400 miles without any additional funds.

The motorist-taxpayer, additionally, would also face the possible loss of continuity of travel along county roads.

Along with the maintenance of the roads, the municipalities would be responsible for such things as speed limits, parking regulations and weight limits.

A small village, then, could reduce the speed limit on an inter-city route, could allow parking on both sides of the street and could prohibit all truck travel.

The desires of a few people, then, could thwart the very purpose of a county road and could make automobile travel in Cook County even more aggravating than it is today.

There exists yet another reason to oppose HB 511—there is no reason to adopt it. State law already provides that a county and a village or city can agree to the transfer of jurisdiction of a county road.

If the two governmental bodies concerned could not reach an agreement, there seems to be no good reason to force the issue.

We fail to see how the residents of this county or the state can benefit from the passage of this bill.

If a jurisdictional change is desirable at all, it could only be accepted if it included an equitable method of funding and if the counties would bring their roads up to village standards before the switch was made.

House Bill 511 is one in a string of distasteful proposals made by the House Counties and Townships Committee and we urge its defeat.

Peace and 'humour'

The military staffs of NATO and the Warsaw Pact already enjoy a month's holiday a year. If this were increased by one month each succeeding year, by the end of 12 years they would be on permanent leave.

At the same time, the industrial side of the military-industrial complex could be paid time-and-a-half its usual profits for NOT producing war materials.

The world would thus be freed from the threat of global war and everyone would be happy.

This is the peace plan of APHIA, a new organization dedicated to the proposition that "the greater time the military have for fun, the more fun the rest of the world can have," and conceived in the belief "that in a world where increasing numbers of faceless leaders fumble uncertainly with ever-greater governmental power, humour is a vital necessity to the injection of sanity in international affairs."

APHIA, in fact, stands for Association for the Promotion of Humour in International Affairs. The word is spelled "humour" because, although its founder, Alfred E. Davidson, is an American, the association was launched and has its headquarters in London.

One way APHIA proposes to live up to its name is by awarding a Noble Prize (as distinguished from Nobel Prize) each year to candidates who have contributed to humor — er, humour.

Membership in APHIA is open to anyone with two pounds (about $4.80, although who knows these days?) and a sense of humour — but cautions that since it is a tax-avoiding rather than a tax-exempt organization, dues are not tax deductible. They must come from the heart.

Justice's mercy

A new law in Libya provides for cutting off the right hand of felons convicted of stealing, and of the left foot for armed robbery.

But justice will be tempered with mercy, says the Hastings Center Report.

The law also permits the amputation to be done by a surgeon, using anesthetics.

Hits Palatine candidate

In the hope of assisting your paper to improve its efforts to provide factual and objective reporting, I would like to clarify several errors in your front page article in the Palatine Herald March 21. I would also like to add several comments. This article deals with the flooding problem at Cedar and Hellen in Palatine. Also, after viewing my remarks in their proper perspective, perhaps my neighbors and the people of Palatine will realize that I'm not fighting a battle to save one home but to force our village board into some positive action regarding flooding throughout our community.

True, my involvement began with a problem, our home flooded, but since the August 25th flood, Mr. Robert Grothe, 341 W. Hellen, and I have attended no less than 54 meetings in an effort to gain flood control implementation. The reason we started this was because of the total lack of interest on the part of our elected officials when presented with our problem. We felt that if this was the response to two homeowners, appearing before the village board for assistance, my God, what's happening to other people.

Since the board took absolutely no action to investigate our problem, we asked for assistance from other governmental agencies. They recommended a by-pass sewer construction at our intersection in order to alleviate storm water back up into our homes. Still no action from the village board. We then formally presented a request to the village board for implementation of the storm sewer improvement. At this point it was stated that it "would hurt other homeowners" as quoted in your paper. A statement of this sort was made by our mayor in an effort to pitch us against other homeowners in the audience in order to reduce our suggestion to mere bickering between neighbors and thus the village board avoids another problem.

I responded, "That's their problem because their homes are in the flood plain and will always flood." At this point I produced the maps and plans of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan which clearly indicated that the area our mayor was pointing to was in fact located in what will be the flood plain after all the Salt Creek improvements are made. Hence, not even the Army Corps of Engineers can solve their problem. This occurred in October, not several weeks ago. Since then whenever we have requested action of any type regarding our problem we have been shunted from one meeting to another and in effect, nothing has been done.

However, this is a singular situation and does not affect thousands of votes, but I would like to point out a strange pattern in Palatine. To begin with, it happens every two years. It's called "what do we do now to say we are solving flooding problems because it's an election year?" It's almost as predictable as the seasonal migrations of the buzzards to Hinckley, Ohio. Two years ago it was the wonderful tunnel under the railroad tracks at Arlington Park. This year it's the new pump at Rosser Lake. What will it be in 1975? — the tabling and untabling of buoyancy specifications of life rafts that must be provided with all homes in our town — we don't want to drown our voters.

Mr. Editor, after attending all these meetings, there's two things I'm sure of. The first thing is that we need a positive overall plan to prevent flooding in Palatine. The other is that the people sitting on today's village board have no intention of doing anything but perpetuating their meaningless existence let alone long range planning. All of the people of Palatine have a chance this year to change the balance of power and elect a board that will at least listen to and attempt to solve problems that lead to overall improvement — even in non-election years. I have received no promises from the Republican Party regarding the problem at Cedar and Hellen, my reason for supporting them is because I have seen no self-initiated action by the ruling party on the board — the VIPs — on any issue of greater import than garbage bags.

To this charge, Mr. Clayton Brown, VIP mayoral candidate, will say that I am uninformed. Don't do it, Mr. Brown, as you well know I've been looking over your shoulders at quite a few meetings and have distinctly noticed your absence from many meetings that would lead to improvement or prevention of flooding problems such as Palatine Plan Commission meetings. This is where they approve construction on flood plains in Palatine that you claim don't exist. To quote you Mr. Brown, "There are no flood plains in Palatine."

While I've said a lot in this letter, there is so much more that could be said. I'd like to close by saying one more thing. I have never in my life been more convinced of anything — if Clayton Brown is elected mayor, Palatine will spend the next four years paying for it. If I were you, Mr. Brown, I would be ashamed to run on my record because you've done nothing.

I appreciate this opportunity to express my views and only hope that I have done something for the common good of Palatine.

Mary Thomas thanked

Mrs. Mary Thomas, a candidate for first ward alderman in the city of Des Plaines has repeatedly denied any association with Burton Wheeler Kosmen, a mayoral candidate, and his Citizens' Action Committee. The committee is puzzled as to why she chose to sever her relations with them.

Being a gentleman, I think though that she should be complimented for the enthusiastic manner in which she aided the committee:

1. Notarized most of Mr. Kosmen's nominating petitions.
2. Permitted her husband to circulate a nominating petition on behalf of Mr. Kosmen.
3. Agreed to allow Mr. Kosmen and Patrick J. O'Donnell, a Fifth Ward aldermanic candidate, to circulate her nominating petitions.
4. Registered the Citizens' Action Committee as a non-profit corporation with the Secretary of State's office.

The Citizens' Action Committee is very grateful to you, Mrs. Thomas.

'Wounded heads'

Much attention has been focused on the illegal seizure of Wounded Knee and the ransacking of its trading post in the past few weeks. How anyone can feel compassion for a band of militant anarchists is beyond my level of comprehension. If instead, a band of militant Winnebagoes invaded, ransacked, seized and held Randhurst, naturally all the bleeding hearts would donate a memorial for all the past injustices done to the Winnebagoes.

I believe in individual rights, but to have a few malcontents communize themselves and place their demands above law and order will only create more problems and as experience indicates, more demands. The laws broken by the militants at Wounded Knee are nothing new to AIM's national leaders as three of them have long arrest records dating back several years. It is apparent that the golden rule — thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's trading post — is no longer in effect at Wounded Knee.

Society will always have small numbers who feel that the government owes them a living. The government's subsequent action is indicative of its weakness in attempting to negotiate with out-and-out criminals. Their credibility gap has widened as a result of our fork-tongued bureaucrats. Beyond a reasonable doubt, the Wounded Knee incident has proved one fact; some government officials and AIM Indians have Wounded Heads.

Dorothy Meyer

Salesmanship, Dorothy's way

Anytime I go to a home demonstration party, the demonstrator, says, "Dorothy, you'd be great at this, why don't you try selling?"

Not me, baby. There's only one thing I do worse than sell and that's sing.

"All you need is to believe in the product and with your gift of gab, you'd make a killing."

Not me, baby. I believe in money more than anything, but I couldn't sell a dollar bill for 95 cents even if I gave green stamps.

"The day of hard sell is out — now it's soft sell, even super-soft and with your personality you can't miss."

That's me, baby — the marshmallow personality, inventor of the inverted soft sell. Hello, you wouldn't want to buy anything would you, I didn't think so, goodbye."

My unsalesmanship was apparent the first day I went to school. I couldn't convince my mother I didn't want to go and I couldn't sell my teacher on the fact that I was homesick. So I upchucked in here desk drawer.

In fourth grade I had the distinction of being the kid who sold the least tickets to the PTA carnival and my mother bought that one. Which was nice of her, especially since I hadn't been able to sell her a PTA membership at the beginning of the year.

High school was even worse. There were school plays, football games, basketball games and sock hops, all needing tickets that needed selling, and every year there was a magazine subscription drive so we could earn enough to get the school a movie projector.

My buxom girl friends sold their boy-friends everything including our chemistry teacher, but I didn't have any buxom or boy friends and by then my mother was broke. When I graduated, the school still didn't have a movie projector and under my picture in the year book mention was made of the fact that it was my fault.

I can't even give anything away. Last year our church was distributing modern versions of the New Testament and I volunteered to help with the distribution. I took 25 books and came back with 26. One of the families I called on already had three and naturally they were able to sell me on the idea of taking one of their surplus.

At least I gave the minister material for a sermon: Oh ye of little faith. Only he called it "wishywashy parishioners."

I suppose it's logical that a rotten salesman like me is a pushover for someone else's sales talk. Especially little kids. I buy so many Girl Scout cookies that they last from year to year and I have such a stockpile of candy that the Camp Fire Girls come to me for supplies if they run short. When the Cub Scouts sell tickets worth 50 cents off on a Christmas tree, I buy six even though I know I can only use one per tree. One year I bought six Christmas trees.

Finally I went to work so that I'd be away from home all day and beguiling little kids couldn't get at me with their cookies and candy. It worked. For about 15 minutes. I forgot that bosses have little kids too.

There's nobody harder to say "no" to than a little kid who belong to the boss.

Park district fees attacked

I wonder how many Mount Prospect Park District residents are unaware, as I was, of the change in the fee schedule and pass structure of the Mount Prospect pool program.

The change will up the price of $18 for one season to as much as $40 for a family with five or more children for a year-long pass. This change was made because the park board commissioners are hoping to increase the use of the indoor pool facilities.

I believe there are many other families such as mine who use the pool only during the summer months, and feel we should not be unfairly burdened with the high cost of a "year-long" pass which would in reality be used only two or three months out of the year.

I have already written to the Park District Board stating my belief that the new fee schedule is unfair, and should be based upon a family's actual use of the pool facilities. I feel that those of us who use a pool only in the summer should not be forced to pay a "year-around" fee, and that the higher rates will deter people from buying a pass.

If you, too, are dissatisfied with the new fee schedule, please write to the Park District board and ask them to reconsider.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Joe Smith's secretary quit her job because her husband got a fat raise, she told Joe: "Be sure and tell the unemployment insurance people you fired me; we can use that extra money."

Joe figured "the state pays it, not me, so why shouldn't I say I had to let her go?" And he did.

What Joe didn't realize, according to Stanley Reed, an expert in such matters, was that the state doesn't pay all unemployment insurance. Neither does the federal government. A lot of the money comes right out of the employer's pocket in tax funds.

Under most state unemployment insurance laws, a business firm's tax to support the fund varies according to its claim experience. By letting his ex-secretary file an unjustified claim, Joe raised the tax rate he would have to pay on the taxable portion of all the rest of his workers' salaries, including his own.

"MOST SMALL employers aren't aware of this fact," said Reed. "In bigger companies, while the firm's tax accountants know it, there's no workable procedure to assure that the company follows policies that will keep its unemployment insurance tax rate down."

Reed's firm — Reed, Roberts Associates Inc., of Garden City, N.Y. — specializes in unemployment insurance control administration. It is made up of accountants and personnel experts.

Reed said the losses companies sustain by carelessness about the unemployment insurance policy go as high as $300,000 in lump sums over the years. "For some companies it can be the difference between a profitable year and a loss year," he said.

The lump sum recoveries are for years prior to 1972 when Reed estimated that about half of all the unemployment tax returns filed by American firms were overpaid because of discrepancies between state and federal laws overlooked by tax accountants. Congress and most states now have reconciled these discrepancies, but recoveries still can be made for a couple years before the statute of limitations applies.

Reed said his firm's main business is simply to take over and manage the unemployment insurance operations of businesses of all sizes.

"WE DON'T JUST give advice," he said. "We obtain powers of attorney and make sure that a sensible policy is carried out."

In other words, if Reed had been working for Joe Smith, his firm would have passed the word to the unemployment insurance people that the secretary quit her job voluntarily and Joe's tax rate wouldn't have been affected.

Another aspect of his firm's service, he said, is investigation of acquisitions. "A high unemployment inherited from a purchased company looks pretty sour later on," he said.

As an example of annual savings, Reed cited one firm which cut its unemployment insurance tax bill from $270,000 a year to $90,000.

Through self-employed retirement plan

New law can cut your taxes

When filing their income tax this year, less than 10 per cent of the nation's eligible self-employed will take advantage of broadened pension and other benefits as well as the substantial tax savings available through retirement plans for the self-employed.

The Self-Employed Individuals Retirement Act (HR-10), passed in 1962 and amended in 1968, provides an opportunity for unincorporated employers to establish tax favored retirement plans for themselves and their employees.

The retirement plan director for John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., Charles A. Clifford, said, "Too many self-employed persons are reluctant to check into this tax-sheltered program because they incorrectly assume it is overly technical and difficult to get started."

"The law permits self-employed individuals to set aside a portion of their income for retirement (up to 10 per cent of earned income or $2,500, whichever is less), and deduct the allocable part of the annual contribution from their gross income for federal income tax purposes," Clifford added.

THE AVERAGE self-employed individual is covered by Social Security. However, unless he has augmented Social Security with a retirement plan, he may find when he reaches retirement that he can't retire on Social Security alone without drastically reducing his living standards. Unlike workers in private industry who have pension plans to rely upon, the self-employed individual may have little to supplement income during the leaner retirement years, Clifford noted.

For example, a 30-year-old, self-employed person might contribute $1,500 a year to a qualified HR-10 plan. At age 65, he would have set aside $32,500. Assuming a 25 per cent tax bracket, $13,125 of this would have been "contributed" by Uncle Sam in the form of tax deferral during his working years.

Assuming these funds were placed into a retirement annuity, it might be possible for him to end up with a life income of as much as $1,017 monthly comencing at retirement age.

To qualify under this act, the law requires that an individual perform a personal service in his occupation — a sometimes paying hobby or mere ownership of income producing real property wouldn't qualify.

AN OWNER-EMPLOYER is defined as a self-employed individual who owns the entire interest in an unincorporated trade, business or profession, or a partner who owns more than 10 per cent of either the partnership interest or profits.

A partner with only a capital interest and who does not actively participate in the business is not eligible. A self-employed individual with no employees may establish a plan for himself alone. However, if he does have employees with three or more years of service, they must be covered under the plan as well.

Seasonal employees who work five months or less and part-timers who work less than 20 hours weekly may be excluded.

Ask The IRS

Q. How do I go about obtaining an extension of time to file my income tax return?

A. You can get an automatic two-month extension to file your Federal income tax return by properly completing Form 4868 and sending it to the IRS along with payment of tax that is estimated to be owed for the year. This form, which you can obtain at any Internal Revenue office, must be filed with the IRS Service Center on or before the due date of your income tax return, and a duplicate must be attached to your return when you file.

If you underestimate the actual amount you owe, you will be assessed interest at the rate of 6 per cent per year on the unpaid amount. If the unpaid amount is more than 10 per cent of your tax liability, you will be assessed, in addition to interest, a penalty of one-half of one per cent of the tax due for each month or part of a month until you pay it.

However, in the case of hardship, Form 2688 should be used to apply for an extension of time. Such extensions are not granted as a matter of course, and the reason for your request must be substantial. The automatic two-month extension should not be used prior to the filing of Form 2688 for a hardship extension.

Q. How do I apply for additional extensions beyond this two-month period?

A. Further extensions of time to file are granted only under very unusual circumstances. If you need additional time to file, apply for the extension either in a letter or by filing Form 2688. Such extensions are not granted as a matter of course, and the reasons for your request must be substantial.

Q. Aren't there special filing extensions for U.S. citizens and military personnel abroad?

A. U.S. citizens who are not in the United States or Puerto Rico on April 15 are allowed an automatic extension until June 15 for filing their returns for the preceding calendar year. Such taxpayers filing returns for a fiscal year are allowed a two-month extension beyond the due date.

Military personnel on duty outside the United States and Puerto Rico also are allowed an automatic two-month extension of time for filing.

If you take advantage of this automatic extension, you must attach a statement to your return showing that you were outside the United States and Puerto Rico on April 15 or other due date.

Q. I'm filing a return for the first time this year and I want to designate $1 of my tax to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. Where can I get the form I should use for the $1 "check-off"?

A. Call, write or visit any Internal Revenue office to obtain a copy of Form 4875, "Presidential Election Campaign Fund Statement." This form is automatically given to each taxpayer requesting a Form 1040 or Short Form 1040A and was included in the forms package sent to every taxpayer who filed last year.

If you wish $1 ($2 if married filing jointly) to be paid over to candidates of a specific party, check the first box on the Form 4875 and fill in the name of the political party. If you wish the money to be paid over to a nonpartisan general account for all eligible candidates, check the second box. Be sure to sign and date the form and attach it to your income tax return.

Q. Can I deduct my Medicare premiums?

A. Yes. Premiums for medical health insurance, including supplementary medical insurance for the aged under Medicare, are deductible if you itemize. One-half of your premiums up to $150 is deductible without limitation. The balance should be added to your other medical expenses. These are deductible only to the extent they exceed three per cent of your income.

Q. Are union dues deductible?

A. Yes. Dues and initiation fees paid to obtain and maintain union membership are deductible if you itemize.

Amana complains to FTC about story hitting microwave oven

AMANA, Iowa (UPI) — Amana Refrigeration Inc. said it is filing a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission against Consumers Union, publisher of Consumer Reports, and a California firm that manufactures a device to check radiation emissions from microwave ovens.

George C. Foerstner, president-founder of Amana, said the complaint against Consumers Union stems from "false and misleading statements" made in a story on microwave ovens which appeared in the April editions of Consumer Reports.

In the article, Consumer Reports said that "after thoroughly testing 15 popular models of countertop microwave ovens and examining available literature we are not convinced that they are completely safe to use."

Foerstner charged that the Consumers Union study did not include the Amana RR-2, 3, 4 series of ovens that constitute about half of the total U.S. consumer market for microwave ovens.

Foerstner said the charge against Ecometrics, the California-based manufacturer of a $9.95 device for microwave testing, was filed because the Bureau of Radiological Health has found the device to be "unreliable for compliance testing."

Foerstner said the Consumer Reports story "prevented the consumer from being in a position to make informed buying decisions" in violation of Section 5 of the FTC law. He said the company is asking the FTC to require Consumer Reports to submit a "substantiation report" on the information contained in the story.

"It is our position that Consumer Reports should be required to meet the same standards in its reports on consumer products that the business community is required to meet in its advertising of such products," Foerstner said.

Strong action on inflation seen by bank

Resurgent inflation and continuing strong business momentum have raised the risk that the Nixon administration may have to apply policy restraints much more vigorously than anticipated, according to economists at Chicago's Northern Trust Bank. And once the economy begins to slow, these vigorous restraints could produce a much more pronounced effect than the administration desires.

The nation's recent price record has been "shockingly bad," said Northern Trust's Business Comment. In February, the consumer price index recorded the largest monthly increase in 22 years as it climbed at a whopping 10 per cent annual rate.

While the explosion in farm prices has been widely discussed, Northern Trust economists see another problem on the horizon for the consumer. Wholesale prices for industrial goods climbed a full 1 per cent in February alone — a portent of later trouble on the consumer level.

Whether the administration will be more successful in turning the nation onto a sustainable growth path than it was in 1969, will depend heavily on the major labor negotiations now beginning.

"If the present, hopefully temporary, price breakout is not cemented into the cost structure via higher wage increases," concludes Business Comment, "the odds on success will improve greatly."

Are today's foods over-fortified? In many cases, yes

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read in one of your articles that we retain vitamins A and D. Why is it then that all calcium tablets are so full of vitamin D?

I have an awful time trying to drink one quart of milk a day to get my calcium and would like to take a calcium supplement but hesitate to do so because of the vitamin D content.

Dear Reader — We retain vitamins A and D because they are fat-soluble and tend to be stored in the fats in the body. I agree with you 100 per cent about the problem of vitamin A in so many of the calcium supplements.

You can get pure calcium, however, in prescription form from your doctor. It's true that wherever you turn these days there seems to be vitamin A and vitamin D in everything. You can't even buy a natural food item in the supermarkets that hasn't been fortified with A and D and possibly iron.

It is almost impossible to get wholesome natural food that hasn't been peppered up with excess vitamins. Rather than those who need vitamins because of specific medical problems going to the drug store to get them, we all get drug store products forced on us at the grocery store whether we need them or not.

Both vitamin A and D can cause harm and I'm pleased to note that the Food and Drug Administration has recently commented on this and suggested a cut-back in the amount of vitamin A and D in vitamin preparations.

IT SEEMS to me a much wiser course would be to cut out all of the excess fortifying of foods with extra vitamins and let them exist in their normal, natural state.

A case in point is breakfast food. Many of the breakfast foods contain excess vitamins because of legislative enthusiasm on the part of our congressmen, who I hope know more about the functions of the government than they appear to know about the human body or medicine. I refer to the insistence that natural wheat and cereal products should contain vitamins in excess of the natural food that they are originally prepared from.

There is no reason for natural wheat products that have not had the husks or vitamins and minerals removed in food processing to have any additional vitamins added.

I would say again, as a physician, I am strongly in favor of people who need them, getting additional vitamins from vitamin tablets or the drug store and letting the rest of us eat our natural foods without sticking all these things in them that nature didn't put there in the first place.

MIGHT I suggest one way you can get around your quart of milk a day problem would be to use canned salmon (eat the bone as well, that will help with providing calcium) and use very generous amounts of dry skim milk powder in food preparation.

For example, when you make a pan gravy add appreciably more skim milk powder than you might need for just reconstituted milk. The addition of the extra powder will give you more protein in your diet and more calcium in your diet.

Opening lead—♥8

South's choice of a three-club rather than a two-spade response may look a trifle insane. Actually South was crazy like a fox and his bid led to a tremendous IMP swing in a team game.

He wound up in six no-trump and West opened the eight of hearts. It looked like a short suit lead so South decided that he could only count on four heart tricks. Adding that to five clubs and two aces came to just 11.

South thought awhile and led his jack of diamonds. West played low as did dummy and East was in with his king. East wasted no time returning a spade and South refused that finesse.

Then he entered dummy with the king of clubs; discarded three spades on good hearts and ran off his clubs. The last club squeezed West in diamonds and spades and the slam wheeled in.

It would also have been made if East held the diamond queen since he would have been squeezed in diamonds and hearts.

Why did this turn out to be a tremendous swing? It seems that at the other table South responded with two spades. South's next bid was four clubs so North did not get a chance to show club support and the final contract became six hearts.

It was tough luck to have to go down at six hearts, but it was even tougher luck to find that six no-trump had made at the other table.

Arlington ties for 3rd; Hinsdale easy net winner

Tennis Editor

Those tennis fans who stopped by the Prep Invitational Saturday saw what might well be the preview to the state championships.

Arlington, host of the 11th annual invitational, will also be in charge of the finals later next month.

Coach Tom Pitchford's Cardinals hope to contend for the title, but they'll have to do plenty of improving before the May 26 championships.

Why? Because another team that sports the same red and white school colors — Hinsdale Central — appears plenty eager to repeat last year's title showing.

The Red Devils outdistanced the rest of the six-team field with 51 points, 11 ahead of second place New Trier East. Arlington tied Rock Island with 33.5. Then came Oak Park (22) and Blue Island (9).

Hinsdale swept eight of the nine titles in the round robin tournament which saw each player in action in 40 games.

Jim Merkel, Arlington's ace, won 27 games for third place behind two of the state's best — Hinsdale's Ed Staren and Rock Island's Dick Heinline. This dandy duo tied for first with 29-game victories.

Merkel handled Hainline — a torrid server but slow mover — by a 5-3 count. However, he lost to Staren by the same score.

John Paczkowski, a junior, was the highest finisher for the Cards with second place and 29-game wins. Fritz Ballantine of Hinsdale won the title with 34 victories. Paczkowski was nipped by Ballantine, 5-3.

Arlington's Don Rodig placed third in third singles with 20 triumphs, 14 short of the winning effort of Al Pilet, also of Hinsdale.

Rex Miller tied for second in fourth singles with 25 points as another Rex — Hinsdale's Nykost — had 33. The two Rexes tied 4-4.

Dave Mack placed fourth in fifth singles with 28. He lost 7-1 to Tom Jacobs, still another Hinsdale boy. The champ had 33 points.

Kent Autry of Hinsdale (hohum) racked up 32 victories en route to the final singles title. Luke Weeg, who won 24, lost to Autry, 7-1.

The only time the Hinsdale victory string was snapped was in first doubles. New Trier's Geoff Tabin and Tom Buerger rolled up 28 points. Arlington's combination of Merkel and Paczkowski tied the champs in head-to-head competition, 4-4, and finished second with 26 points.

Staren and Ken McMahon teamed up to win the second doubles crown for the Red Devils with 32 points. Miller and Rodig just missed second by four points with 18, good enough for fifth. They lost 6-2 to the champs.

Rock Island's Tom Roller and Ken Thurman tied Hinsdale's Larry Hart and Art Autrey for the title with 27 points each. Todd Reese and Greg VanGorp finished fifth with 23 wins.

"Hinsdale looks very strong with an all-lettermen lineup except for Pilet, a freshman," said Pitchford, who definitely calls the Devils the team to beat at this time. "They've got a weak district and can qualify all six."

"We experimented with doubles," he continued. "I was pleased with Merkel and Paczkowski as a team. And I thought the best play of the day came from Merkel, Paczkowski and Miller with Weeg and Mack making strong showings."

"Although Rodig had a poor showing earlier in the matches, he came on strong in winning the last two matches against Oak Park (7-1) and Blue Island (6-2)."

BLASTING A BACKHAND for Arlington is No. 1 singles player Jim Merkel. The heady Cardinal senior turned in a fine showing against some of the best players in the state Saturday at the Prep Invitational at Arlington. Merkel finished third, the same as his team.

For a change—pro wrestling

DON'T EVER MISTAKE professional wrestling for the amateur variety in high school, college or AAU. And don't assume that all pro wrestling exhibitions are the cheap, put-on affairs that we see from time to time on television.

If you do, Killer Duke might come after you . . . and he's probably about as tough as his name applies.

The above are the messages Duke got across in a recent conversation about pro wrestling in general, but actually, it would be hard to imagine him attacking anyone outside a ring — unless an opponent climbed out of it during a match.

The occasion for our discussion is an upcoming event at Fremd High School which promises to be interesting . . . certainly different from any other entertainment ever staged in the immediate area. As far as we know, there has never been a pro wrestling match staged in this locale.

So it will be a first at Fremd Wednesday, starting at 8 p.m., when Killer Duke and other noted names in the field — including a World Champion and a national titlist — will stage four matches.

These wrestlers are part of Fox Valley Promotions, which regularly stage such exhibitions. The program is being sponsored by the Fremd Booster Club to try to pay off a remaining debt of $2,000 for lights at the football field which were installed in 1970. Admission will be $3 for ringside seats, $2 for general admission and $1 for children under 12 — and already last week, tickets were moving at a brisk rate.

Booster Club members who are working on the committee for this event are Lee Halberg, Al BaValle, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Dalton and John Miller.

The first thing one will learn from a talk with Killer Duke is that there are some misconceptions about professional wrestling which the sport doesn't deserve. He stated some, but one he didn't mention which occurred to me was a possible unfair stereotyping of such wrestlers' personalities.

Many of us have at some time seen, and chuckled at, the Roller Derby-type promotional gimmicks pro wrestling sometimes uses on television. You know the scene — two hulking animal types appear for a planned "interview" and hurl growing insults at one another, like "I'm going to grind you into mincemeat next time, buddy," and a reply like, "Yeah, you just try it, punk, and you'll be in traction for the next year." After which the "interviewer" chimes in with, "There you have it, folks — don't miss this feature showdown at 7:30 sharp next Saturday night. . ."

Killer Duke quickly erased that image as soon as our talk began. He spoke intelligently, articulately, not unlike your average everyday businessman. He never tried to sensationalize or exaggerate — just tried to honestly sell the product he and his colleagues have to sell.

"I know, people talk a lot about how phony pro wrestling is," began Killer. "Well, I'm not going to say we're something we're not. After all, what we're putting on is exhibitions and we're doing it to entertain people."

"But it's like going to see a movie. You'll see John Wayne or somebody belt another guy and that's what is really phony. He didn't really hit him at all, but people still leave the theatre saying to each other, 'Boy, he really let that guy have it, didn't he.'"

"Actually, in our business, there really is contact. I don't ever try to hurt anybody but I've seen some really rough matches that were for real. Sometimes two guys have a problem with each other that has nothing to do with wrestling, but they'll take it out on each other in the ring."

"Our sport is only as good as the guys who are in it. We get a lot of bad publicity, but we don't deserve all of it. I'm sure these matches will be enjoyable for anyone who comes. At least nine out of every 10 people leave happy, feeling they got their money's worth."

"The matches we put on and many others are completely different in person than on TV. You see too many mismatches on TV and we stay away from that in Fox Valley promotions. I know some of the television matches are terrible, but I hope people won't compare us with them."

Most likely, fans in this area don't quite know what to expect. Nearly all of them are high school buffs and the only matches they have seen first-hand are those with amateur AAU rules. But as Duke says, "Our type of wrestling is completely different. It's more wide-open and, I think, more entertaining."

"A lot of holds are the same, but there is more freedom in the rules with us. We're on our feet more and can use openhand punches. There's more action."

"I have nothing against AAU-type wrestling except that a fan almost has to be an expert to understand what's going on. Anyone can enjoy pro wrestling without knowledge of the sport."

And if you think just anyone off the street can do it, think again. Killer, after coming out of the Marine Corps in 1963, trained for several years before he could hook on as a regular. He toured all over the country for a while to make a name for himself, then became good enough to be "homesteaded" by Fox Valley in the Chicago area. Since he is married, he enjoys this setup much more.

He and others like him wrestle about four times a week in exhibitions, but no farther away than they can drive. Those breaking in, who must meet rigid qualifications, are then on the road constantly until they earn a reputation.

"What we have is showmanship," says Killer, "but that doesn't mean the same thing as phony. It means a flair for entertaining. Dick Allen has showmanship, too."

Other top names who will appear Wednesday night are World Wrestling Association champion Paul Christy and U.S. Women's champ Sheri Lee. The main event among the four matches will be a tag match, two on two, which will involve Duke.

It ought to be an interesting evening — something different but entertaining.

Cougars face rebuilding season

Conant drops baseball opener, 2-1

by KEITH REINHARD

Jerry Cunningham has no choice about rebuilding his baseball team at Conant this spring.

The Cougars inaugurated their 1973 campaign by dropping a 2-1 heartbreaker at Lake Park Saturday. It was an inexperienced lineup that Cunningham fielded for the contest, prompted by the fact that he has virtually no seasoned performers to call upon this spring.

There was one vet originally. But Bill Gawron, who the coach had planned on utilizing either at first or in right, was involved in a freak accident at school earlier in the year and is now out for the season.

That leaves just a sprinkling of youngsters with any varsity exposure at all. And Ken Hubbard, Dave Reynolds, Neil Thompson, Mike Atkocaitis and Jim Brown all were used only sparingly in 1972.

"We'll probably have to suffer through some growing pains this year while these kids are acquiring some experience," Cunningham noted. "We could finish strong but it's a little too early to tell just how fast some of them will develop."

The Cougars were struck with one sharp growing pain in their lifeline with the Lancers, losing in the last inning on a miscued grounder that had double play potential. It nullified a strong inaugural mound appearance by Hubbard, who figures to be one of Conant's starting moundsmen this spring.

"Hubbard, Tim Dern, Gary Oslance and Tim Domek will probably carry most of the pitching load for us although there's a chance Atkocaitis could fit into the plans as well," the coach says.

Atkocaitis, with excellent football and basketball seasons under his belt, is probably the most experienced of the returnees although his offensive statistics were far from flattering last season. He is also a candidate for third base along with junior Paul Gebhardt.

Twirlers Oslance and Domek are juniors. Dern is the only lefty in the bunch and he is also capable of holding down an outfield slot, as is Hubbard when not on the hill.

Filling in the outfield will probably be Thompson (center) and Bill Koppari (left), who is another standout three-sport athlete. The infield in addition to third will most likely be comprised of junior Jeff Ironside (shortstop), Brown (second base) and junior George Rawlinson (first base) with Reynolds backing up the plate.

In the Lake Park contest Conant was no-hit until the sixth inning when Hubbard opened with a single and advanced to second on a passed ball. Thompson responded with a one-base slash to right, scoring Hubbard to knot the game at 1-1.

The hosts had drawn first blood in inning number two on a wind-blown fly that dropped off an outfielder's glove for a triple, preceded by a single to right center. Lake Park tallied the crucial run in the bottom of the seventh after a walk, a steal, and an intentional pass set the stage.

A crisp shot back to the mound after that could have produced an inning-ending double play but the ball was mishandled and all hands were safe. The next batter drew a base on balls, forcing in the winning run.

Several positions open for Vikings

by KEITH REINHARD

If it were a golf tournament instead of a baseball team Terry Gellinger was coaching this spring, an appropriate name might be the Fremd Open.

The fact is Gellinger has a number of positions still up for grabs, even though his Vikings have already commenced their 1973 diamond campaign.

"It's really not as bad a situation as it sounds," the helmsman commented. "We've had some of the key positions filled all along and there are plenty of capable candidates vying for the others."

Still, there are some openings. And with a longer conference season approaching all too quickly, Gellinger's chief concern about now is forming a steady lineup to work with the rest of the year.

One of the slots the coach doesn't have to concern himself with is catching. This primary position will be filled for the third straight season by Mark Pettit, a .340 hitter overall in 1972 with plenty of defensive savvy.

Pitching, for the moment, is one of Gellinger's lesser woes. With a couple of first rate veterans in Ken Orggenbuck and Larry Coughlin to build around, the Vike mound staff could be aiming for a stellar showing comparable to the 1.80 team ERA production of a year ago.

After that the shuffling begins however. The coach has already moved his regular second baseman from last year, John Slack, over to fill shortstop. And at first base he opened last Saturday with Jeff Hanisch although this junior is really a prime candidate for second base

along with Tom Knecht and Mark Funk. At third base the bill appears to be filled by junior Bob Burke, who lettered with the varsity as a sophomore. Another veteran infield candidate is first baseman Kevin Phelan.

In the outfield junior Jeff Brisson appears to have center nailed down, on the basis of excellent speed and overall potential. Left field is less firm with Gordon Stark, a senior transfer from Pennsylvania and Fred Smith in on the bidding.

Right field poses an even more clouded picture. In the running are no less than four hopefuls including Stark and Ty Bink along with juniors Randy Kraft and Bruce Hall.

To complete his twirling staff, Gellinger is looking hard at juniors Handsch, Kraft, and Brisson who is the only southpaw on the mound roster. Going with Brisson on the hill, however, could create just what the coach doesn't need . . . another vacancy in center field.

Rounding out the team are reserve catcher Mark Ottaman, pitcher Paul Borg and utility man Jerry Slack.

Fremd finished up with a fine 11-6-1 overall mark in '72 but found the sledging tough at times in their own North Division and finished up 4-5-1 mark there for fifth place.

If Roggenbuck and Coughlin can maintain their excellent control and 1.78 and 0.63 respective ERAs from last season and Pettit's influential bat can fire up the Fremd offense, the Vikes could do some climbing in 1973.

DENNIS SIMPSON, Adlai Stevenson High School senior, set a new school shot put record last Thursday with a toss of 56 feet 6 1/4 inches. He bettered his old record of 54 feet 7 inches which was set when he came in fourth in the Oak Park Relays two weeks ago. The new record was set in a triangular meet with Waukegan and Grant high schools at the Patriot track.

'Possibility of winning' exists for North's entry

by MIKE KLEIN

Just being competitive has been a reasonable goal this year for the sports program at Maine North. And after one game, Dave Kennedy is understandably encouraged about his varsity baseball team.

The Norsemen opened their second varsity season with a 1-0 loss last Friday at Niles East. The game will not be counted in Central Suburban League standings.

Niles East's only run came across in the sixth inning after a "Who's-Got-It?" outfield error left a man at second. He scored on the second of only two Trojan base hits all day.

A high pop-fly in short left field had found no takers among third baseman Brian Bradfield, shortstop Neal Schawel and left fielder Dave Helton. Schawel finally made a diving try but dropped the ball.

The Norsemen outlived Niles, 4-2, on singles by Bradfield, Schawel, Bob Kelley and Graham Wiener. Bradfield started on the mound for North. He tossed four innings on a yield of just one hit. Jamie Kozlowski pitched the last two frames and was the losing pitcher despite giving up just one hit.

"Neither team hit the ball very well," said Kennedy who has tabbed Bradfield as the starting pitcher today against New Trier West. "Other than that error and maybe some base running, we played fairly well."

The Norsemen will try to improve upon last year's 3-15 season that found them beating Niles East, Deerfield and Rolling Meadows.

"I don't think anybody will be able to count us out of a ballgame. To me, that's important," Kennedy said. "These kids know that when they go out there, they have a possibility of winning."

Schawel, Bradfield and Helton are three of five lettermen returning this spring. The others are Mickey Drewes and Oark Straessle. Illness has kept both out of action in the early going.

Biggest losses are pitcher Gary Halls (football ride at Illinois State University) and catcher Ken Spain. Kennedy is looking to Bradfield to shoulder major pitching responsibility.

Others on the mound will include Helton and Kozlowski plus Bob Marcus, Bill Harrison and Cal Herd. Helton will show up all over the field, including behind the plate where he'll share duties with Kelley when the latter isn't playing first base.

Schawel has a lock on shortstop. The other positions will find Kelley or Marcus at first, Wiener or Kevin Patten at second and Bradfield or Patten at third.

Helton, Marcus and Kozlowski will be joined in the pastures by Bob DeMarco, Mike Schumacher and the two Volkmanes — Jerry and Eddie.

Fishing trip to Canada scheduled for June 15-25

It's that time of the year again. It's time to think about fishing and the outdoor life.

If you're a boy who likes this type of life, and who will be in high school (or older) next year, read on.

Fishing, eating and sleeping will be the main activities as area boys, under the guidance of trip organizers Dick Mudge and Dave Theesfeld, visit Black Bear Lodge in Canada June 15 through June 25.

The entire cost of the trip is $150 per boy. The price includes the following:

1. Transportation to Black Bear Lodge and back. (2,000 miles round trip)
2. Lodging for nine days (including two nights enroute).

3. Flight into and out of Black Bear Lodge from Red Lake, Ontario.
4. Meals while at Black Bear Lodge.
5. Fishing License.
6. Boat, motor and fuel.
7. Transportation of fish home.
8. Accident and sickness insurance.

Black Bear Lodge is not a sport skill camp, and boys are free to spend their time as they wish.

Black Bear Lodge is located on Red Lake, approximately 50 miles northwest of the town of Red Lake, Ontario. Northern Pike, Walleye and Lake Trout are three species of fish in the lake.

Black Bear Lodge is owned and operated by Walt Rundle, a teacher at Fenton High School. He has spent 16 summers in the Red Lake area operating this type of camp.

Boys will be housed in log cabins, 8 to 12 boys to a cabin, and there is also a main lodge for eating and spending leisure time.

A typical day starts with sunrise between 5 and 6 a.m. Breakfast is at 8 a.m., lunch at 1 p.m. and dinner at 6 p.m. Shore lunches are provided for anyone desiring them.

The sun usually sets between 10 and 11 p.m., providing plenty of fishing time.

A car caravan, with an adult driver in each car, will take the boys to Red Lake, Ontario, and then the boys and baggage will transfer to planes for a trip to Black Bear Lodge.

Applications are being accepted now, and there will be a meeting and film on the camp on Tuesday evening, April 10, at eight o'clock at Forest View High School, room A224. All boys who might be interested in the camp are urged to attend this meeting.

If you have any questions on the fishing excursion, call Dick Mudge at 253-0804 or Dave Theesfeld at 258-0088 after 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday or contact your school representative.

Harper net squad second in invitational

Harper College found the going pretty rough Saturday in its three-team invitational tournament.

Thanks to No. 4 man Jeff Rud and No. 5 man Tom Leahy, the Hawks of Coach Roy Kearns took second with nine points, three behind winning College of DuPage. Black Hawk College of Moline had two.

Rud, a freshman from Forest View, defeated Black Hawks, 10-5, and DuPage, 10-2.

Leahy blanked Black Hawks, 10-0, and just gave up two points to DuPage.

The only other wins came from Dave Stastny and Paul Stevens. Stastny, playing No. 3, defeated DuPage, 10-7. Stevens, the No. 1 man, handled Black Hawks, 10-4.

The Hawks posted three doubles victories — Marezzo-Stastny over Black Hawks, 10-4, and DuPage, 10-8, and Stevens-Rud over Black Hawks, 10-4.

Harper dropped a pair of 8-1 decisions to four-year schools prior to the invite — University of Chicago on Thursday and Carthage College on Friday. They are 0-3 in duels. Stevens, playing the "best singles matches ever," according to Kearns, accounted for the only wins, both three-setters.

East's Smith clears 6-5 in high jump

Seven records found new owners, Bill Fritz nearly got caught twice and Thornton motored to a fantastic mile relay effort in Saturday's dozen team Moline Invitational.

One eclipsed record was reworked when local entrant Mike Smith of Maine East, just a junior, high jumped six feet, five inches to win the event. Teammate Bob Giza, a sophomore, placed third, for the fifth place Demons with a six-foot effort.

Two of the day's best head-on struggles saw Fritz of Glenbard West getting heavy pressure in the mile and two-mile runs from Maine East's Pat Moyer and Lloyd Spitzer.

It was Fritz who upset defending state champion miler Craig Virgin of Lebanon two weekends ago at the Oak Park Relays.

But Fritz had all he could handle Saturday in this big outdoor meet that apparently wasn't hampered by what

Maine coach John Coughlin termed "terrible weather."

Fritz set a new record in the mile with a 4:21.9, just one second ahead of Moyer. His 9:30 two-mile effort was another meet record; East's Spitzer ran 9:34.4.

"I didn't think Spitzer could beat Fritz in the two-mile but we knew he could certainly run with him," Coughlin said. "But we thought maybe Moyer could do it."

"This was his best outdoor run to date. In fact, the only time he's been below that was a 4:21.5 inside against York. I really think he can get below 4:20," Coughlin said of Moyer, a senior.

Thornton revved up its mile relay cylinders for a 3:19 cold weather performance, just one second behind its winning effort in the IHSAA state championships last May.

Charlie White and Max Tolen are mile relay returners for Thornton. White also won the half mile in a record 1:55.3. Tolen's 48.6 set a new Moline standard in the 440-yard run. Teammate James Brat-chard, also a mile relay member, was second with a 48.8 during the quarter mile race.

The other new record was set when Bloom's Jan Johnson pole vaulted 14 feet, six inches. Bloom won the team title. It was second in state behind Evanston last spring.

In four years at the Moline Invite, Maine East has finished fifth, second, sixth and now fifth again.

The Blue Demons also got place winning performances from Tim Giano in the mile, fifth at 4:35.6, plus the 800 and mile relay teams.

John Schmid, Joe Zimmerman, Scott Peota and Mike Kallal covered the half mile in 1:34.9, good for fifth. The last three plus Mike Bell ran the mile relay in 3:33, also fifth.

East and Maine North begin their Central Suburban League seasons at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday with a double dual at New Trier West.

Maine East topples York, LaGrange

Maine East unveiled its stolen base wheels Friday afternoon, then scored nine times in the final two innings on Saturday to sweep through two weekend wins.

The Blue Demons of coach Herb Ward pulled off eight thefts in nine attempts on Friday while beating York, 6-3. Greg Maloney got the win, evening his record at 1-1.

At LaGrange on Saturday, a wild offensive showing found East winning, 12-11, after scoring four sixth inning runs and five in the seventh. The host Lions came back with four tallies in their last at-bat after watching a 7-3 lead dissipate.

It took a game ending double play with runners at second and third to save a win for relief pitcher Mike Vishoot who'd departed in favor of Ron Parker. Second baseman Dan Lowy caught a line drive, and tossed to shortstop Chuck Sellergren to end the chaos.

Thefts helped the Blue Demons to most of their run production at York. But they took a first inning 1-0 lead after Lowy tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

That preceded a three-run frame and East led 4-0 after two. Doug Moorad reached on an error at third, stole two bases and scored on Al Bonini's base hit.

Warren Henricks reached on a fielders choice, stole second and scored on Maloney's base hit to right for a 3-0 lead. Another fielders choice left Bob Lloyd at first; he stole second and third before scoring on a passed ball.

The Blue Demons scored two fifth inning runs for a 6-0 margin, then survived a shaky half inning afield to win the darkness abbreviated game. Wayne Sommers wild pitched home three runs before the side was retired.

Saturday afternoon, Moorad keyed East's two big innings and ended the day with four hits and six RBIs. His sixth inning single scored two runners and helped East make it a 7-7 game with one frame left.

Lowy, Bob Rinka and Sellergren were abase in the seventh when Moorad singled hard into left field, then came all the way home as the ball got away. Earlier, Sellergren had knocked a runner home for an 8-7 lead.

The Blue Demons' only extra base clout was Glenn Sedjo's second inning triple. Rinka knocked him home with a sacrifice fly.

Starting pitcher Dave Baskin was well roughed up, yielding eight hits and seven runs during his four inning stint. He struck out two and walked three.

Vishoot, who got the win, pitched two and one-third innings. He struck out two and walked six, while yielding four runs on just two hits. Parker recorded the final two outs.

North golfers suffer 1-stroke loss in debut

Lou Gartner had figured the winning team score would be around 175 when his Maine North Norsemen teed off in their season opener against Proviso East.

And he was right. One hundred seventy-seven strokes were swung by the winners. Unfortunately, Maine North had 178.

The Norsemen sustained their defeat against Proviso East at Fresh Meadow course in Hillside. Gartner said the grounds were "real windblown and very wet."

Heading into the final hole, the Norsemen apparently had the meet locked up, but a player sliced two balls off the course, finishing with a nine on the final hole.

Maine North senior Jim Getschecker was medalist with a 41. He was followed by three sophomores, Don Snelton 43, Bob Russo 45 and Randy Sylvan with a 49.

With sophomores Snelton, Russo and Sylvan competing, the varsity should have a very competitive team for future seasons.

However, that will weaken the current Norseman sophomore team, a 210-191 loser to Proviso East. Rick Jacobson was Maine's medalist with a 49.

Grove opens links campaign

Elk Grove, in the thick of the fight for the Paddock Cup signifying area high school supremacy, will need a good season by its golf team to help share the burden.

The Grenadiers will kick off their links campaign this afternoon (weather permitting) in a conference clash with defending Mid-Suburban League champion Prospect on the Knights' home Mount Prospect Country Club course.

Seeking to remedy its 4-7 loop slate of one year ago, Elk Grove will have to slice its average total of 178 strokes per outing to become a contender.

The Grenadiers whipped Rolling Meadows, Fremd, the Mustangs again later in the season, Schaumburg and Glenbard

North en route to a 5-12 overall mark.

The Grove will tackle a big field in the Lark Park Invitational before hitting Forest View, Wheeling and Fremd. The Grenadiers will make their home debut against Arlington and Conant, Thursday, April 26.

Knights handle Demon Netmen

Prospect's delight was Maine East's disaster as the Knights bested the Blue Demons, 4-1, last Saturday in the season opener for both net teams.

The Knights ran up team points in both doubles matches plus two of three singles bouts. Maine East's only points came when Tim Brosnan defeated Prospect's Tom Fredericks, 6-2, 1-6 and 6-4.

Prospect's Mark Meves was a singles winner over Bob Wiedner, 7-5 and 6-2. Singles teammate Dave Mann bested Maine's Dave Mozdren, by equivalent scores.

In doubles play, Prospect's Jeff Risteen and Chuck Clemens were 6-1, 6-1 winners over Maine's Ed Passen and Bill Jensen. The other doubles match went to Prospect, 6-1 and 6-2, with John Waters and Steve Ristow beating Kent Silbert and Lee Anderson.

Missing was Bob Zimmanck, Coach Jim Wright's fine senior letterman. Prospect's ace tore up his ankle in basketball and just got out of a cast after eight weeks of limping. Only time will tell when he'll be ready for action.

Meves and the doubles team of Risteen and Clemens will be counted on to carry much of the load. All are veterans.

Of the upcoming Mid-Suburban League matches, Wright couldn't narrow it down as to which team would be the team to beat.

"They're all good," he said. "With the exception of Arlington, it should be an excellent league."

Five Hersey lettermen return

Infield defense key for Huskies

by JIM COOK

It's a new ball game for Hersey. While in the past the Huskie varsity baseball team has had to rely on the outstanding individual — the Mark Leonhards or the Bruce Frases, for example — head coach Steve Chernicky will have to beat a different path to repeat as Mid-Suburban champions again.

"Our chief strength is our team," Chernicky admitted. "We don't have anyone that's head and shoulders above anyone else. If we win some ball games this season, it will be because everyone's contributing."

A nucleus of five returning lettermen form the network from which Hersey defends its title. Co-captains Bob Marzec and Al Weichers join Pat Hart, Matt Loriss and Steve Arneri in the Huskies' veteran corps.

"Our defense in the infield is going to be the key," Chernicky stressed. "That's where we're going to have to be steady and make the big play."

Chernicky would like nothing better than a set lineup — players who could man the same positions for an entire season. Unfortunately, it won't come to pass.

"Almost every position in our infield depends on who's on the mound for us," Chernicky explained. "We've got a lot of kids that can do several things for us."

Chernicky is working with Marzec, Mike Broderick and Brian Nelson at third base, but Broderick is also a candidate at short along with Casey Frankiewicz and Art Hoestery. Weichers appears to have a spot at second, but John Caruso could help out.

Tom Good is a possibility at first base or the outfield which should also include Arneri, Gary Ardent, Mark Krause, Marzec, Loriss, Hart, Tom Vetta and Mark Zakula.

The catching chores are open to Dave Mnichowicz, John Kanelis, Mike McGrath or Greg Marek. The mound staff could include Hart, Marzec, Good, McGrath, Nelson, Kanelis or Walt Hinricks.

"That's a lot of ifs," Chernicky recognized. "It all depends on who's doing the pitching for us."

Injuries may help solve Chernicky's problems. Hart, whom the veteran coach would like to count on heavily, broke his hand during the wrestling season and hasn't been able to throw this spring yet.

"We'd welcome his services immediately," Chernicky understated. "He's a good control pitcher. He doesn't own an outstanding fastball, but his deuce is a good one. It all depends on how his hand responds. It was a good, clean break, so we're hoping he mends fast."

Another question mark is Hinricks who is nursing a sore elbow but is hard at work to remedy the situation and should be ready when the Huskies open the conference season Monday against Forest View, the team they beat in the championship game last year, 3-0.

Hersey warmed up for the league opener against Maine West over the weekend but wound up on the short end of a 3-1 count. "We got a lot accomplished in that ball game," Chernicky said. "We got to look at a lot of people in different positions. No, I'm not worried about our hitting after that game," he answered. "We out-hit them six to five."

While the Huskies are intent upon repeating the crown they earned in 1972, Chernicky sees Rolling Meadows posing a serious threat in an unpredictable year.

"Any team is capable of winning our division this year," Chernicky said. "I mentioned Rolling Meadows since they were a tough opponent last year and they should have everyone back again this year."

Hersey trails with 5

Maine West 2nd in tennis quad

Depending upon who you're rooting for, the chilly weather has/hasn't bothered some area prep tennis teams.

Weekend results found Maine North's record dropping to 0-2 after a 4-1 loss to Proviso East. Maine West placed second behind Homewood-Flossmoor, 19-15, in the first of three quads the Warriors will host this spring. Other scoring was Crystal Lake 14 and Hersey 5.

Maine North's only win against Proviso East was in doubles play when Ed Legatowicz and Mike Pearlman were 3-6, 6-1 and 6-4 winners.

North's Chris Jenner, Greg Seidler and John Vames all lost in singles play. George Payette and Norm Maasshoff were defeated in doubles competition.

Hersey really had its troubles in the Maine West Quad, advancing only Dean Muenzer in sixth singles to the championship finals.

Once there, Muenzer got off to a shaky start, losing the first set, 1-6, to Maine West's Frank Lux. But he rebounded for sets of 6-3 and 7-5 to win.

In championship play, the host Warriors advanced four singles entrants plus the doubles team of Steve Wild and Jack Semler to finals. The latter pair defeated Homewood-Flossmoor's Tris Palmgren and Doug Cohen, 6-0 and 6-1.

But in singles finals, only West's John Anderson won when he bested Crystal Lake's Pat Miller, 6-4 and 6-2. Semler, Wild and Joe Thimm lost in singles finals for the Warriors.

Hersey and Maine West crossed paths three times in consolation finals, the Huskies winning twice. Keith Raynor beat Maine's Jeff Treaker, 6-1 and 6-1, at third singles. Raynor teamed with Bruce McAllister in a 6-2, 6-3 consolation doubles win over Maine's Doug Meister and Russ Bullmer.

Anderson and Treaker defeated Hersey's Al Myers and John Hastings, 6-0 and 6-1, in the consolation finals at first doubles.

In other consolation finals, Hersey lost in all four singles matches. Mark Johnson lost 6-1, 5-7 and 6-3 to Crystal Lake's Bob Beers at first singles. Homewood-Flossmoor's Jim Harper defeated the Huskies' Myers, 6-0 and 6-1, at second singles.

Hersey also lost fourth and fifth consolation singles matches. McAllister was beaten 6-1 and 7-5 by Crystal Lake's Warren Gilstrap. Hastings lost 6-0 and 6-0 to Homewood-Flossmoor's Palmgren.

Hersey's Mark Johnson and Muenzer were beaten 6-3, 4-6 and 6-2 in second doubles consolation finals.

New coach for Card linksmen

Arlington's golf fortunes will rest on the shoulders of a new head coach this season. Bud Bornman, a teacher at Forest View, will take the reins from departing Tom Walthouse who has since taken the frosh-soph job at Rolling Meadows under Mike Nisen.

Bornman will inherit Arlington's traditionally tough links team that stroked a 7-4 Mid-Suburban League record last season and an 8-5 mark overall.

The Cards averaged a stingy 162 shots per match in 1972, but graduated the heart of their lineup including Chris Marszalek, John Gibbel and Dan Hahn.

Weather permitting, Arlington will kick off the new campaign in a hosting role against Hersey at 3:30 today. Call it an early season acid test for the Cards, since they challenge potent St. Viator Thursday at Rob Roy.

Palatine, Maine West trail LaGrange

Palatine and Maine West fought to a second place standoff but neither was a threat to LaGrange which hosted and easily won a varsity track triangular last Saturday.

The Pirates and Warriors totalled 43½ points apiece, far behind the 70 registered by LaGrange's Lions.

Palatine did register four firsts, one more than Maine West. The Pirates' Jim Grab won shot put (50.7½) and discus (132-2½). He was the only double winner from among the Herald area's two team entrants.

Palatine also grabbed the mile relay in 3:34.5 behind Tom Glenn, Jim Constantino, Chuck Bell and Larry Memmes. Scott Williams won the open mile in 4:27.6 for the Pirates.

Maine's individual firsts were by Bob Chapman in the 220-dash (22.7) and Billy Klippert in 120 high hurdles (14.7). West's 880-relay team of Art Mraz, Steve Jacobsen, Mark Siska and Chapman won in 1:36.0. Chapman turned a 22.0 on his eight mile.

Event-by-event, the Herald area's other place winners were as follows:

Two-mile run: Maine's Chip Barbour second (9:46.6) and Palatine's Dave Tehle third (9:46.6).

120 high hurdles: Palatine's Dave Bailey fourth (17.0).

100-dash: Maine's Chapman second (19.8) and Mraz third (10.7). Palatine's Mennes fourth (10.8).

880-run: Palatine's Chuck Bell second (2:00.2).

880-relay: Palatine second (1:37.0) behind Jan Fitzgerald, Jim Constantino, Bob Casile and Bailey.

440-dash: Palatine's Mennes second (56.0).

180 low hurdles: Maine's Klippert second (19.8). Palatine's Fitzgerald third (20.4) and Bailey fourth (20.8).

Mile run: Palatine's Paul Kearns fourth (4:44.8).

220 dash: Maine's Mraz second (23.2). Palatine's Castle third (23.5).

Mile relay: Maine third behind Kevin Skahan, Scott Fischke, Jacobsen and Klippert.

Long jump: Maine's Mark Siska third (19.5) and Dave Braun fourth (19.3).

Shot put: Maine's Jeff Kiester second (44.0).

Discus: Palatine's Scott Cole third (109.7½).

Pole Vault: Maine's Scott Sykora third (11.4).

High jump: Maine's Ken Meyers and Palatine's Mike Murphy tied for second at 5-10.

No track meets were scheduled for Monday. This afternoon's schedule includes Maine West and Maine South at Deerfield, Palatine at Elk Grove, Fremd at Forest View, Hersey at Schaumburg, Conant at Wheeling, Glenbard North at Arlington and Prospect plus St. Viator at Rolling Meadows.

CYPRESS GARDENS, one of central Florida's oldest tourist attractions, features great family entertainment in its four daily water ski shows.

BABY ALLIGATORS soon will be hatched from eggs being gathered by Owen Godwin, originator-owner of Gatorland, Florida's largest, most beautiful alligator farm, encompassing more than 17 acres. Godwin started Gatorland 23 years ago just south of Orlando on U.S. 17-92.

'Action Center,' Florida

by CLARE WRIGHT

ORLANDO, Fla. — Traveling to central Florida without visiting Walt Disney World is a little like ordering a chocolate sundae without the sauce.

But even though everything's coming up happiness in the Magic Kingdom these days, shaking hands with Mickey Mouse and glorying in the joys of fantasyland are not the only reasons for choosing this part of the Sunshine State for a family vacation.

"We're the hub of a terrific vacation area surrounded by more than half of Florida's major attractions," said an Orlando Chamber of Commerce spokesman.

And there are still more to come! SOON TO open are the $15 million marine park, Sea World of Florida; Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus World, and Bible World.

A preview center for Sea World already is open, where we caught a glimpse of the fabulous entertainments to be featured in what is expected to be the world's largest marine park when it opens next fall.

Orlando has been dubbed the "action center" because it's probably easier to get to — and closer to more fun attractions — than any other city in Florida.

Yes, they've got hotel rooms! More than 17,000 at last count. The Orlando Chamber of Commerce offers $100 reward to anyone who can't find accommodations in the area.

We stayed at the newly opened World Inn. Right on the edge of Walt Disney World property in Lake Buena Vista, it's close to Interstate 4, and just a short distance from some of Florida's top-drawing tourist attractions — Winter Park, Gatorland, Cypress Gardens, Cape Kennedy, Ben White Raceway, Weeki Wachee Springs, Ocala National Forest, Silver Springs, Lake Wales, the Citrus belt, Busch Gardens — and a whole list of other features geared to family vacationing.

If you have a week or two to spend in the central Florida area you probably can cover most of these attractions and still have time to laze in the sun.

BUT MAKE no mistake about it. If you have kids in tow, Walt Disney World has to be your first stop!

That may be true even if you don't have kids. We ran into one Northwest suburban couple who had left their four children with Grandma to take their second honeymoon at Disney World!

Senior citizens also dote on the magic and wonder of Uncle Walt's Florida Kingdom, where everybody seems to live happily ever after.

"This is our tenth visit," one gray-haired gent proudly told us as we stood waiting to go "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea."

When Disney was planning his "Vacation Kingdom of the World" here in central Florida, it's reported he visited Dick Pope Sr., originator of spectacular Cypress Gardens in Winter Haven.

SOMEONE had told Disney that Pope called "Mr. Florida" down here) has been drawing fantastic crowds for some 20 years with "a bunch of gardens and a water ski show."

The people at Disney soon found that Florida's oldest tourist attraction was a lot more than that. So did we.

Horticulturists and "Sunday gardeners" go crazy in Cypress Gardens' 220 acres of breath-taking botanical wonders. It's like strolling through a fairyland. When your feet get tired of walking through the tropical splendor, take a quiet electric boat ride that winds through 100 spring-fed lakes as the boat driver comments on some of the more than 2,000 varieties of tropical plants and flowers.

The Cypress Gardens water ski show is the world's longest-running continuous show. Four shows a day feature exciting acts of frontward and backward barefoot skiing, the amazing delta wing kite and 11-man human pyramids.

Billy and Susi — and thousands of other youngsters in the stadiums — were delighted with the clown acts.

er youngsters in the stadiums — were delighted with the clown acts.

ONE OF OUR most pleasant days here in the Orlando area was the one spent in quiet, elegant Winter Park — a charming, offbeat spot with tree-lined streets and a unique string of old world-like shops.

We had lunch at the Langford Resort Hotel — an ideal place to stay with a family.

To lure the youngsters they have (besides a large heated pool) a unique play area and a mini-zoo whose unquestionable star and master is a talented, affectionate monkey charmer named Michael.

A scenic boat ride through Winter Park's "Venetian Canals" is a must.

BETWEEN Orlando and Kissimmee, on U.S. 17-92, we stopped to visit Owen Godwin's fabulous Gatorland Zoo, Florida's oldest alligator farm and the world's largest breeders of the swampy creatures.

Godwin, a colorful gentleman who has hunted big game and collected animals and birds all over the world, authored a book on Florida snakes, and who possesses an overwhelming compassion and love for animal, bird and reptile creatures, started Gatorland 23 years ago with a single alligator named "Jake."

On our stroll through the immaculately clean, beautiful grounds of Gatorland we saw hundreds of "Jake's" descendants in all age brackets — from tiny "newborns" to crusty old grandfathers.

The youngsters had a ball feeding the alligators and crocodiles, riding a giant tortoise, watching the snakes and counting alligator eggs. A ride around Gatorland on a bright-red miniature train really capped the pleasant visit.

PEOPLE ARE just finding out there's lots for a family to see and do in and around Orlando.

For a town that 50 years ago wasn't even on the U.S. map, this one has mushroomed into one of the country's most famous cities.

As one Orlando businessman said to us:

"The nice thing about the Orlando area is that it's completely surrounded by Florida!"

ORLANDO — fast becoming Florida's "action center," with more than half of the Sunshine State's major attractions in and around its areas.

It's scenic, historic...and inexpensive

For a 'fun' European camp, try Greece

Looking for European campsites that are inexpensive, scenic and historic? Try Greece.

Camping sites are numerous on the mainland — particularly in Northern Greece and on the Peloponnese, according to officials of the Greek National Tourist Organization.

However, they suggest you don't plan on renting camping equipment in Greece. If you're planning a long itinerary around Europe, either have your equipment shipped over or rent it along with a car at some other point, reaching Greece by way of Italy and Yugoslavia.

The majority of Greek sites are operated by the National Tourist Organization and prices are extremely low. A list of sites is available from the Greek National Tourist Organization, 601 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

FOR THOSE ENTERING the country by way of Yugoslavia, northern Greece, with its abundant greenery, mountains, beaches and archeological areas, is one of the most exciting for motorists to explore.

There are three major camping sites here on the Theraic Gulf, at Kavala and at Alexandroupolis, all with beach facilities.

The Theraic Gulf site affords a good base for exploring the natural beauties of the Chalkidiki Peninsula whose easternmost prong belongs to the monastic area of Mount Athos.

Nearby, too, is Thessaloniki, Greece's second city. This site has 480 places for tents and caravans and 17 chalets, each with two double bedrooms. There are also three cafeterias and two restaurants as well as grocery stores and cooking facilities. Laundry areas, a general store and a special bank exchange are also provided. In addition to a beach around a natural bay there is a sports area offering tennis, basketball and volleyball courts.

FROM THE KAVALA area you can take the ferry to the island of Thassos or visit the ruins of Amphipolis and Philippi. This site is located in a wooded area on a small gulf, with 120 places for tents and caravans. There is a restaurant, bar, store and communal kitchen. The third site at Alexandroupolis has 144 places for tents and 3 "hotels." Other facilities include a canteen, open-air restaurant, store and communal kitchen.

In addition to camping sites there are many youth hostels and village guest houses throughout Greece that are open year-round. Detailed information can be obtained from the Greek Youth Hostels Association, 4 Odos Dragatsaniou, Plateia Klatthmonos, Athens, Greece, or from your travel agent.

THE BERMUDA EASTER LILY is exported — by the thousands — to decorate church altars in many parts of the world. Here, students help gather in the harvest of Easter lilies, once a mainstay of Bermuda's economy. Tourism now replaces lily production as the chief industry of the subtropical island chain.

Camelot gone to sea

by SEAN PRYOR

HAMILTON, Bermuda — You've got to hand it to King Arthur. He knew what he was doing back there in Camelot, organizing the seasons by royal decree.

Mind you, it's been that way in Bermuda for years, except that tradition has replaced decree.

For instance, one has only to watch for the first appearance of the elegant long-tail or the first bloom of the Easter lily to know that spring is back and that it's time to break out the Bermuda shorts again.

The Bermuda Easter lily is perhaps the most enduring local symbol of spring in this Camelot gone to sea. The plant has thrived in Bermuda's rich, red soil since its introduction in 1853 by a clergyman returning home from Japan.

A deadly virus virtually wiped out lily production at one point, but in the early 1920s a local grower, Howard Dunscombe Smith, finally succeeded in producing a virus-resistant strain which he named Lilium Howardii. The industry thrived once more, but there remained one problem to solve before successful lily production could be guaranteed.

THE PLANT HAD proved to be fickle in its blooming habits. Sometimes the crop would appear too early for export at Easter, and sometimes too late. Scientists at the Government's Department of Agriculture finally overcame the problem after experimenting with vernalization — a deep-freeze process by which flowers can be made to bloom at predetermined times — and produced a new, hardy strain. It is this strain that decorates the altars of churches in many corners of the world today.

Spring in Bermuda is not, however, the exclusive preserve of the Easter lily. From March onwards, the island's indigenous subtropical flowers come into bloom — oleander, Bougainvillea, frangipani, hibiscus and delicately shaded morning glories which are so prolific that most Bermudians regard the purple-colored bloom as a weed.

With the flowers in full bloom once more, organized Tuesday tours of outstanding homes are conducted by Bermuda Garden Club members through May.

This flurry of horticultural activity culminates in late April with the annual Agricultural Exhibition in the Botanical Gardens, one of the most popular and colorful events of the year.

Throughout April there is a subtle quickening in tempo, and from all over North America, college students descend on the colony by the thousands for annual government-sponsored College Weeks. Beach parties, barbecues, cruises and kite-flying competitions are among the many events organized for students by the Department of Tourism.

HOW DOES kite-flying get in there among the parties and barbecues? Bermuda lays claim to being the "kite capital of the world" — at least on Good Friday — and her credentials are impressive. Every Good Friday, the skies above the colony are freckled with kites of every color and description. Bermudians carry on a tradition said to have been started in the 1800s by a Sunday school teacher who, to give her pupils a vivid explanation of the Ascension, constructed a simple three-stick kite and painted on it a likeness of Christ.

Kite-flying may not exactly qualify as a major springtime sport, but fitted-dinghy racing certainly does.

The fitted dinghy is unique to Bermuda. This sturdy craft is a wide, fairly shallow draught dinghy that carries a staggering 1,000 square feet of sail and a crew of six. The dinghy must make at least six knots just to stay afloat under its huge weight of sail, and in order to increase speed on a final flow to the line, crew members leap overboard to lighten the load. Of the six-man crew, three are quite literally "disposable" ballast, while a fourth has the permanent (and unenviable) task of bailing out.

Spectacular fitted dinghy races are held every other Sunday in one of three places — St. George's Harbour, Hamilton Harbour or Mangrove Bay — and not surprisingly are among the most popular spectator events.

FOR THE ACTIVE sportsman, golf and tennis rule the roost. The colony boasts nine golf courses — or some seven golf holes per square mile — and four are of championship standard. The Bermuda Golf Association runs a comprehensive program of events and there are many tournaments in which visitors can take part.

The air temperature is in the comfortable 70's and the sea temperature rises from an average 65 in April to an average of 77 in June.

The annual game fishing season gets under way on the first Sunday in May, and the government's Fishing Information Bureau runs a light-tackle tournament open to visitors and locals alike throughout the season (May through October), with prizes in all categories.

Bermuda is an island of tradition, and colorful ceremonies held throughout the year range from the Peppercorn Ceremony in the old capital of St. George's — on April 24 this year — to the annual Queen's Birthday Parade, June 4, through the streets of Hamilton.

But the nicest tradition of all is Bermuda's traditionally warm welcome. Golfers, sightseers, beachcombers, lily connoisseurs and sailors — all report that the warmth of the welcome is the greatest lure of all to this land of (King Arthur notwithstanding) eternal springtime.

Camelot, move over.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright,
TRAVEL EDITOR

My 13-year-old son, who says he wants to be an actor, has just decided he'll audition to be a Walt Disney World "character" when he turns 17.

While vacationing in the Orlando area a few weeks ago we had occasion to talk to a few of the young people who are part of the group of some 350 performers who caper and cavort about the Magic Kingdom as Dopey and Tigger and Mickey and Donald and Thumper... and all the other beloved Disney cartoon people.

"They're wonderful kids — and a very loyal group," a Walt Disney World spokesman told us.

"They probably receive a greater reward than anybody else working at Disney World," continued the young woman, who has played a couple of the "characters" herself from time to time.

"The children who greet us are great. They come up and hug you — and their faces just light up. You can tell how much they love these characters!"

MOST OF THE young men and women playing the "characters" are between 17 and 20. Some of them attend school. Others are hoping to go on to more varied careers in the entertainment world and consider the Disney work "great experience."

Disney "characters" are chosen in tryouts. The main requirement is that they be very agile. Some training in dancing or amateur theatrics can be helpful. And, of course, they have to love kids!

After they're chosen to be part of the "stock company" of Disney cartoon people, the young performers take a course in animation and learn special dances so that they can move like the characters as Walt Disney created them.

Some performers are "regulars" and have been characters from the opening of Walt Disney World in the fall of 1971.

Others are "extras" and may be called only once or twice a month.

In an eight-hour stint a performer enacts a character for 20 minutes at a time, with one-hour breaks in between.

The long break periods are partly because of the cumbersome costumes they wear. Experiments are being made for creating special air conditioning within the costumes to make them more comfortable on hot, humid days.

ONE EVENING during our stay in Orlando, the children went into the World Inn coffee shop to have cold drinks. Suddenly Susi came running over to me excitedly:

"Mom, that waiter who served us dinner tonight is 'Goofy'!"

"Now, honey, you simply mustn't say things like that about people!"

"No, Mom, you don't understand! I mean he PLAYS 'Goofy' at Walt Disney World. He's one of the characters!"

Sure enough. Looking up Joel Hampton, the genial manager of the World Inn, we discovered that most of his night-time help in the coffee shop are in-cognito Disney World characters.

He told us casually, "We have two of the Three Little Pigs working here, Peter Pan, Dopey (who's a 'she'), Chip, Pluto, Alice in Wonderland, Tigger, Goofy — and a few others. They're all Orlando kids — and just great."

Hampton said that people had complimented him on the charm and personality of the young waiters — without realizing they were also Disney "characters."

THE WORLD INN, which is patterning its coffee shop around a theatrical theme, is planning to capitalize on the singing and dancing abilities of its talented waiters to work up some suppertime entertainment.

Is it fun to be a character? We asked a smiling young man who plays Goofy.

"It's the most fun I've ever had. We have some wonderful experiences — and some very funny and very emotional things happen. It's just great!"

So, Bill — I guess if you still want to try out to be a Disney "character" when you're 17 — you have your Mom's blessing.

SUMMER LEISURE TOURS TO CANADA

Air Canada has just released a colorful pictorial brochure outlining 15 unique summer tours that cover Canada's broad 4,000 miles from coast to coast.

All-inclusive city tours to Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver offer a combination of gourmet dining, boutique shopping and exciting night life all done with European flair.

Itineraries can be planned with a flight to one of Air Canada's destinations where you can pick up an Avis Rent-A-Car and proceed to one of the Holiday Inns listed in the program. For golfers, special privileges are available at many of Canada's top courses.

Other Air Canada summer tours include a relaxing seven-day Circle Tour of Nova Scotia by motorcoach featuring old Acadian villages, Cape Breton and Prince Edward Islands; combination five to 14-day fly/rail tours of central and eastern Canada; an 11-day fly/cruise tour that starts in Vancouver aboard the ship, Island Princess, taking the inside passage up the coast of British Columbia to Alaska, and three tours of the scenic Canadian Rockies.

Air Canada's new summer brochure also offers handy details on entry regulations into Canada, customs regulations on crossing the Canada-U.S. border as well as general information about currency, language and weather in Canada. Full details on air fares and ground costs are included.

For further information and a copy of the free catalog, contact Air Canada, 300 N. State St., Chicago, Ill. 60610.

FAMILY BARGAINS IN SCANDINAVIA

Bargains for the independent traveler — and for the youth fare crowd — are highlighted in two new free publications, "SAS Independent Traveler" and "SAS Youth News," available free at local area travel agents' offices.

Included are details on low-cost air fares on Scandinavian Airlines flights, reductions on hotel rates, economy priced sightseeing tours, car rental plans and rail travel.

"SAS Youth News" describes bargain travel fares, youth discounts, study programs, hosting and other aspects of youth travel in Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

SIX FLAGS OVER MID-AMERICA

A regional office has been opened in Chicago by Six Flags Over Mid-America, which launches its 1973 season with an exciting new concept in family entertainment in its 200-acre complex in Eureka, Mo., near St. Louis.

Don Pittman, a veteran of seven years in the travel industry, is Chicago sales manager. Pittman formerly was regional sales manager for Continental Airlines in Chicago. He will be dealing with travel agents, schools, and all types of groups and organizations to help them plan outings to Six Flags Over Mid-America.

"Six Flags prices are the same this year as they were in 1971," Pittman noted. He adds that discounts are available for groups of 25 or more by calling him at 824-5136.

Six Flags Over Mid-America features a multitude of rides and attractions that cater to the widest possible range of age groups, according to Pittman.

One ticket ($5.50 for a child and $6.50 for an adult) buys everything. You can see and do it all as many times as you like on the one ticket.

SUPER DELUXE VACATION

Are you the kind of person who wants only a super deluxe hotel somewhere away from the masses? If you have not yet tried the fabulous Mauna Kea Beach Hotel at Kamuela on the big island of Hawaii, you should plan now for this treat. It is one of the most beautiful resort hotels in the world and therefore, necessary to book long in advance. Rates are $900 to 100.00 dollars per day for two persons, including breakfast and dinner.

Looking for something similar but not quite so expensive? Try the Kahala Hilton or the new Kuliama on Oahu — both very deluxe and secluded (not on Waikiki).

During 1972 alone, this agency made Hawaii arrangements for 136 persons. Some were package tours, and some were independent arrangements. Some were super deluxe and one honeymoon couple went for $299 each. Whatever your interests (and pocket-book) stop in at ROBERTA FISHER TRAVEL AGENCY, INC. on Northwest Hwy. across from the depot in Arlington Heights. Or call us at 392-6320 — open daily Monday through Saturday and Monday evenings.

Bracketed numbers in the vacation descriptions that follow: (3), (2), (1) — indicate the number of nights you will spend in that city.

Topps opens Pet Center

A new Pet Center has opened at Topps of Rolling Meadows. According to David Brinkman, area supervisor of Topps Pet Centers, Topps utilizes a totally new concept in the pet industry.

Because Topps buys in volume, they are able to sell quality pets and merchandise at below average prices Brinkman said. The Pet Center sells 8 varieties of tropical fish, 2 varieties of mice and hamsters, guinea pigs, snakes, lizards and parakeets plus a full line of pet-related merchandise.

With each pet comes a one week guarantee on the pet's life.

Brinkman, who has ten years experience in the pet industry, said Topps employs only trained personnel to work in its Pet Center and that these employees are there to help the customer with any pet questions or problems they may have.

In addition to its many other services, Topps Pet Center offers a free pet magazine to anyone who signs up for it. It is issued once a month and offers pet owners advice and information on the care of their pets. Brinkman said that between 400 and 500 people have already signed up for the magazine.

The Courtesy Clinic series, as they will be known, will be conducted initially for an eight-week period at the 700 East Rand store in Mt. Prospect. Morning sessions will be held each Tuesday between 10:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. in the Courtesy auditorium designed especially for this program.

Clinics will be keyed to the "professional approach to do-it-yourself-decorating" under direction of Thad Daniel, A.I.D. acc., according to Courtesy principals Joe Ender and Zangwill Munies. How-to tips, making them work for you, questions and answers will round out the breezy format, they said.

Daniel, acclaimed in Chicago and suburbs as a highly stylized interior designer, will reveal his secrets and approach to creating unique decorator effects with common household items. Many of his outstanding ideas are presently featured montage-style in a series of panels lining the walls of Courtesy's fully equipped auditorium.

Courtesy Home Center plans to extend its clinic series to special programs oriented to the interests of men and teens as well. Topics of discussion and corresponding scheduling will be revealed once the women's series is underway. All clinics will be offered at no charge to participant groups.

In further serving the community interest, Courtesy will avail its auditorium facility on a reserved basis to local organizations. Private meetings can be arranged during store hours only. Courtesy Home Center is open weekdays, 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.; on Saturday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Sunday.

Local Loan in 65th year

On April 2, 1973, Local Loan Co. began its 65th year in the consumer finance business.

Mr. Fred B. Snite, now eight-nine and still totally involved in the business he founded, recalls how he started in the business on April 2, 1908, with a capital of $11,000 borrowed from his father. The size of his first office was seven by fifteen feet and when he had more than one customer, the other had to step out. The hours were from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., six days a week. Mr. Snite opened his first branch office on the South side of Chicago in 1912.

The Des Plaines Local Loan, managed by Jim Logan, is one of the 121 Local Loan offices from coast to coast, with headquarters in Chicago.

Local Loan Co. today is what Fred Snite set out to make it — a credit to each community it serves. From a one room office to a network of 121 offices, serving 11 states — Local Loan Company is the largest and oldest personally owned, controlled, and operated consumer finance corporation in its field.

Burger King outlet opens

The opening of the Burger King Restaurant at 1660 Irving Park Boulevard, Hanover Park, has been announced by Glenn Glass, director of operations for Self Service Restaurants, Inc., the Illinois licensee for Burger King Corporation. The manager of the new restaurant will be Ronald Royce, Glass announced.

The restaurant, with a modern brick and glass exterior, has been designed by the architects to blend harmoniously with the neighborhood. The interior features seating for over 75 people, a wide service counter area, and attractive decorating and appointments. The full range of popular Burger King Restaurant menu items will be available, Glass said.

The Hanover Park Burger King Restaurant is one of over 60 units owned by Self Service Restaurants, Inc. in the Chicago area. Many of these units are in the northwest suburbs, and Glass noted that "the growth of this area, and its highly mobile population has played a great part in our growth in the past few years. We are pleased that the opening of this new Burger King Restaurant gives us another opportunity to serve this vital and growing community."

April designated as Hobby Month

At a time when shorter work weeks and sophisticated machinery have given Americans more leisure hours than ever, hobbies are playing an increasingly vital role in our national life according to Lee Anderson, President of Lee Wards, national art and hobbycraft chain.

Hobbies have become so important that Congress has officially designated April as "April is Hobby Month." Psychologists and sociologists say that a means of making creative and constructive use of leisure time is one of the most pressing needs of our society today.

To millions of Americans, the answer to this need is to have a hobby.

While hobbyists range from collectors of shrunken heads to Tiffany Lamp makers, the great majority like to work with their hands on craft items with a creative flair.

What is a hobby?

"Almost anything you like to do in your spare time," says Lee Wards' Mr. Anderson.

"More recently, the country's cultural explosion has resulted in greater interest in craft items in the hobby field, including more elaborate 'paint-by-numbers' sets and the creation of mosaics and acrylic home decorations from hobby kits," Anderson said.

"Kits of all kinds provide the basis for the largest percentage of hobby endeavors today. With them, persons of all ages discover they can find outlets for their creative urges and interest in the world around them."

Today's hobby kits are more detailed than ever and can be used by persons of all degrees of skill. Whether it's a flower arrangement, needlecraft, decoupage, or a kit for creating an elaborate and decorative wall hanging or plaque, it permits young and old alike to enjoy the pride of self-accomplishment that comes from creating something. The ability to say "I made it myself" does more for our society than all the psychologists in the world. For this reason the hobby kit is fast becoming the focus of leisure time in America," Anderson concluded.

Lee Wards, headquartered in Elgin, Illinois, owns and operates 23 art and hobbycraft stores all over the country. The hobbycraft chain is a subsidiary of General Mills, Inc.

Fayva shoes opens Schaumburg store

The new Fayva shoe store at Woodfield Commons, intersection of Golf Rd. and Meacham Rd., offers an all-new concept in fashion footwear retailing in the Chicago area. Fayva is the first shoe store whose entire inventory consists only of the most wanted, up-to-the-minute fashion shoes for men, women and children.

The new Fayva in Schaumburg is one of the seven new openings in greater Chicago of a nationwide chain of self-service shoe stores designed to offer the family the opportunity to select exclusively from highly desirable, first quality collections of shoes, and save money at the same time.

"We view Fayva as a real breakthrough," explains regional director Richard Trevethan. "With seven new Fayva stores surrounding the metropolitan area, Chicago residents can now find the most wanted shoe styles on the fashion scene and also realize genuine savings of $2-$6 or more per pair for the same quality sold elsewhere."

"At Fayva, customers will never find old or unwanted styles left over from last year. Men, women and children can choose from thousands of pairs of first quality shoes, boots and footwear of all kinds. Shoppers will also find every style displayed by size on open shelving for fast convenient selection. This self-service reduces overhead, which helps keep Fayva prices low. Also, our company sells millions of pairs of shoes annually and can therefore afford to sell for less."

Fayva shoe stores stock hundreds of fashion imports from Europe and Latin America, plus the latest looks from scores of American designers. Handbags, hosiery, belts and shoe care products are also offered.

"Our policy of giving customers the fashion shoes they want for dollars less has been so well accepted in other Fayva stores, that we felt further expansion into the Chicago market was warranted," said Trevethan.

Topps joins Poole Ford

George C. Poole, President of George C. Poole Ford Co. of Arlington Heights announced the appointment of Mr. Roy Topp as General Truck Division Sales Manager.

Roy Topp, a resident of Westchester has been associated with Ford sales for the past ten years, having previously worked at Schermer Ford and Milo Brooke Ford Co. He is a seven time Ford "Top Hatter," an honorary distinction recognized by the Ford Motor Car Co. for outstanding yearly sales achievements. Topp is a ten year member of the Ford Motor Co. "500" club for professional sales executives and he comes to George C. Poole Ford Co. with a recognized background of sales experience in the Midwest Auto industry.

Mobile homes increase units

A record year was forecast by the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association. The industry expects a 10 per cent increase in shipments this year over last year's 570,000 units. This increase will put 1973 sales at almost 630,000 units.

THE PLAZA BUNNY will once again make an appearance at Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central Rds., in Mt. Prospect on Saturday and Sunday, April 14th and 15th, and again on Friday and Saturday, April 20 and 21. The Plaza Bunny will have Bunny rings as well as candy for all the boys and girls visiting the plaza.

Retail association selects coloring contest winners

Forty-two talented boys and girls were awarded painting sets as prizes in the Anniversary Treasure Hunt Coloring Contest sponsored on March 21-24 by Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association Inc. at the shopping center at Rand and Central Rds.

Fourteen different pictures, which ran in area papers, were available to color during this contest. Each picture specified a particular store to which it should be returned. For each location the Merchants Association chose three winners to be awarded prizes.

Winners from the various stores are: Card Ark Hallmark Shop: M. Kravick, Lyn Wieck and Tony Lamka. Chez Chantal, Scott Michael, Judy Kaande and Rob Kruse. Goldblatts: Debbie Bruder, Mark Nathan and Andrew Ziemba. Harry's Shoe Center: Beth Heckelmiller, John Benge and Jim Szvmanowski. Jack's Men's Shop: Ricky Scott, George Janikowski and Kevin Stanger. Kohl's Food Store: Vincent Pellizzeri, Lisa Pascale and Eric Tralmer. G. C. Murphy's: Lisa Prock, Barbara Bacon and Elizabeth Bartlow. Merle Norman Cosmetics: David Ford, Kim Kloss and April

Davis, Scanda House: David Lev, Peg Haslen and Cindy Peterson. Sherwin Williams paint store: Becky Urbanski, Garv Connor and Cris Slivka. Sorority House: Rick Bennett, Maggie Lapcewicz and John Lanson. 35 Flavors: Kathie Walters, Joanne Ford and John Uth. Walgreens drug store: Ricky Scott, Brian Nowak and Cheryl Winiar. Walgreens drug store: Steve Madej, Mike Passi and Sue Behla.

Auto dealer adds to staff

Touhy Avenue Motors a Lincoln-Mercury dealership in Park Ridge has announced the appointment of Bob Lawrence to its sales staff.

Lawrence was previously a salesman with Buick in Park Ridge for 11 years and has a total of 24 years experience in the automotive field. Lawrence will sell the full line of Lincoln-Mercury product as well as Touhy Avenue Motors many used cars. He will also handle customers leasing needs.

DuBrow on TV...by Rick DuBrow

Burt Lancaster to star in series about Moses

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:
The headliners: Burt Lancaster's starring role as Moses in a six-part CBS-TV mini-series, "The Lawgiver," next season is the latest example of a well-known movie name getting involved in a major video project, although the actor has been on television before.

"The Lawgiver," which will be comprised of one-hour dramatizations based on the Book of Exodus, is a co-production of Italian and British organizations, and plans call for the filming to be done in Israel and elsewhere in the Middle East.

Among those reported set for scripts and adaptations for "The Lawgiver" are British novelist Anthony Burgess, and screenwriter Vittorio Bonicelli. Director of photography will be Giuseppe Rotunno.

Although ABC-TV's Tony Awards presentation for achievement in the Broadway theater was, as usual, a vastly superior show to the Oscar program, offered by NBC-TV, Hollywood's Oscar ceremonies, as usual, finished far higher in the ratings.

The NCAA championship basketball game between UCLA and Memphis State, seen live in NBC-TV's prime time in much of the nation, ranked 31st in the 70-city ratings. CBS-TV, which takes over the professional National Basketball Association games from ABC-TV next season, would be wise to try to keep as commentator Bill Russell, the ex-Boston Celtics great who has been a big plus on the NBA telecasts.

Jackie Gleason, away from television entertaining for far too long, will have an hour variety special on CBS-TV next season. NBC-TV has signed Sammy Davis to a long-term contract under which the network has "exclusive use of his talents in all major television appearances" effective with the 1973-74 semester.

ACTRESS Elaine Stewart has a double interest in CBS-TV's daytime game series "Gambit" — she is married to one of its executive producers, Merrill Heatter, and she is also a card dealer on the show.

Former New York City detective Eddie Egan, whose exploits inspired the movie "The French Connection," will be seen this coming Sunday as a policeman in an episode of CBS-TV's "Mannix" private eye series — a segment already broadcast during the season. Egan told "Variety" columnist Amy Archer he has a number of stories lined up for feature filming.

The programs: Paramount has plans for a half-hour comedy series pilot for ABC-TV based on the book and movie "Catch 22." NBC-TV's new "Hallmark Hall of Fame" version of the Paul Giallico story "The Small Miracle," about an orphaned Italian boy who seeks help from the Pope for his ailing donkey, airs Wednesday, with Vittorio de Sica and Raf Vallone appearing in the 90-minute presentation.

The era of knits

The gimmicks are gone, the more flamboyant styles have disappeared and the gentlemanly look has returned.

A new era of knit dressing has arrived, according to the fashion experts at American Enka.

Coordination in a wide range of knits are a strong part of the men's wear picture for spring. Suits are neat, sportswear has a new dressed up image and the look is bright and clean.

There will be a great deal of mixing and matching tops and bottoms to make a man's wardrobe of knit suits, sport coats, slacks and shirts more versatile.

The "parakeet look" — bright accents of red, yellow and blue used in combinations against dark grounds.

Sand and Surf colors encompassing rusts, tans, light brown and gold accented by safari green.

Nautical and Celestial tones of navy, royal, pale blues and misty greys.

Black, Navy or Grey combined with white — colors grouped together and accented with white will be important.

Berry and Leaf colors including pinkish hues.

Nubs and Linen effects used in polyester double knits, plaids, tweeds, two tone abstract cord fabrics.

Flannels interpreted in double knits in black and navy and in heather.

Pattern with pattern designs such as checks, chevrons and windowpanes will be seen combined in overplaids and on a checked ground.

THESE EASY-TO-SEW FASHIONS are great for casual day and evening wear. The man's slacks are double knit polyester in navy and white plaid. He wears a matching tab print shirt. For the ladies is this double knit polyester pants suit with a window pane plaid jacket and coordinating blue slacks. With the jacket off, a lightweight polyester sleeveless shell with chenel trim is revealed. Learn to make these outfits in just a few easy lessons at Stretch 'n Sew in Arlington Heights.

Cover fashions—

Upper left: A smart long dress modeled by Cherie Stewart features a built-up waistband and long skirt of 100% cotton pique in a red, white and black floral print. The long-sleeved, scoop necked bodice with wide collar is of white crochet-type cotton and nylon lace. Available at Marge's Apparel Shop in Arlington Heights.

Lower left: Pastels are a fashion hit this season and this delphinium blue and white St. John knit dress is just one of the many pastel fashions available at Marie's of Palatine. The white Bonnie Cashin handbag is also from Marie's.

Lower center: Kiddie Korner in Arlington Heights has a wide choice of fashions for children. A suit of navy and white Bannockburn tweed, top-stitched in red with nautical white buttons, is worn by Todd Stewart. A crisp green and white checked seersucker frock is modeled by Colleen Burke.

Try classic, casual styles

Spring '73 tallies up to soft-spoken and unpretentious fashion for today's aware woman.

Clothes are classic, casual, easy and effortless. The trend to the natural look is still strong.

Coats are cropped short, they're full and tenty or, wrapped and sashed. Something for everyone. Capes and ponchos remain on the scene.

Nifty, newsy little suits are significant. Their jackets are generally longer — belted or wrapped — and the long, long cardigan could be the season's winner. The skirts are most often pleated all around. The look is graceful and on-the-move.

The daytime dress becomes more and more important. The chemise is a little more body-conscious, the blouson is a bit more restrained, the shirtdress is fuller and more relaxed.

The tennis dress has left the courts and come to the city. It's a noteworthy new day or nighttime fashion.

Dresses with matching jackets or sweaters are versatile additions to every wardrobe.

Sweaters maintain their fashion appeal — from big, bulky ones to the classic pullover-cum-cardigan. Cashmere and metallic fabrics give them a new mood.

Pants are wider and often cuffed. High-rise waistlines and pleat detail are important.

Evening can be long or short.

Filmy, long gowns are frequently ruffled and crystal-pleated.

Short evening dresses are definitely back. They're very bare or very covered up; very soft or very slithery.

The caftan is practically a must for every evening wardrobe — whether sheer and simple or ornate and exotic.

The full palazzo pant has plenty of appeal and has the added feature of being flattering to most figures.

Length? Mid-knee is probably most popular. But, a few inches above the knee, mid-calf and ankle lengths are everywhere, too.

Color run the gamut from soft pastels to clear primary colors. White, beige, oyster and taupe also are favorites. Navy continues strong and spirited prints are a recurrent fashion theme.

Fabrics include cotton, linen, silk and polyester

PERFECT FOR any little lady on Easter Sunday is this two piece pinafore dress. The pink floral fabric is white organdy, perma-press. The dress is available at Children's Forest in Palatine.

Little girls in fashion

Who's the little girl batting homeruns on the neighborhood team; sharing her dreams with Raggedy Ann; forming a clubhouse called "Girls Only!"?

It's the same little girl who asks for a bedtime story, cuddles with Dad in his loungechair and looks the prettiest at those happy birthday parties. She's a daughter, granddaughter, niece, god-child — she's everyone's number one sweetheart.

Spiffy sport dresses flaunt her care-free spring feeling. Jean dresses can be worn over pants or on their own; baseball dresses take on, or off, short zippered jackets; and sleeveless sundresses may show-off matching bloomers.

After the playground and schoolyard comes time for how-old-are-you-now parties. And, pretty dressy dresses come in many flavors.

Packed with posies and soft ice cream plaids, the styles are yummy. The variety includes tunic shirtwaists with bow tie backs, full skirted puffy sleeve dresses with peter pan collars and belts, smocked pinafores with ruffy icings.

Little misses are loyal to their navy blues and sailor whites. Middy collars and nautical emblems spark pinafores, short and long dresses and good classic blazers.

Gals are going all out for fresh costume looks. Smocks, baseball and short cropped jackets make it over cuffed pants. Blazers, classic and wraparound coats make it over one and two-piece dresses.

How do they make it? With window-pane, houndstooth and seersucker checks, floral and storybook prints, soft pastel plaids. Solids make it in cotton candy colors.

On parade for Easter...

Sweater sets still popular

The sweater girl is back. She's softer, smoother and more feminine this spring.

Sweaters go over big in her active life for daytime and nighttime.

For day, she may select a fuzzy little cardigan set, a classic long cardigan to pop over sport separates or, a just-above-the-knee sweater dress.

Evening calls for glitter, glimmer and shine-on. Metallics blend easily to sparkle on twin sweater sets and toppers. The styles swing from boatnecks and elbow length dolmans to halter sweaters under short-sleeved cardigans.

Nighttime glamour is winningly achieved in long sweaters that swoop to full length. Ribs, wrap cardigan toppers, tennis sweater styling and metallics may be their winning details.

Tennis look sweaters and sweater dresses achieve good sportmanship with classic stripes, cables and V-necks.

New colors in 'wigdom'

Marie Antoinette's milliner once told her there is nothing new except what is forgotten.

The French hatter could have been talking about today's wigs. For years, the forgotten woman in wigdom had gray hair. Now, she's the country's best wig customer, and designers of hair fashions are doing some memorable wig-work with gray tressed ladies in mind.

Research by wig fiber experts shows that most gray haired women wear short, slightly curled or waved hairdos. They want the same neat look in wigs with one added attraction — ease of care. Wig designers have responded with an abundance of trim, brush-and-wear wigs of Dynel that never need setting, no matter how many times they are washed.

Perhaps the greatest boon to women with gray hair, however, is the wonderful new palette of natural gray shades. A few years ago, gray wigs were limited to salt and pepper and silvery tones, but today a woman can match both her own shade of gray and the way her gray is growing in.

Now there are wigs that mix gray not just with black but with shades of brown. Silver grays share the spotlight with slate and near-whites, and finally, there are wigs with just a hint of gray here and there.

Some women grow into gray dramatically, with most of the new color appearing like a halo around the hairline. The same crowning glory of gray also matched in the new wig styles.

Gray is the one hair color that all women wear beautifully. Now wigs of Dynel are wearing it, too in the most memorable looks in glorious grays.

Shoe news

From tip to bottom, spring shoes for women score on many fashion points — not only sole and toeline treatment, but also ties, pump patterns, opened-up looks and spectator and moc themes.

The pump has been revived this year in a number of different ways, according to Leather Industries of America.

Many of the season's pet pump tricks rest on the platform sole. Most are slim, although some have more substance. Also part of the super-sole are double soles, stacked leather soles, and — for more tailored pumps — stitched down extension soles. Heels rise in proportion to the added sole height.

Yarn Bin offers craft goods

The Yarn Bin in Woodfield Mall offers a complete line of handicraft supplies, including knitting, crocheting, crewel, needlepoint, macrame, weaving and rug-making supplies and kits.

Free instruction is available with all purchases. Regularly-scheduled classes in all areas are also held, with children's classes being planned for the summer months.

Twenty-five to 30 types and colors of yarns can be purchased at the Yarn Bin, along with unusual imported beads.

For those who wish to have individualized designs, custom orders for handpainted originals for needlepoint are accepted.

Sandra Groh-Doyle, owner of the shop, is a faculty member in Fashion Design and Art at Harper College. She has been teaching design for four years, and has a Master's Degree in Art & Textiles from Northern Illinois University.

Ballots for village election 'legal,' won't be changed

Despite objections from several Buffalo Grove residents that the ballot for the April 17 village election is misleading, the ballot will not be changed.

Village Clerk Verna Clayton said it was the opinion of Village Atty. Richard Raysa that the ballot conforms to the state statute. He said it is similar to ballots used by many other municipalities. He recommended that since the ballots were already printed, they should not be changed.

Mrs. Clayton said the ballot is also similar to those used in past elections in Buffalo Grove.

Some residents said the ballot is misleading because it implies voters are supposed to vote for nine candidates for village trustee. They are supposed to vote for only three of the 10 candidates running.

The reason for the confusion is because the words "vote for three" are placed above each of three columns containing the names of the candidates. The residents claimed that because "vote for three" is printed above each column, it implies voters are supposed to vote for three candidates in each column, for the total of nine.

The residents have suggested that "vote for three" be printed on the ballot in only one place. They said this would eliminate confusion and decrease the number of spoiled ballots.

If a resident votes for more than three candidates his ballot will be ruled invalid. Mrs. Clayton said, in past elections, with the same kind of ballot, a relatively small number of ballots have been spoiled because of residents voting for too many candidates.

The statute concerning the ballot states "words calculated to aid the voter in his choice of candidates may be added, such as vote for one or vote for three." The statute, however, says nothing about where the words should be placed.

Raysa said although, it could be argued that placing the words in the wrong position could be misleading, there are no court decisions interpreting the statute. Although there have been complaints about that type of ballot from time to time, no one has taken the matter to the courts, he said.

Raysa said anyone contesting the ballot would have to prove that voters had been deprived of their vote and that their votes would have changed the outcome of the election.

Mrs. Clayton suggested residents who feel the ballot is misleading, write to their state legislators and ask them to reexamine the statutes.

SEVERAL BUFFALO GROVE residents have objected to ballot being used in the April 17 election for village trustee. The ballot, shown in sample form above, uses the phrase "Vote for Three" above each category of candidates. Residents have charged this makes it look like the voter should vote for nine persons. The ballot will not be changed before the election and voters are reminded to only select three of the 10 candidates named on the ballot or the vote will not count.

Northwest Council backs Haase, Lurie

Incumbent William Haase and Sylvia Lurie, candidates in the River Trails Dist. 26 schoolboard race, have been endorsed by the Northwest Council of Associations.

The council, representing eight homeowners' groups in Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights, also endorsed incumbent Jack Costello, Donald Hoeck and Warren Schabinger for the High School Dist. 214 race. The council voted to support Edwin Smith and Frank Sacco in the Wheeling Dist. 21 Board contest.

According to Marie Caylor, council member, the group voted to endorse after sponsoring a candidates' forum where most of the candidates spoke and answered questions. She said that in Dists. 26 and 21, the council did not endorse one candidate for each seat because all candidates did not attend the forum.

Haase, of Mount Prospect, is seeking one of two three-year terms. He is opposed by incumbent Michael Sheyker, Rhett Baum and Dr. Alexander Ronnet, all of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Lurie, who lives in the unincorporated Forest River subdivision, is running for a one-year term against Robert Blomquist of Mount Prospect.

In Dist. 214, five candidates are running for three three-year terms. They are Costello and Schabinger, both of Mount Prospect, Hoeck of Arlington Heights, Ruth Helbig of Elk Grove Village and Don McGlothlin of Wheeling.

In Dist. 21, Smith, who has served two terms on the board, and Sacco are seeking election to two of three three-year terms on the board. Both live in Wheeling. They are opposed by Kenneth Reed and Kenneth Rodeck, both of Wheeling, and Steve Greenberg of Arlington Heights.

David Sowa wins Illinois state grant

A Buffalo Grove senior, David Sowa, has been awarded an Illinois State Scholarship to attend Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Sowa, 203 Mohawk Dr., was nominated for the four-year grant by State Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-1st. Each state senator and state representative may annually award a scholarship to the University of Illinois and one other state university.

Glass said his nominating committee reviewed the applications of more than 20 students residing in the 1st District before selecting Sowa and Amy Goodman of Evanston for the scholarships. Miss Goodman will attend the University of Illinois.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 15.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, snapping back at a butchers' union leader who urged President Nixon to fire him, charged that restrictive labor practices are part of the reason for high meat prices.

A leader of the American Indian Movement threatened that militant Indians would defend Wounded Knee, S.D., "with force of arms and loaded guns" if he could not meet immediately with White House officials.

The Democratic National Committee has asked for a federal court order granting it access to vital government documents on the Watergate bugging case — including the secret White House investigation of the affair.

Anthony Russo cried on the witness stand at the Pentagon Papers trial as he told the jury how deeply he came to feel for the people America was fighting in Vietnam. Russo is charged along with Daniel Ellsberg with espionage, theft of government documents and conspiracy.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., one of the Senate's leading anti-pollution advocates, predicted the Environmental Protection Agency would postpone the 1975 deadline on auto pollution standards.

President Nixon asked Congress for $381 million in additional budget authority for the current fiscal year, including $16.2 million to pay the claims of the prisoners of war.

The state

A plan to create a six-county mass transit system for Cook, Lake, Kane, DuPage, Will and McHenry counties was introduced yesterday in the Illinois House.

The search is continuing for cans of mushrooms, possibly contaminated with botulism, sold inadvertently in commissaries at Great Lakes Naval Base, and at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul.

The world

Israeli paratroopers and naval commandos attacking by sea at four Arab guerrilla bases inside neighboring Lebanon, the Israeli military command said. Arab guerrilla sources in Beirut said the attacking Israelis killed two Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Three supply ships steamed up the Mekong River, through a barrage of Communist shore fire, attempting to reach the isolated Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Two more helicopters flying cease-fire control missions in South Vietnam were fired upon, and one was reported to have been destroyed. There were no casualties.

Prices registered a sharp advance on the New York Stock Exchange, but the volume left many Wall Streeters dubious. The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks was 16.48 higher at 947.55, its biggest leap forward since a 17.01-point gain on March 27. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 1.58 to 110.86, and the average issue on the NYSE scored a 55-cent gain. Advances led declines, 995 to 458, among the 1,792 issues on the tape. Turnover totaled 13,740,000 shares against 13,890,000 shares Friday.

Apology sent to family

Elrod denies rap in death notice

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 828 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in my apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

Sheriff's police that night asked Chicago police to send a squad car to the Albany Avenue address to notify Flodin's relatives but Leach said yesterday that there has been no confirmation that the car was sent. Mrs. Flodin denied that she received any notification from Chicago police.

Leach said no news of the fatal accident was released by the sheriff's department until the next day. He mentioned the Cook County Morgue, where Flodin's body was taken the night of March 27, as a possible source of the news release.

"WE RELEASED news of the death late in the afternoon of the next day" after talking to Regina Flodin, Leach said.

"And that was only because we thought one of our squad cars was involved. Before that (news of the death) could have come from somewhere else but it didn't come from (the sheriff's) office," he said.

After an investigation, sheriff's Patrolman Ronald Moers, 32, 1413 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and filing a false police report in connection with the hit-and-run death.

Moers' damaged squad car, which he had reported stolen, was found March 28 at a construction site in the 2400 block of Church Street, Des Plaines.

Moers was suspended from the sheriff's department and Elrod has asked for his dismissal. He will appear April 24 in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of leaving the accident scene and filing the false police report.

Leach said Elrod will send a letter of apology to the Flodin family. "We're sorry they feel this way and that they're offended," he said.

WITH HER HAIR standing on end in the wind, a young hiker rests at one of seven checkpoints along Sunday's 20 mile "Hike for Your Neighbor." Nearly 900 hikers completed the 7½ hour march to benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center. despite the cold, windy weather.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre- and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Eight from area in state table tennis tourney

Eight area residents are eligible to compete Saturday in state table tennis competition as a result of their success in the recent contest sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

The state tournament, conducted by the Illinois Parks and Recreation Association, will be played in Naperville.

Scheduled to compete in each category are Valeri Nicholson, midjet girls; Mike Abbate, midjet boys; Wally Czarny, boys 12-13; Stacy Workman, girls 12-13; Chris Relf, senior boys 14-17; Cheryl Workman, senior girls 14-17; Helmut Repich, men's; Ingeborg Adamicka, women's.

Besides winning the right to participate in the state tournament, the champions in each singles category and the second place winners in the park district contest received trophies.

Participants in the tournament numbered 83 singles and six doubles teams.

Stevenson High relays Saturday

The second annual Adlai Stevenson High School invitational relays will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

High schools participating in the meet with Stevenson include Wauconda, Lake Zurich, Warren, Grant, Grayslake, Round Lake and Lisle.

Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for total team points in the competition, according to Pat Gilmore, track coach and relay chairman.

B'nai B'rith holds gift shop sale

Jewelry, children's toys and assorted knick knacks are among items on sale now through Friday at the gift shop sponsored by the Aura Women's Chapter of B'nai B'rith.

The shop is open from 8:30 a.m. every day at Striker Lanes bowling alley, 100 W. Dundee Rd. in Buffalo Grove.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance community projects sponsored by the organization.

Stevenson pool will be closed for Easter break

The Adlai Stevenson High School swimming pool will be closed and other extra-curricular activities will be suspended during Easter vacation, April 13 through April 20.

School Dist. 125 offices including the superintendent's office and the business office will be open except on Good Friday, April 20.

Parents who wish to preregister their children for the spring swimming program which begins at the end of April, must sign up before April 18. Late registration will be taken Saturday morning, April 21 in the lower main lobby.

Two preschool swim classes are nearly full, according to Hank Andrew, pool director. However, he said, space is still available in the other classes for children in the elementary grades.

Andrew said School Dist. 125 residents will be given preference in all classes, but if space permits, children outside the district will be accepted.

Man arrested for swindle in Wheeling

Mount Prospect Police have arrested a man they believe swindled a Wheeling resident of $1,950 last July.

Anthony J. Serritella, 30, of Cicero, was charged with theft by deception Friday in connection with the July 19 incident. On that date, Steven C. Wesen, 20, of 289 Albert Terrace, Wheeling, gave a man called Nino Napolitto the money for some "cheap" television sets and stereo equipment. Napolitto then disappeared with the money without delivering any merchandise.

Wesen allegedly identified Serritella as Napolitto from police photographs shown him right after the incident. The transfer of money was made in a Chicago restaurant after arrangements were made at the Old Orchard Country Club here.

Serritella, police said, admitted the crime in court Friday, when his case was continued to May 11. He had been extradited from Detroit by Skokie Police earlier.

PRETTY DOLLY. Miniature fairy princesses, grand ladies and, of course, tiny babies have always fascinated little girls. Barbara Rose, age four, admires a doll that was part of a collection displayed last weekend at the Family Outdoor and Hobby Show sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Park District.

School news notes

The operetta "Hansel and Gretel" was recently presented by students at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling. The production was directed by Mrs. Lois Lederman and Sarah Ward.

An orchestra composed of students from Tarkington School and Jack London Junior High School provided music for the opening overture.

Scenery construction was supervised by Faith Otis. Fran Einhorn aided students in making costumes.

The main characters in the play were Pat Fay, Hansel; Chris Brahar, Gretel; Scott Wilson, the father; Barb Brauer, the mother; Ann Oslovich and Julie Schwein, Jack-in-the-Pulpit; Greg Bowen and Lori Jefferson, sandman; Jennifer Hacker, dew fairy and Mary Engh, witch. Lisa Klekamp, Ruth Rockett and Carrie Lyon served as narrators for the production.

A contest was also conducted to design the cover for the program. Beth Kash and Jennifer Hacker were the winners.

STUDENTS IN THE Cultural Arts Program at Sandburg School in Wheeling recently traveled to the Hillside Theatre to see a production of "The Sound of Music."

The trip was conducted for students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

STUDENTS IN MRS. Fran Hoffer's sixth grade language arts class at Alcott School in Buffalo Grove are busy creating their own puppets to present a show to the rest of the school in the near future.

The puppets are fashioned after characters in books. Many are being made from socks, while other students are using papier-mache.

Meet your candidates for village offices: Part 1

Tom Mahoney: 'We need orderly development...and hard-nosed flood control'

Incumbent Buffalo Grove Village Trustee Tom Mahoney wants to be retained in that office because he feels government in the village has "finally gotten on the right track."

Mahoney is running as a member of the Village Independent Party (VIP) and is one of two incumbent board members seeking one of the three open seats. Mahoney was appointed to the board by Village Pres. Gary Armstrong in May, 1971.

"I get a satisfaction out of being on the board. I feel I am contributing my fair share to the community," he said. Mahoney added that it is difficult at times to sit on the board but it is challenging to keep with it.

The incumbent candidate said he would like to be retained for the next four years because that's when Buffalo Grove will grow. "The decisions made in the next four years will be as to what Buffalo Grove will become," he said.

Tom Mahoney

MAHONEY'S own priorities for the next four years are

- Orderly and controlled development of the village.
- Hard-nosed flood control.
- Keep a responsive and responsible government in the village.

On his first point, Mahoney said, it will be difficult to foresee how the village deals with builders. He said there should be no sympathy given to the builders and no false promises made to the community.

Mahoney said residents of the Lake County portion of the village are "vulnerable to development in that area." He said they have little commercial support and the schools rely strictly on homes for tax money.

"I'D LIKE TO see this village development to where a home could not be bought for less than $70,000," Mahoney said. "I would never allow any type or form of low-income housing to come within our limits."

The 36-year-old attorney feels that the second priority — flooding — is starting to get off on the right foot. "We have enacted a strong flood control ordinance and are working with surrounding communities in an effort to control outside flood waters."

In the municipal election Tuesday, April 17, Buffalo Grove residents will elect three village trustees from a field of 10 candidates.

Mahoney insisted that the waters from upstream must be stopped in order to help the Buffalo Grove situation. He said work on proposed retention ponds will halt the flooding a great deal and may end it entirely.

ON "CONTINUED responsive government," he said the current board has done a "good job." Its building programs, road repairs, anticipation of new programs, and overall village planning all seem to be in good shape he said.

"We've got a good master plan and we use it as guideline. We work closely with the village engineer and our village is continuing to grow in planned way," he said.

Mahoney said he is against anything that even appears to be a conflict of interest in village government.

"Everyone on the board was unhappy with the Gary Armstrong thing even though they didn't speak out against him publicly. I was unhappy with the situation he put the board in, because it put us in a bad position," Mahoney explained.

"IN THE CASE of Randy (Trustee Randall Rathjen) it has the appearance of a conflict and I've told him so. I also suggested that he not take part in any discussion concerning the matter," Mahoney said.

Both Armstrong and Rathjen have been charged by citizens groups with conflicts of interest. Armstrong for reportedly taking a job with a developer who was annexing into the village. Rathjen was charged for handling the purchase of 6½ acre plot of land for the fire department from which he plans to make a commission as a real estate agent.

Since those charges Armstrong has gone into business for himself and Rathjen has said he will refrain from discussion or voting on the fire station land annexation.

Philip Ralston: 'We're not concerned enough about each other's problems...'

Philip Ralston, Village Independent Party (VIP) candidate for Buffalo Grove village trustee, promises to be "a doer," if he is elected April 17.

"I have integrity, experience and am willing to work," Ralston said. "If I'm elected I will act in the best interests of Buffalo Grove."

Ralston, a member of the village zoning board of appeals, said his involvement in village government has prepared him to be a trustee.

Ralston is a member of the Strathmore Homeowners Association and works as a manager of biomedical engineering for Baxter Laboratories Inc.

IF ELECTED, Ralston said, he will work for "responsive and responsible government." He said he will go out and meet the residents and get their feelings on the issues that face the village.

He promises to also work to unify the village. "I don't think we're concerned enough about each other's problems," Ralston said. "We need better unity."

Philip Ralston

Ralston said he thinks growth is the most important issue facing the village at the present time. "I think the growth of the village should be controlled," he said.

Ralston added that he basically agrees with the village master plan. "I think it's a realistic guide to the use of property that is available to us," he said. "You have to have a goal and I think that's what the master plan is."

RALSTON SAID he will work to preserve open space and a balance of single family homes in the village. He said he is not opposed to the development of some individually-owned condominiums and townhouses.

However, the Cook County resident said he would oppose rental units. "I would fight rental units because I think Buffalo Grove has an appropriate mix of them already."

Ralston emphasized that while he supports the master plan, he realizes it has to be flexible when dealing with developers seeking annexation into the village.

Stories by Joe Franz and Rich Honack

"We have to be realistic because the land is going to be developed anyway — if not here, into some neighboring village. We might as well have it annexed into Buffalo Grove where we can exercise some control," Ralston said.

At the present time, Ralston doesn't favor bringing low-income housing into Buffalo Grove. "Because of the lack of public transportation and job market for low income families," he said, "it would not be practical in Buffalo Grove."

Ralston said he would like to see some light industry brought into the village to help broaden the tax base. The area to the east of the village along the Soo Line tracks would be an appropriate place for industry, he said.

ALTHOUGH DUNDEE Road is zoned for single-family homes, the candidate said he does not think it would be practical to keep it that way. He said the land is too valuable for single family development.

Ralston said he will work to alleviate the present flood problems and prevent additional ones. "I don't want to see any developer aggravate the flooding problem," he said. "Developers should be held accountable for not complying with flood ordinances."

If elected, Ralston said he will avoid any conflicts of interest. "The people are beginning to demand honesty and integrity in government. I have no skeletons in my closet and I have no axe to grind," he said.

RALSTON EMPHASIZED that he thinks it is important for the village to organize programs that will get the youth of the community involved. He said programs such as the Omni-House Youth Services Bureau should be expanded.

On the subject of revenue sharing, Ralston said he thinks the funds should be used for short-term rather than long-term projects. This is because the funds could stop coming in at any time, he said.

Although Ralston believes the present fire protection in the village is adequate, he said he would favor a municipal fire department. "I'm in favor of a municipal department as soon as it is economically feasible."

Bill Peterson: 'I would like to see the developers' donations continue...'

Bill Peterson, Village Independent Party (VIP) candidate for Buffalo Grove trustee cited experience and dedication as reasons why voters should elect him on April 17.

"I've been active in the village for four years," Peterson said. "I've not been a Johnny-come-lately."

Peterson said some of the other candidates have become involved in particular issues that affect them, but have failed to show the same interest in issues that do not concern them. "Their interest dropped when a particular issue didn't concern them," he said.

PETERSON FEELS the orderly growth of the village and the acquisition of industry to increase the tax base are the most important matters facing the village at the present time.

"There's no doubt Buffalo Grove will grow," said the Lake County resident. "It's a matter of how it will grow." Peterson said he thought it was important to keep a close watch on developers annexing into the village.

"New developments coming into the village should be an asset to the community," he said. "We should make the developer give us what we want."

PETERSON SAID he favored the resolution passed by the village board that requires developers to give land or cash donations to the school and park district. The resolution that was passed as an ordinance in Naperville and several other towns is currently being tested in the courts as to its legality. "I would like to see the donations continue," Peterson said.

He stressed the importance of the village attracting industry to help ease the present tax burden. An industrial tax base would be particularly beneficial to Lake County Buffalo Grove residents, he said.

Although he basically agrees with the village master plan, he thinks it is unrealistic in regard to the development of Dundee Road. "The land on Dundee Road is much too expensive and does not lend itself to single-family homes," he said.

"THE TYPE of development I would like to see is office and research," he said. He explained that this type of development would increase the tax base, while still being attractive. He said condominiums also would be acceptable.

Concerning flood control, Peterson said he thought the present board has taken many positive steps. "The ordinances we have now concerning flood control are probably the most stringent ordinances of any village around," he said.

He said strict enforcement of the flood control ordinances in regard to new developments could prevent the same problems from reoccurring.

Peterson said he favors a balance between single family and multi-family homes. He said, however, he was not in favor of bringing in any more rental units. "I think a man has more interest in the community if he has an investment," he said.

PETERSON SAID he would not now favor low-income housing in the village. He said the village and the communities around it are not equipped to provide employment to low income families. He said the means of transporting them to employment is also lacking.

Low-income housing also could bring more children into the community and place a burden on the school system, he said. "It would not be an asset to the village and would not be fair to the persons buying the low-income housing," he added.

Peterson said he favors development of a municipal fire department in Buffalo Grove. "I think the village deserves the added fire protection a municipal fire department could provide," he added. He said the village will need a municipal department if they expect to draw industry.

Although Peterson favors construction of a public works garage, he said he does not think it should be built with revenue sharing funds. "Because revenue sharing funds could be cut off anytime, they should only be used for short term projects," he said.

Peterson also said he was concerned over the issue of conflict of interest among village trustees. If elected, Peterson said he would propose that a blue ribbon committee be appointed to develop a code of ethics for trustees.

Clarice Rech

Clarice Rech, independent candidate for Buffalo Grove village trustee, said if she is elected April 17 she "will work to make Buffalo Grove a better place to live."

"I have chosen Buffalo Grove as the community to raise my children and I want to make it a good community for other people's children to grow up in," she said.

Mrs. Rech, a member of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission, said her involvement in village activities makes her qualified to serve as trustee. She said that because she has been involved she is familiar with the problems that face Buffalo Grove.

She said that because she is a housewife and is not employed that she will be able to devote much of her time to her position as trustee. She said she would favor having the village board represented at meetings of other organizations that might affect the village.

MRS. RECH said this is not possible now because the trustees work full time and are not able to attend other meetings. She said that if she is elected, however, she would be willing to represent the village and look out for its interests.

If elected, Mrs. Rech also said she will work to promote village unity, preserve open-space land, maintain a balance of single-family dwellings, control flooding and promote orderly planned growth.

Mrs. Rech said she will work to preserve open-space land within the village. She said she does not feel many of the new developments have enough green space

Clarice Rech

"I truly believe that adequate open space land should be insured for the citizens who live here now and those who will live here in the future. Buffalo Grove never again will have an opportunity obtain open-space land," she said.

MRS. RECH said she will work to "maintain a healthy balance of single-family homes." She said she was in favor of limiting the number of rental units within the village. "I think that when you have an investment in the community you care more about it," she said.

The Cook County resident would like to see the present flood control projects continued and some new ones started. "The village should carefully review all new developments to assure they will not be aggravating the present flooding problems," Mrs. Rech said.

She feels the village master plan was long needed. "It should be used as a tool to achieve orderly and planned growth," she added.

She said, however, that she would carefully consider any proposed changes in it. "The interests of all citizens should be carefully considered before making changes in the master plan," she said.

MRS. RECH said she does not favor complete commercial development along Dundee Road. "Dundee Road is the front door of the village and I want it to be attractive," she said. She said she would oppose development of Dundee Road into "a franchise row" with a lot of short-order restaurants and drive-ins.

Mrs. Rech said she would like to see some light industry brought into Buffalo Grove. "We need industry in Buffalo Grove to help the tax base," she said.

At the present time, Mrs. Rech said she does not favor bringing low income housing into the village. She said because there is a lack of employment for low-income families and no public transportation in Buffalo Grove, she does not feel it would be a good idea. "You must be able to provide gainful employment to these people to make it feasible," she said.

Within the next two or three years, Mrs. Rech said she would like to see a municipal fire department. She said she does not think a municipal fire department is economically feasible now.

In the meantime, however, she said she will work to start a paramedic program for Lake County Buffalo Grove residents. Currently only Cook County residents have the program. Other projects Mrs. Rech said she will work for are a public library and a post office.

Jerry Driscoll

"I'm just getting to the point where I know what's going on, and I think it would be a waste not to try and begin to actively something on the board."

That's incumbent Buffalo Grove Trustee Jerry Driscoll's reason for running in the April 17 village election.

Driscoll was appointed to the board almost six months ago and is running independent of any party. "I feel an individual must be elected by the people and not brought in on the heels of someone else's merits," he said.

Admittedly not taking part in much discussion in board matters, Driscoll said he will begin speaking out following the election. "If I were to speak out on matters in these first few months I would have been talking just to talk. I know the issues now," he said.

DRISCOLL SAID he believes that there are several issues currently facing the village that he feels are primary items.

The first is the flooding problem. "If you want to see flooding, come down to my basement," said the resident of the Cambridge subdivision. "I sometimes think I get all the village's water right in my backyard."

The village is working to do away with the flooding and a sure step, I think, to help right now is contracting for this work immediately. We've got to stop the erosion along the ditches and creeks immediately," he said.

Another priority on Driscoll's list is the establishment of a municipal fire department. "A complete study will be available to us shortly. It is a major concern of mine to get paramedic service to our Lake County residents."

Currently, only residents of the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove have paramedic service.

DRISCOLL SAID he believes the fire department is only one way the people of the Cook and Lake County sections of the village can come together. "We must do all we can to unify the people to become 'one' Buffalo Grove."

The incumbent candidate said he likes the ideas of the master plan and feels the village adhere to it as closely as possible. "We need to have some kind of goal and this is a good one," he said. "I would also like to see the establishment of a 'Downtown Buffalo Grove'. We could develop that around St. Mary's Church. It would give the residents somewhere to go that feels like it's their own," Driscoll said.

Driscoll would like to see Dundee Road remain uncommercial to a point. "I don't want a hamburger stand every 10 feet, but some nice office building would only add to the village. I don't think anyone is going to buy a single-family home along Dundee Road."

DRISCOLL also feels there should be more cooperation between Buffalo Grove and the surrounding communities. "Our master plan doesn't mean anything unless other communities help to make it work," he said.

"We talk all day about the development of Dundee Road, but if Arlington Heights annexes that land we'll have nothing to say about it," he added.

Driscoll said he is not for low-income housing in the village. "We don't have the facilities to help people that would come into that type of housing. We don't have anything to attract low income residents. It would only hurt them to move into Buffalo Grove."

He also said he would like to see Buffalo Grove stay small. "We don't need to grow real big. That's why people moved out here — to get away from the crowds," he explained.

"We also need something for the young people. They have no place to go in this community. I'm in favor of working at a village level to get some programs working for the youth of community," he said.

DRISCOLL ALSO had heavy praise for the Buffalo Grove police department. "They have gotten a great deal of publicity lately and with continued proper attitudes abilities, we can assure our residents of proper protection. We also must make sure the department grows with us," he said.

He said the board should do everything in its power to assure the residents of the Mill Creek subdivision enough open space to build a park. "This is a problem throughout the village, and the residents should start getting help."

Driscoll said that if he was involved in any way with a conflict of interest, that would hurt the residents of the village, he would withdraw from that conflict immediately. "We have to do what the residents want when we sit in this position," said Driscoll.

'Whole future of city hinges on this'

Superblock to be revealed today at plan, zone meeting

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Des Plaines superblock becomes public tonight with parking and height variations the keys to unlocking city approval of the project.

Planned with little publicity by Des Plaines businessmen and unveiled for city officials at a closed-door dinner meeting earlier this year, the long-heralded downtown redevelopment project will be examined at a joint meeting at 8 p.m. of the zoning board of appeals and the plan commission.

Project developers, united under the recently formed Des Plaines Mall Corp., plan a two-story shopping mall, a pedestrian walkway and a 10-story office building during first phase construction near Prairie Avenue and Lee Streets.

"The whole future of Des Plaines hinges on this," James Paroubek, president of Des Plaines Redevelopment Association, told the Herald. "The downtown area of Des Plaines is only 10 per cent of the city's assessed valuation. It should be 30 per cent."

REDEVELOPMENT OFFICIALS are waving a carrot of increased real estate and sales tax revenue and a revitalized downtown area at Des Plaines officials. Construction scheduling, outlined in a planned unit development petition filed March 7, shows city approval by April 30; completion of construction negotiations by Oct. 15; demolition of Center and Prairie buildings by Dec. 15; construction start by Jan. 15, 1974 and project completion by Sept. 1, 1975.

Tied to the carrot is a "cooperation" list of requirements from the city including:

- Relocation and enlargement of sanitary and storm sewers and water mains near the project;
- Limiting of the north 136 feet of Center Street to pedestrian traffic;
- Vacating south Center Street in exchange for Prairie Avenue right of way to allow four-lane widening;
- Vacating an alley parallel to Prairie;
- Acquiring of property east of Center and north of Prairie to construct by the city not less than 750 customer car spaces and 406 redevelopment spaces. The redevelopment parking lease would be for not less than 50 years;
- Perpetual easement over Ellinwood Street to allow pedestrian ramp construction;

• Realignment of Prairie between Graceland Avenue and River Road. The tickler in the petition is the parking and Prairie Avenue work which may total $3 million. The city's proposed 1973 budget shows $250,000 for widening of Prairie from Lee to Center and $350,000 from motor fuel tax funds for reworking the street, including adding new sewer and water mains, east of Center.

Estimated cost of the parking lots is $2.275 million, which will force the city to recall last year's $325,000 in parking revenue bonds and issue new bonds of $3 million.

Paroubek and other redevelopment officials are quick to point out that the parking work will not be financed from tax revenue. Des Plaines will borrow the construction money on its good name and repay the bonds from new parking lot revenue, the logic says.

City ordinance requires construction of one parking space per 300 square feet of retail space and per 500 square feet of office space. Project floor sketches show 224,180 of retail space and 186,750 of office space per floor. The petitions states that 678 parking spaces are required by the city.

REDEVELOPMENT PLANS do not include any private parking construction, despite the code requirement.

Instead, the contract calls for the city to build a 500-car multi-level lot along Ellinwood Street and another 250-car lot near Center and Prairie. The mall corporation will rent 406 Ellinwood spaces from the city, providing "guaranteed rent" at a so-far unmentioned price.

The need for the remaining required 272 spaces apparently would be answered by city construction of the Center Street

Apology sent to family

Elrod denies rap in death notice

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 826 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in my apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

Sheriff's police that night asked Chicago police to send a squad car to the Albany Avenue address to notify Flodin's relatives but Leach said yesterday that there has been no confirmation that the car was sent. Mrs. Flodin denied that she received any notification from Chicago police.

Leach said no news of the fatal accident was released by the sheriff's department until the next day. He mentioned the Cook County Morgue, where Flodin's body was taken the night of March 27, as a possible source of the news release.

"WE RELEASED news of the death late in the afternoon of the next day" after talking to Regina Flodin, Leach said.

"And that was only because we thought one of our squad cars was involved. Before that (news of the death) could have come from somewhere else but it didn't come from (the sheriff's) office," he said.

After an investigation, sheriff's Patrolman Ronald Moers, 32, 1413 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and filing a false police report in connection with the hit-and-run death.

Moers' damaged squad car, which he had reported stolen, was found March 28 at a construction site in the 2400 block of Church Street, Des Plaines.

Moers was suspended from the sheriff's department and Elrod has asked for his dismissal. He will appear April 24 in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of leaving the accident scene and filing the false police report.

Leach said Elrod will send a letter of apology to the Flodin family. "We're sorry they feel this way and that they're offended," he said.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

The market

Prices registered a sharp advance on the New York Stock Exchange, but the volume left many Wall Streeters dubious. The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks was 16.49 higher at 947.55, its biggest leap forward since a 17.01-point gain on March 27. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 1.53 to 110.86, and the average issue on the NYSE scored a 55-cent gain. Advances led declines, 995 to 458, among the 1,792 issues on the tape. Turnover totaled 13,740,000 shares against 13,890,000 shares Friday.

election 73

Meet your candidates for city clerk, treasurer

Eleanor Rohrbach: 'My life has always been busy. It's all a matter of organization'

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach is unopposed for re-election.

Her lack of opposition prompts mixed reaction from the two-term incumbent. Either the job is so bad that no one wants it, or the incumbent's work has been so good that no one can challenge it, she says.

The city's top vote winner in 1969, Mrs. Rohrbach has relied on candidates' night appearances throughout the city to seek votes. "I don't know how anyone can run for this office while organizing an election," she said.

MRS. ROHRBACH'S election headaches began last summer with ward redistricting. Aimed at dividing the city's eight wards into equal population areas, the controversial remap drew headlines until Nov. 7, 1972, when the city council settled on one of nine proposed maps.

From the remap, the clerk shifted to computerizing Des Plaines voters list, a job in its final stages this week.

Then came the city's special census. The headcount may end this week.

Her next job was organizing the election. Polling places to locate. Ballots to print. Candidates filing.

Additional work is nothing new for the clerk's office, where phones constantly ring with requests for information and research. The rhyme is that when the mayor's away the clerk must pay — fielding additional resident phone calls ranging from assessments to zoning.

"People expect our office to know everything," she has said.

"My life has always been busy," Mrs. Rohrbach has said. "It's all a matter of organization."

SINCE HER election in 1965, Mrs. Rohrbach has:

- Microfilmed city and building departments records.
- Started a filing and indexing system, including a subject file, of city council minutes.
- Obtained copies of deeds to city property.
- Removed tax-exempt city property from tax rolls.
- Begun mailing and use of a city

This is the sixth in a series of candidate interviews for the Des Plaines city election, which will be held Tuesday, April 17.

Today's interviews feature the candidates for city treasurer and city clerk. Tomorrow's Herald will include stories on the three mayoral candidates.

Mrs. Rohrbach, who started as a part-time clerk in 1965 and became full-time in 1969, has twice been named Clerk of the Year by the Municipal Clerks of Illinois, an organization of more than 1,325 clerks she helped organize. And, in 1971 she was cited for excellence by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

"My role," she has said, "is to be completely aware of what this governmental body is considering, working on and enforcing. It is my responsibility to furnish city council members with information on whatever they are studying. I advise for bids, record minutes and keep all city records."

MRS. ROHRBACH has not been a quiet secretary to the city council. Although she does not participate in council debate, she is an outspoken critic of government problem areas including proposed revision of state election law that would remove municipal clerks as local election heads.

"I love it. I wouldn't be here if I didn't," Mrs. Rohrbach says of her work, which often carries beyond city hall. She battled for both Place for People and Chicago and North Western Ry. right-of-way cleanup and served as co-Des Plaines campaign chairman for U.S. Rep. Samuel Young's 1972 campaign.

The former seamstress was endorsed by both Mayor Herbert Behrel and the Voters Independent Party in 1969. She is running as an independent.

Stories by Al Messerschmidt

Irving Rateike

Treasurer's workload has doubled since his election, incumbent says

Irving Rateike sits in a cubbyhole office in city hall pulling special assessment, bond, pension fund and payroll ledger books from cabinets and desk drawers. The city's financial figures are at the incumbent city treasurer's fingertips.

It's an intricate job with increasing headaches that have paralleled Des Plaines population growth.

The office, according to the former 1st Ward alderman, should be full-time to allow more attention "to the little things that keep popping up."

Rateike takes no credit for the city council's decision two months ago to switch his job from a part-time $5,500 a year to full-time $12,000. "They asked me about it. But, they're the ones who created the full-time position."

"IF I HAD been selfish, I'd have stayed part-time. I'd make more money that way," said Rateike, who works as an accountant for a local appliance store.

If elected to the full-time post, he said he will quit the appliance job to man the treasurer's office five days a week. "When people come in to pay their bills, we should be ready to take their money."

The city treasurer works, almost incognito, in Des Plaines government machinery. Rateike's message, during campaign appearances, has been a rapid, nonstop explanation of his job. He contends that "every dime" of $30,000 in 10 overdue special assessment accounts has been collected since 1969. And, he says that legislation is needed to allow Des Plaines and other municipalities to clear pre-Depression bonds, now carried as liabilities, off city books.

Since his election, Rateike says the treasurer's workload has doubled. More than 600 checks, 200 authorized to pay city bills by the council and 400 to pay city employees, carry the treasurer's signature twice a month.

"Special assessments and subdivisions have to be signed by the treasurer. You better know what you're signing," Rateike, 137 Brown, said. "You're bonded. So you better be responsible."

"IF I DIDN'T work a few blocks away, I never could have done this job part-time," he said. Although his office hours are not posted, Rateike says he usually begins treasurer's work early in the morning, before his full-time job. He returns to the treasurer's office during lunch hour and often finishes the work in the early evening.

"This job could remain part-time," he said. "But, you would at least need to hire an accounting clerk at a salary of about $6,500 a year."

Rateike calls the full-time treasurer's post "progress." First we went to a full-time mayor. Then, we went to a full-time city clerk. It's necessary because of the city's growth, he said.

A lifelong resident who graduated from Maine Township High School in 1934, Rateike offers experience as an accountant, as a 12-year 1st Ward alderman and as incumbent treasurer as qualifications for election. And, he leaves little doubt where his allegiance rests, endorsing Mayor Herbert Behrel for reelection at campaign appearances.

RATEIKE sees increased duties for the treasurer as Des Plaines financial records become part of a cooperative suburban computer system. Water bills, police records, payroll accounts and the city's expense register will be computerized during the next treasurer's term.

He also defends hiring of his wife as a part-time aide. "The first year she worked free because there was a job to be done. The second year, she received about $2.48 an hour while averaging 15 hours of work a week," he said. "I don't want any more for her."

"I don't call her unless I have to. I couldn't do that with a regular part-time person," Rateike said.

Thomas Mahon

Challenger insists he'll accept no more than half the $12,000 wage,

The issue is time and money. City treasurer candidate Thomas Mahon is willing to give hours for half pay.

Mahon, 32, of 1375 Campbell Ave., has pledged to accept only $6,000 of the treasurer's new $12,000 salary if elected. "I will accept no more than $6,000 and I will handle the duties of treasurer efficiently, correctly and economically," the Maine South High School mathematics teacher said.

Des Plaines city council two months ago debated a boost in treasurer's pay from a part-time $5,500 a year to a full-time $13,500. The council settled, in the city's 1973 budget, on a $12,000 salary.

"Since no new duties have been added to the job, I feel there is no need for the higher salary," Mahon said.

MAHON, a park district commissioner since 1969, has hit hard on the part-time versus full-time issue in campaign appearances throughout the city. "The duties of the treasurer can be done in a minimum amount of time . . . and the salary should be commensurate with it."

"I've checked with attorneys and I can legally refuse the salary," Mahon said. "The budget would keep the total figure. And, I wouldn't be hurt as far as income tax is concerned."

"Let's keep the office of treasurer in perspective," is Mahon's favorite campaign phrase. "Are you going to elect a secretary or a watchdog?"

"The treasurer should issue a public report on how money is being spent. Good government demands it. When a bid is let, the treasurer should get a copy. When the bill is paid and it exceeds the bid, I will report it."

"I don't think there's any hanky-panky in government here," Mahon, a 1959 all-state basketball player at Maine Township High School, said. "Good government also should be publicized."

Thomas Mahon

MAHON misses few chances to complement Des Plaines Comptroller Duane Biletz. "He's a professional. He's the best comptroller in the state. He's set up guidelines for other cities."

"The city's financial records and investments are handled by the comptroller's department, not by the city treasurer. This is as it should be, professionals have been trained to do this properly."

Mahon's familiarity with figures comes from an education earned while working full-time at Des Plaines post office. "I wanted to attend college, but got married instead" in 1959. Night school, then full-time study led to a bachelor of science and master's degree from Northwestern University. Mahon also has taken computer courses at Illinois Institute of Technology.

"There's no reason that some of the treasurer's records can't be put on a computer," Mahon said.

AS "CUSTODIAN" of city funds, treasurer's duties include signing of city checks, keeping the bond register and serving on the Firemen's Pension Board. Investing is done through a bank trust department and the comptroller. "The firemen's board is the only place the treasurer has a vote," Mahon said. "The incumbent has only attended 6 of 22 meetings in the past four years."

"The incumbent was paid $5,500 but hasn't had public hours he's been accountable for," Mahon said. "I'd keep regular, posted hours. I have some ideas — possibly night and weekend time so people could pay their bills."

Mahon decided to enter the citywide race when he asked why Biletz, who moonlights as the $2,300-a-year park board treasurer, receives that much salary from the park district. "The answer I got was that the city treasurer received $5,500 without investing any funds."

Mahon, whose father-in-law is a Des Plaines minister, said he has lived in four different city wards. He coaches track at Maine South, is a Boy Scout leader and a member of the Illinois Association of Park Districts.

Charges, insults flung by candidates

Wolf, Behrel, Kosman rip each other in debate

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Mayoral candidate Burton Kosman left them laughing, grumbling and groaning Sunday night.

More than 175 people packed the auditorium at Trinity Lutheran Church to hear a three-way debate by Kosman, David Wolf and Mayor Herbert Behrel — and many walked away shaking their heads.

The evening began routinely. Members of the League of Women Voters, who moderated this and other candidate nights, laid down the ground rules and offered the podium to the winner of the coin toss.

Kosman took the microphone and repeated charges and intimations:

- redevelopment is an agency of the city council;
- cronyism prevails in city government;

- cronyism prevails in the fire prevention bureau;
- fire and safety violations are ignored by the fire prevention bureau when "certain businesses" are concerned;
- candidates Wolf and Behrel are part of the crony system and are "the gold dust twins" in this election.

WOLF TOOK HIS 10-minute turn, ignored Kosman, took a few jabs at the mayor and ended with an assault on a local newspaper ("The time has come when the 'green sheet' no longer dictates politics in this town.") for endorsing Behrel before hearing Wolf out.

Behrel took the attacks with smiles and quips before seriously defending his platform, his town, his management of government, and his appointment of "competent officials, friends or not" to city posts.

The sky-lighting fireworks began during their two-minute rebuttals.

Kosman lashed out again on cronyism, saying, "The cronies will rise up and protect their own kind. This town needs protection. I will give you that."

The audience laughed.

Wolf was hot on his heels — ready for rebuttal. "I've had a bellyful of accusations about our fire department," he said. "If the candidate (Kosman) has any information on fire violations that have been covered up the time to speak up is now — or shut up."

The audience cheered and whistled. Behrel patted Wolf on the shoulder and wholeheartedly agreed with his statements.

MORE APPLAUSE.

Kosman had clearly antagonized the audience. His further answers to questions were received with little or no applause, snickers and a few catcalls.

At one point Kosman made a stinging reference to the fact that Wolf had only a high school education. "That's for the birds . . . Get him outta here . . . What a thing to say," rang from the audience.

Wolf said nothing. Behrel pointed out that he too has only a high school education. "I know," said Kosman with a smile.

The factual information given out by each of the candidates was buried by spats on stage.

"I can hardly remember what they had to say; all I can remember is hearing things I never thought I'd hear in this town," said a disgruntled woman.

"I guess there has to be a clown in every circus," said one man philosophically.

"Boy, people are really sensitive. They don't want to hear the truth," said Kosman.

Accused murderer of local girls arraigned on charges

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Danny A. Ranes, 29, Portage, charged with slaying four young women, stood mute in circuit court yesterday on murder charges involving the deaths of two of the victims, both of Des Plaines.

He was arraigned in separate courts on first degree murder charges in each of the deaths and pleas of innocent were entered on his behalf. No trial dates were set in the deaths of the two young women who vanished on a trip from Chicago to Michigan.

They were Claudia Bidstrup, 19, and Linda Clark, 19. The decomposed bodies of the two women were found in a car near Galesburg last July. Both apparently had been strangled and ropes were tied around the bodies.

IN ONE OF the cases, Ranes was sentenced to life in prison March 28 in circuit court in the death of Mrs. Patricia Hawk, 29, Kalamazoo. She was found stabbed to death March 19, 1972. Her body was found behind a local building. Police said she had been raped.

Also pending against Ranes is a murder charge in the death of Pamela Fearney, 19, Kalamazoo. Her decomposed body was found near Galesburg last Oct. 17.

Also charged with murder in the deaths of the two Des Plaines victims is Brent Eugene Koster, 16, Kalamazoo. Probate authorities waived jurisdiction over Koster when he was 15 years old last fall, so he could be tried as an adult. But his court appearances have been held in abeyance pending outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court case involving juveniles tried as adults.

From the library

Remember! — make every week library week! During National Library Week, April 8-14, the Des Plaines Public Library joins other libraries throughout the nation in urging citizens to become better acquainted with the many valuable services available at their Public Library.

A library is more than just books. It provides magazines, films, recordings, art prints, puzzles — something for each age level.

The week is the focus for continuing year-round efforts by concerned citizens, librarians, teachers, writers and readers to foster the reading habit in people of all ages and promote more extensive use and development of all types of libraries to serve their needs.

Don't be left out this year! Visit your library during National Library Week and also during all the other weeks of the year. There will be interesting displays all over the library. The public library is yours. Use it!

election 73 Meet your Dist. 62 school board candidates

For three-year term:

Robert Birchfield

Enrollment is declining in Dist. 62 and there is a possibility of empty classrooms in the schools within the next few years. What to do with those classrooms has become an issue in the school board election.

Robert Birchfield, running unopposed for a three-year term, said the district may be able to use empty classrooms to its advantage. The classrooms may be used for day care centers, preschool or special education centers, he said.

As other communities in the Northwest suburbs continue to grow, there will be an increasing need for an area special education center, said Birchfield. If the school enrollment declines as projected, the district could turn one of its elementary schools into a special education center, which may be eligible for federal funds.

THE BOARD SHOULD watch the change in teacher-student ratios as the enrollment declines and reduce the teaching staff by normal attrition, said Birchfield. Massive cutbacks in the teaching staff "can create a great deal of distress among the teachers," he said.

Birchfield said the district should try to keep all its schools as long as they can be used. Schools should not be closed until school officials are "absolutely certain the enrollment will not increase," he said.

Enrollment reductions will cause reductions in state aid to schools, which is figured on average daily attendance. Birchfield said the district should cut other parts of the budget besides teacher salaries as revenue decreases. "If funds decline, I think other cutbacks can be made first. I don't see focusing in on teachers as the sole source of reduction," he said.

BECAUSE GUIDELINES for federal programs were made more restrictive this year, Dist. 62 no longer qualifies for some federal funded programs. Birchfield says he is not too disturbed by the loss of federal programs. They "spend a lot of money and produce very little results," he said.

Birchfield also is skeptical of the goals for the '70 program initiated by the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Under the program teachers must set long-range goals for education at Dist. 62 and develop methods of evaluating the success of educational programs.

Teachers do this anyway, said Birchfield, and the state program just gives the teachers more paper work. The state program is a "current fad" of management by objectives, said Birchfield, and "rather than respond to a fad from Springfield, I'd like to see our time and effort put back into educating the child."

The Dist. 62 caucus endorsed

Two three-year terms and one one-year term are open on the board of education at Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62. Two candidates have filed for the three-year terms; the race for the one-year term is contested, with two candidates running.

Poling places for the Dist. 62 election are the 10 elementary schools in the district. Polls will be open from noon to 7:30 p.m., April 14.

Birchfield. The candidate says he sees a need for the caucus system in finding and interviewing candidates, but encouraged independent candidates to run. "I would rather see a contest," he said.

BIRCHFIELD, 47, lives at 2045 Spruce St., and is a consultant with the Chicago Hospital Council. His wife, Irene, is a candidate for alderman in the 5th Ward. They have four children.

Dist. 62 is a good school system, said Birchfield. "I see the results when my children go to college and how they compare to their peers." Birchfield has a degree in engineering from Millikin University in Decatur and did graduate work at Tulsa University.

"Since I have spent a lifetime in management, and over five years specializing in the health industry, I have a wealth of management and public service experience. Service on the school board is an opportunity for me to repay Des Plaines with whatever talents I have," he said.

For three-year term:

Kathryn Sciez

Incumbent Kathryn Sciez is seeking her second three-year term on the Dist. 62 school board. During her first term she participated in the selection of a new superintendent, chaired the committee revising school policies, and has been active on the legislative committee of the Illinois Association of School Boards.

"My greatest contribution to the board and to the school district has been in the field of legislation," said Mrs. Sciez. "Now that we have annual sessions of the Illinois General Assembly in Springfield, it is more important than ever to have school board members who are interested or who are willing to learn and participate in the legislative arena." Mrs. Sciez was one of the founders of DUE (dual unit equality), a group of school board members seeking to pass legislation that would give dual school districts more state funds.

"The two most important tasks for a board of education member are to formulate policies and then to select a superintendent," said Mrs. Sciez.

THE INCUMBENT said the 1972 board "was the first board in 25 years charged with the responsibility of selecting a new superintendent. I am very proud to be serving as a board member with Dr. Eric Sahlgren as our very capable administrator and superintendent."

On school finance Mrs. Sciez said, "School districts are not profit-making corporations; we, too are caught in an inflationary economy. You can be sure, though, that we will do the very best we can to stretch each and every tax dollar" and still provide quality education.

"I think all school districts are concerned with the problems of school finance; mandated programs without adequate funding," she said. The elimination of federal programs will also cause added expense to the district, said Mrs. Sciez.

"The most noticeable effect will be the lack of funding for library audiovisual for all the children," she said. "As enrollments decline, fewer teaching positions will be required," said Mrs. Sciez. "However, normal attrition should make it possible to absorb extra teachers without the need to dismiss any faculty members for a lack of a position."

MRS. SCIEZ doesn't think empty classrooms will be a problem as the enrollment declines. "We are under continual pressure to expand the use of our facilities for many of the recently mandated programs, especially in the field of special education," she said.

Mrs. Sciez, endorsed by the caucus, thinks the caucus system is workable at Dist. 62. "I believe it fulfills its function of seeking out, interviewing, and presenting qualified people as possible candidates."

Mrs. Sciez, 51, of 1864 Welwyn Dr., Des Plaines, has one daughter who is attend-materials. The school district will have to pick up the tab," she said.

Projected enrollment decreases also will affect the school budget, said Mrs. Sciez. "Decreased enrollments means less state aid money. Through careful planning, judicious budgeting, and prudent spending, we will do our utmost to continue to provide a quality education ing Maine West High School. Mrs. Sciez studied elementary education at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va. She is a life member of Beta Sigma Phi, member of the First Presbyterian Church of Des Plaines, recipient of life membership in the Illinois PTA from Maple School PTA and has served on the River-Ridge Council of PTAs.

For one-year term:

Philip Bock

Philip Bock, caucus-endorsed candidate for the one-year term, said the district should try to finance programs receiving federal funds this year by combining with other school districts to set up cooperative programs.

Some federal programs that will be discontinued next year are for economically and educationally disadvantaged children and children of migratory parents.

"I feel the school district has a very definite obligation to all people in the district," said Bock. "Certainly the district exists to serve the majority but it should not ignore the minority," he said.

Bock is especially concerned with serving children with special learning problems who are not placed in district special education programs. Even if the district does not have a program to serve the child, the school "has an obligation to intercede on behalf of the parents" to find a special school for the child," said Bock.

BOCK IS SKEPTICAL of the validity of the census at Dist. 62 that shows a marked decrease in enrollment in the next five years. "In my business I see a lot of projections that change from year to year. I can't see us closing down any schools in the near future," said Bock. If there are empty classrooms, they may be used for special interest activities like art or music, he said.

Cutbacks in the teaching staff shouldn't be necessary, Bock said. If the district stops recruiting new teachers, "I would expect that would more than cover the student loss."

"I can identify with the feelings" of teachers who want higher salaries and better working conditions, Bock said.

Philip Bock

With prices going up and other occupations getting pay increases, teacher unrest "is a sign of the times," he said. The job of the school board member is to balance all his obligations to teachers, students, and taxpayers.

BOCK SAID THE Des Plaines School Caucus serves the school and the community by finding qualified people to run for the board. The caucus "focuses community groups on the importance of the school system and the school board," he said.

The Caucus shouldn't limit the number of endorsements to the number of openings on the board, said Bock. If there are no qualified candidates, it should endorse no one, and if there are more qualified candidates than the number of positions available, it should endorse them all and let the voters decide, he said.

Bock, 35, of 1632 Riverview, Des Plaines, said his business experience can be an asset to the board. Bock is manager of logistics and distribution for Xerox Corp.'s Midwest region. "My job responsibilities include supervision of a large staff of employees and administration of an operating budget in the millions of dollars, and I feel the experience I have gained in this position would be useful on the school board."

River Trails board backing three incumbent candidates

The Executive Board of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA) has voted to endorse the three Dist. 26 incumbent candidates for election to the school board.

Incumbents William Haase and Michael Sheyker are running for the two three-year terms. Incumbent Sylvia Lurie is running for the one-year term.

The board endorsed the three candidates after the members heard all the candidates speak at a recent candidates night. "We felt that, on the whole, as you looked at their performance last year, that they've done a pretty good job and we'd expect that they'd continue that," said Gary Rathgeber, President of the RTEA.

THIS IS the first time the executive board has endorsed candidates for the school board, Rathgeber said. "This is just part of our policy of becoming more involved," he said.

Rathgeber said the RTEA had no plans right now to campaign for the three endorsed candidates. "Our plans right now are to urge people to vote and possibly have a campaign on the day of the election to get out the vote," he said.

Other candidates running for the Dist. 26 board include independents Rhetta Baum and Dr. Alexander Rommett for the two three-year terms and caucus-backed Robert Blomquist for the one-year term.

Abner Mikva to speak at Oakton College

Abner Mikva, chairman of the Governor's Ethics Commission, will speak to political science students at Oakton Community College, 7900 Nagle, Morton Grove, Room 108, tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. He will discuss "Is State Government Ready for Revenue Sharing?"

Mikva served five terms as a state legislator and two terms in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The public is invited to attend the lecture.

For one-year term:

Edwin Winclechter

Edwin Winclechter is an independent candidate running for the one-year term. He appeared before the Des Plaines School Board Caucus with the sponsorship of the Des Plaines Education Association, the teachers association of Dist. 62. He was not endorsed.

The Caucus is one of the reasons Winclechter decided to run. "I don't believe in a system where you slate one candidate for each office," he said. "There should be a minimum of two candidates endorsed per vacancy." The present method of endorsement promotes apathy, he said. "The voting public is being deprived of the opportunity to have a choice."

On the last day filing petitions were due, Winclechter decided to run as an independent and submitted his petition. "I certainly won't be beholden to anyone," he said. "I think it is important for the school to have independent thinkers."

WINCLECHTER, 42, of 1934 Birch, Des

Edwin Winclechter

Plaines, is regional sales manager for Dearborn Computer Leasing Corp., Schiller Park. He is married and has four children. He attended Wright Junior College, Mississippi University, is vice president of the Riverview Civic Association and president of the South Side Little League.

On declining enrollments at Dist. 62 Winclechter said, "Maybe we can look forward to smaller class sizes and better quality education."

Winclechter sees a trend in education toward more specialized teaching. If there are empty classrooms at Dist. 62 in the next few years, their use "will depend on the requirements of children at that time." The classrooms might be available for specialized teaching in one subject area, such as reading, he said. The size of the teaching staff would also depend on the number of specialized teachers used in the district, said the candidate.

As federal programs in the district are eliminated, the school should make every effort to continue the programs with whatever money is available, said Winclechter. The school board also should meet with legislators to convince them of the need for the federally funded programs at Dist. 62, he said.

WINCLECHTER ALSO thinks legislation should be changed in the area of school finance. The property tax is an unfair way of funding schools, he said. "I would hope that there would be other means of funding schools. I think property taxes are definitely too high."

Winclechter said he is running for the school board "primarily because of my interest in the schools. It's an area we have to be very much concerned about." Although the independent is not receiving the official backing of the teachers association at Dist. 62 he said he has received the support of individual members.

Terrapin production slated

Maine East Terrapin production, "From Head to Toe," will be held April 12-14. The water ballet production will deal with parts of the body.

An all boys' number entitled "The Liver" features Wayne Westman, Mark Fabian, Ken Meyer, Bob Miner, and George Morgan dressed as whiskey bottles and to show what drinking can do.

The price will be 85 cents for the 4 p.m. Thursday, and $1.50 for the 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday shows.

lot. But, the redevelopment group plans no rental in the lot and asks Des Plaines to waive a $435,200 fee levied at $1,600 per space against projects that fall short of city requirements.

The petition also asks for a height limit of 250 feet. City zoning allows 100 feet in the central business area.

Mayoral candidate David Wolf has questioned the proposed variation, warning that the height could set a precedent for other projects downtown.

In a letter to local newspapers last week, Victor C. Mensching, of 1063 Woodlawn, contended that "this building would be only 10 feet short of the Federal Aviation Administration regulations. Just look out your windows now and imagine such a building staring at you."

PAROUBEK ANSWERED that the FAA would allow a building of more than 285 feet. "We don't even know how tall this will be," he said.

Height will be determined by construction price and the building may be "only 200 feet tall," he said. Additional height variation was requested because of rooftop antennas.

Paroubek said that five developers were interviewed before selection of Jerome R. Gottlieb of Chicago. "One wanted to put in a 24-story building with six floors of parking in the middle," he said.

"We're asking for the minimum." But, the mall group could purchase more land for parking and donate it for parking development by the city, he said.

Final project approval rests with the city council. If zoning is denied, the group may let local banks foreclose on redevelopment property mortgages.

Petitioners are Bruce McPhoe of Des Plaines Tomorrow Corp.; J. R. Gottlieb, president of Des Plaines Mall Corp. and Walter W. Spiegler, of Spiegler Brothers Real Estate.

Devon Avenue to be repaved

Devon Avenue from Higgins Road to the Des Plaines River will be repaved, the Illinois Department of Transportation announced recently.

Rock Road Construction Co. of Des Plaines was low bidder, at $48,750.24, on the project.

The reconstruction and resurfacing, to be completed in 25 working days, will begin May 1.

First phase will include construction of drainage facilities and excavation of a median in the west section of River Road.

Salt Creek Watershed plan meeting slated tomorrow

Local U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials will meet tomorrow with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) representatives to discuss the EPA objections to the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Program.

Earlier this year, the work plan for the watershed was submitted to various state and federal agencies for review. The only criticism of the project came from the EPA which objected to the quality of the water to be stored in the Busse Woods retention basin.

The SCS is now preparing a final report on the project, which will include a reply to the EPA's comments. The report and work plan will then be sent to Washington D.C., for final approval and inclusion in the 1973-74 fiscal budget.

THE REPORT and work plan must be submitted in time for Congressional approval before July 1, the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

J. D. Rector, local SCS official, said no date has been set for the report to be sent to Washington. He said the meeting with the EPA was called to clarify certain points in the EPA's review of the workplan.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee, said the EPA review was critical of the pollution level and excessive nutrients that might be present in the retention basin.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed work plan calls for a series of flood controls to be built across the creek. The largest of these would be in the Busse Woods section of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in unincorporated Elk Grove Township. The lake would serve as both a recreational site and a retention basin during flooding conditions.

FEDERAL FUNDS for about half of the $26.5 million cost of the plan are being requested. If Congress approves the funding, the money would be administered through the SCS.

Hamilton said the EPA's objections were not valid. He said the review was "nit-picking" and showed the agency did not understand the function of the retention basin.

"The EPA acts as though the project should solve all the problems. They ignore the real purpose of the project and the significance of flooding and recreation," said Hamilton.

He said the committee was aware of the possible water quality problems when the retention basin was included in the workplan. "If the lake problems were not solvable, then we wouldn't be doing it," said Hamilton.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Bisner Road may have 'patchwork' paving done

Elk Grove Village may have a "patchwork" stretch of Bisner Road this year if plans of the Illinois Highway Department to pave only sections of the thoroughfare become a reality.

Village engineer Don Ciaglia said yesterday the state highway department has indicated it will pave Bisner Road from Biesterfeld to Gloucester roads and from Winston Drive to Cosman Road. The stretch of Bisner Road from Gloucester to Winston is not part of the state's responsibility, and it is not included in the state paving program. The entire road project is less than a mile long.

Ciaglia said Centex Homes Corp. agreed a couple of years ago to reconstruct the remaining portion of the road, which runs behind homes the company is building.

However, the state plans call for concrete highway construction while Centex uses asphalt, Ciaglia said. "What this means is we'll have a stretch of concrete, then asphalt and then concrete."

"AS LONG AS two-thirds of the road will be concrete, it would be foolish not to pave the other third with concrete," he said. Ciaglia said he was talking with state officials in an attempt to get the entire road paved with concrete.

Ciaglia said that as far as he knew, the state has awarded no contract for the project. He said the village has not received a copy of the plans, and he found out about the upcoming project only by accident.

"Bisner Road (going north from Biesterfeld Road) doesn't lead to anything now, but someday it might lead to a recreation area in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve," Ciaglia said. He said the concrete portion of the road would be able to withstand the heavier traffic much better than the asphalt would.

Snowfall delays expected 'battle of the bugs'

Monday's snowfall may have been a nuisance to motorists, but it postponed the onslaught of mosquitos expected in the Northwest suburbs this summer.

Wilbur Mitchell, director of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD), said yesterday that the unseasonable snowy weather will delay the hatching of the millions of mosquito eggs laid during last year's heavy rains. However, he added that cold weather will not kill the eggs.

"The one good thing about the snow is that it will give us more time to get ready to fight mosquitos," Elk Grove Village Trustee Nanci Vanderweel said. She said the trustees should be considering an ordinance tonight that would allow the mosquito abatement district to go on private property to spray mosquito breeding grounds.

"It is very important that the ordinance be passed immediately, but the snow has given us a little more time to get things going," she said. The trustees will be meeting at 8 p.m. today at the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave.

Mrs. Vanderweel introduced the mosquito spraying ordinance two weeks ago based on the community health powers of the village. Without the ordinance, NMAD can not traverse private property to kill mosquito larvae.

MITCHELL SAID it is almost impossible to destroy mosquito eggs, and it is

Elk Grove marks Bike Safety Week

Village President Charles Zettek has proclaimed this week "Elk Grove Village Bike Safety Week."

The park district bicycle club is sponsoring a bike safety program at the village elementary schools. A "talking bike," films and other material will be used to instruct children on safe bike riding.

Saturday will be village bicycle inspection and registration day. Inspections will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Lions Park Community Center, 130 Kennedy Blvd.

The 15-mile village bicycle trail will be open at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Lions Park Community Center. The trail goes through the village, industrial park and the lake area.

Wouldn't you just know it...

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 3 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

Industrial sewage system check seen

Elk Grove Village will make an inspection of the sanitary sewage system spring.

Village engineer Don Ciaglia said yesterday the project was in compliance with a regulation by the Metropolitan Sanitary District requiring an inspection of all sewage structures in an attempt to find any unauthorized connections or broken pipes.

Last year the village completed a two-year inspection program of sanitary sewers in the residential area and found few problems with the system, according to Ciaglia. He said the inspectors found less than 10 illegal connections and broken pipes.

All problems found in the residential area have been corrected, and no citations were issued, Ciaglia said.

He said the village was waiting to find out whether or not a new inspection of the residential sewers would have to be performed because the village made its inspection last year. The new MSD ordinance requires communities to make the inspection as of Jan. 1, 1973.

CIAGLIA SAID earlier, "We've been following this new ordinance two years before it was written. We're actually ahead of everyone else."

In the residential sewer system survey, the village inspected the manholes for leaks in the concrete structures, and then ran a television camera through 22,000 feet of sanitary sewer pipes to detect any breaks, leaks or obstructions.

Ciaglia also said smoke testing was used to detect leaks. In this process smoke is pumped into the sanitary sewer at one manhole, and the sewer is plugged up at the next manhole in all directions. If there is a break, the smoke will escape the pipe and come up through the ground.

Apology sent to family

Elrod denies rap in death notice

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 825 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in my apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

Sheriff's police that night asked Chicago police to send a squad car to the Albany Avenue address to notify Flodin's relatives but Leach said yesterday that there has been no confirmation that the car was sent. Mrs. Flodin denied that she received any notification from Chicago police.

Leach said no news of the fatal accident was released by the sheriff's department until the next day. He mentioned the Cook County Morgue, where Flodin's body was taken the night of March 27, as a possible source of the news release.

"WE RELEASED news of the death late in the afternoon of the next day" after talking to Regina Flodin, Leach said.

"And that was only because we thought one of our squad cars was involved. Before that (news of the death) could have come from somewhere else but it didn't come from (the sheriff's) office," he said.

After an investigation, sheriff's Patrolman Ronald Moers, 32, 1413 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and filing a false police report in connection with the hit-and-run death.

Moers' damaged squad car, which he had reported stolen, was found March 28 at a construction site in the 2400 block of Church Street, Des Plaines.

Moers was suspended from the sheriff's department and Elrod has asked for his dismissal. He will appear April 24 in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of leaving the accident scene and filing the false police report.

Leach said Elrod will send a letter of apology to the Flodin family. "We're sorry they feel this way and that they're offended," he said.

WITH HER HAIR standing on end in the wind, a young hiker rests at one of seven checkpoints along Sunday's 20 mile "Hike for Your Neighbor," to benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center. Nearly 900 hikers completed the 7½ hour march despite the cold, windy weather.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre-and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Some feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Accused murderer of local girls arraigned on charges

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Danny A. Ranes, 29, Portage, charged with slaying four young women, stood mute in circuit court yesterday on murder charges involving the deaths of two of the victims, both of Des Plaines.

He was arraigned in separate courts on first degree murder charges in each of the deaths and pleas of innocent were entered on his behalf. No trial dates were set in the deaths of the two young women who vanished on a trip from Chicago to Michigan.

They were Claudia Bidstrup, 19, and Linda Clark, 19. The decomposed bodies of the two women were found in a car near Galesburg last July. Both apparently had been strangled and ropes were tied around the bodies.

IN ONE OF the cases, Ranes was sentenced to life in prison March 26 in circuit court in the death of Mrs. Patricia Howk, 29, Kalamazoo. She was found stabbed to death March 19, 1972. Her body was found behind a local building. Police said she had been raped.

Also pending against Ranes is a murder charge in the death of Pamela Fearnoy, 19, Kalamazoo. Her decomposed body was found near Galesburg last Oct. 17.

Also charged with murder in the deaths of the two Des Plaines victims is Brent Eugene Koster, 16, Kalamazoo. Probate authorities waived jurisdiction over Koster when he was 15 years old last fall, so he could be tried as an adult. But his court appearances have been held in abeyance pending outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court case involving juveniles tried as adults.

election 73 Lindahl challenges Zettek for village presidency

Charles Zettek

Positive, flexible outlook needed;
some multi-family housing desirable

"A man of principle; firm, but flexible" is a favorite phrase Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek uses in his reelection campaign to describe his past 12 years in village office.

Zettek says any plan for the village has to be flexible to serve as a guide, and any person holds office must not be afraid to change his mind to fit the situation and the times.

One of the major changes facing the village is a proposed multi-family and single-family development on the west side of the village known as Devon-53, located at Devon Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53. Zettek says the village needs a mixture of housing types, and he is not opposed to allowing some multi-family housing into the village.

"Elk Grove Village would not be a well-rounded community with only a single-family housing," he said. "There also should be a mixture of apartments, condominiums and custom homes."

ZETTEK SAID that during his 12 years as president, the board of trustees has experienced few, if any, failures, and has taken on many ventures with a positive outlook. "I am running on my record and the accomplishments of the village board. You can't separate the two," the 46-year-old Zettek said.

"In the last six years, we have replaced 80 per cent of the roads in the village, and I believe if we maintain the streets, it will save the taxpayers' money," he said.

Zettek said he believes the function of village government is to provide the most services at the least cost. He said residents may see the effect of this policy with a decrease in local property taxes for the second year in a row, if the village's estimate of its assessed valuation proves correct.

The major county and arterial roads in the village have been widened or are in the process of being improved, including Arlington Heights Road, Zettek said.

In the area of community health, Zettek said the village budget committee is discussing appropriating funds to implement a comprehensive health plan and to

Two candidates are vying for the Elk Grove Village presidency in the April 17 village election. They are incumbent Charles Zettek and Robert "Bud" Lindahl.

Zettek, former village trustee, was appointed village president in 1971 after Jack Pahl resigned. Lindahl is on the Community Service board and is active in village athletic associations.

Richard McGreener, a former trustee and current village clerk, withdrew from the race last week.

The following interviews are the candidates' views on the issues and the office of president.

hire a community health coordinator. He said the village just initiated a community blood assurance program covering the blood needs of the residents.

THE PRESIDENTIAL incumbent said an emergency medical treatment program will be enacted in the near future to add another service for the residents. The paramedic program will be run by firemen trained as paramedics and emergency medical technicians.

Zettek, 44 Woodcrest Ln., has resided in the village since 1957. He served 10 years as a trustee and was selected by the board of trustees to replace former Village Pres. Jack Pahl, who resigned in 1971.

"The day I was appointed president, in June, 1971, I decided to run on my own for president in the next election," Zettek said. "I get a tremendous satisfaction from serving in local government, and it provides an opportunity for me to contribute to the community."

"In 12 years I only missed one board meeting and have attended more than 2,000 committee meetings," he said. "In order to do that, you have to love the job."

Zettek said that if elected, he will work to provide more mosquito abatement services for the village. He said spraying equipment could be purchased for $5,000, and it is "worth the cost to protect the welfare of the residents."

THERE IS MORE work to be done in the area of flood control, and the Metropolitan Sanitary District should proceed with its plans to build a sewage treatment plant at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Avenue to relieve sewage back-up in the village, he said. Zettek said he would become actively involved in those two areas to get the problems solved.

In the area of federal revenue sharing, he said the money should be spent on projects that aren't perpetual and would not require additional expenditures after the original financing. He said the money should never be used to meet the payroll, and salaries should come from the general budget.

Zettek suggested the money could be spent on one or two fire stations that will be needed in the village west of Rte. 53.

"One of the major problems in Illinois and the United States is transportation, and possibly some of the money could be spent to meet local transportation needs," he said. Zettek said that on a local level he would like to see a minibus service, which would be especially helpful to senior citizens.

REGARDING housing, Zettek said he doesn't feel Elk Grove Village has the responsibility to provide low and moderate income housing. "As much as I recognize the need for that type of housing, I think a government has to be cognizant of its responsibility to the people already in the community," he said.

Zettek said he supported having a housing commission in the village even after its controversial 1971 housing survey, which found a need for 1,055 low-income housing units and 622 moderate-income units in the village.

"The Housing Commission wouldn't exist if it weren't for me. The village board isn't sympathetic to the commission," he said. However, he said he felt the commission is needed and has a responsibility to work with other housing commissions in the area and provide information to the village board.

Charles Zettek

Robert 'Bud' Lindahl

Community Service board member opposed to any influx of high-rises

Robert "Bud" Lindahl has been seeking public office most of the three years he has been a resident of Elk Grove Village.

Eighteen months ago Lindahl announced he would run for village president in the upcoming elections. His announcement came only five months after he ran for trustee (unsuccessfully) in the 1971 Elk Grove Village elections.

Despite the fact he has lived in Elk Grove Village only three years, Lindahl says, "I've made my mark in the village. When I promise something, they know I'll produce it."

Lindahl contends that the village board has repeatedly turned down his attempts to join the board. Twice since the 1971 elections, the village board has filled trustee vacancies through appointments. And both times the board chose someone besides Lindahl: "I feel they are trying to ignore me. And now some of the people (village board members) who passed me over have asked me to run for trustee instead of village president."

BUT LINDAHL IS in the race, and he's in it to win. "I'm pretty confident," he said. Lindahl is opposing Village Pres. Charles Zettek.

Lindahl traces his political interest to Chicago. As a resident there he ran independently for alderman. He lost to the Democratic organization man, but, he says, he learned a lot in the process. And, he adds, "I opened a lot of things they (the organization) didn't want opened."

Lindahl later became a vice president of the Democratic organization of Chicago, despite the fact, he says, "I voted for who I wanted to."

An officer of three construction corporations, Lindahl, 53, lives at 690A Versailles Circle. He is active in the Elk Grove football and baseball groups for youngsters and is a member of the VFW and Kiwanis organizations.

Lindahl's main campaign promise is simple: "I'll get things done; I won't sit around." One of the things he is stressing is his position on high-rise apartments. "I'm definitely against any more high-rises until the developers can prove they have sufficient schools, fire protection and water supply." He fears an influx of high-rise multi-family developments in the western and southwestern parts of the village.

LINDAHL HAS BEEN a member of Elk Grove Community Service, a social service agency, and he is one of its staunchest supporters. "I have helped Community Service quite a bit," he said, adding that he helped organize the group's youth plan involving participation by the police department and the local high school.

In connection with his work on Community Service Board, Lindahl has charged that Trustee George Spees, candidate for reelection, has been taking undue credit for his work on Community Service. "George Spees is trying to take all the glory of Community Service. This grates me. He's only one of 15 (members of the board)."

On the subject of mass transportation, Lindahl feels a bus service is needed within the village and between Elk Grove Village and other areas. He favors the entrance of private enterprise in the bus business, but adds, "If I can't get a private firm, then I would take a resident survey on a village subsidy (for a bus service.) If the survey shows residents are in favor, then I'd give a subsidy for bus service."

Moving to the question of low-and moderate-income housing, Lindahl says Elk Grove Village will eventually have it whether the town wants it or not. Lindahl would prefer having the village come up with its own plan instead of having a federal project forced on the town. "It will be forced on us, unless we do something about it."

ELABORATING ON his views concerning the housing question, Lindahl says "You have to talk to the people about it. And you need the plan commission to see that the plan is suitable."

Lindahl was a member of the village housing commission, but resigned because, he says, the village board ignored the commission. "I was wasting my time, beating my head against the wall." He admits he has not spent much time looking over the report prepared by the housing commission. "I haven't really gone over it, because I felt it would be ignored," he said.

His views on other subjects:

• Water supply: Lindahl has long been an advocate of using Lake Michigan water to supply the village.

• Fire protection: A temporary fire station should be set up in the village west of Ill. Rte. 53.

• Revenue sharing: "I think some money should be used for the fire station west of Rte. 53. I can't really say where else it should be used."

Alternate fiscal plan offered

Village budget becomes part of electioneering

by MARCIA KRAMER

The 1973-74 Palatine village budget last night became embroiled in the hotly contested race for Palatine Village Board seats.

Richard W. Fonte, a Republican party candidate for village trustee, presented at the public hearing a "Republican alternative action budget," which differs from the budget being considered by the trustees, mainly in its extensive use of motor fuel tax funds.

The Village Independent Party (VIP) candidates, who form a majority of the board, delayed immediate response to the Republican suggestions, indicating in a prepared statement that the VIP members of the village "will consider the proposals before taking final action on the budget."

"However," they said, "we believe every fair-minded resident of Palatine will recognize that political motivation rather than concern for the voter prompted the opposition's actions tonight."

The operating budget is to be discussed next Monday prior to its finalization.

Fonte, on several occasions, called the village budget the VIP budget, referring to the party to which the majority of village board members belongs. Trustee Shirley A. Munson, chairman of the finance committee, took exception, and characterized the budget as a village document.

FONTE SAID the Republican party's budget would provide more services to residents without raising their taxes.

Basically, the proposed budget leans heavily on motor fuel tax funds and extended payment for certain improvements over several years. Most of the proposals in the budget were outlined by the Republicans earlier in the campaign.

A key portion of the GOP proposal includes the tax refund plan which they announced over the weekend. Under the plan, taxpayers would receive refunds equal to the amount of this year's property tax increase — 7 cents per $100 assessed valuation. As an indication by the GOP, they believe the tax increase unnecessary.

The Republicans have estimated the refund at $15-$50 per taxpayer, while the VIPs contend the figure is closer to $7-$12.

Other items in the Republican budget include the hiring of 5 rather than 3 full time firemen; the improvement of sewers on Saratoga Road and in the Palatine Park subdivision, an increase in street maintenance and sidewalk and street light installation; an appropriation of $2,000 for Northwest Opportunity Center; and various traffic signal installations.

Following Fonte's presentation of the Republican suggestions, Trustee Clayton W. Brown, the VIP candidate for village president, asked Trustee Wendell E. Jones, his Republican opponent, why he had not brought up any of the proposals during the lengthy budget discussions rather than one week before the election.

Jones said he has presented the suggestions "time and time and time again, and no one listens."

Although the VIP members of the board involved in the election refrained from commenting directly on the Republican budget, the two VIP board members not up for election criticized the GOP plan.

TRUSTEE FRED H. Zajonc referred to the Republican suggestions as "simplified." He said the village budget as currently drafted was devised following numerous meetings involving the village manager, department heads and trustees.

Outgoing Mayor Jack Moodie advised strongly against "dissipating motor fuel taxes for every day uses," such as sewer improvement, as the Republican budget provides.

He contended the motor fuel taxes are obtained from motorists through gasoline taxes "for the specific purpose of guiding roads."

FONTE SAID the Republican's proposed use of the motor fuel taxes is "thoroughly legal."

The village budget totals $1.8 million, an increase of 9 per cent over the present budget. The 1973-74 budget is to go into effect May 1.

Miss Palatine contest draws total indifference

Blame it on women's lib. Or perhaps on the widespread anti-establishment feeling among young people.

For whatever reason, this year's Miss Palatine contest is off.

Only three girls expressed an interest in the competition. The Palatine Jaycees needed six in order to sponsor it.

So yesterday, Dr. Lee Bell, coordinating the contest for the Jaycees, officially canceled what would have been the ninth annual competition.

An announcement of the contest several weeks ago drew the three responses, but more recent publicity brought "no calls, no nothing," says Dr. Bell.

He extended the deadline for entering and even went to one of the local high schools in an effort to stir up interest.

"If there had even been an interest at all, we would have extended the deadline again," Dr. Bell said.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted.

"We are ready to go," he said. Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

Losing hotel pools use

Salt Creek parks may build a pool

The Salt Creek Park District may have to consider building its own swimming pool now that it will no longer be allowed to use swim facilities at two hotels, park director Jim De Vos said yesterday.

"We will be talking about building a pool of our own now," De Vos said. "I was considering it anyway. We could build a small indoor pool but we really don't have the money for it now. It would probably have to be put to a referendum."

The need for its own pool has become a priority now that the Arlington Park Towers Hotel and Howard Johnson motel will not permit the district to conduct open swim programs at their pools. Swim lessons will continue at the Towers, however, De Vos said.

The decision to end agreements between the district and the hotels allowing the free use of the pools came last week when management at both hotels complained of rowdy conduct by park district participants.

"The decision was made because of problems with the people from the park district," Mauri Schlesinger, part-owner of Howard Johnson, said yesterday. He said the decision stemmed from disorderly conduct on the part of some using the pool. He also said "intimidation of guests, throwing ice in the halls, rowdiness, and the general nuisance created by the people" prompted the move.

DEVOS, WHO SAID the Howard Johnson management notified him of the decision a week ago, called the management "very narrow-minded. I don't think that (the reasoning given by the management) was the real reason," he said. "I don't know why they would want us out. They've been getting good publicity for their involvement in the program."

"I don't know how he can pick out our group from all the others that are there like their own guests and groups like the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts that they rent their pool to," De Vos said.

"I think it's just a shame that the group causing the trouble have to ruin it for all the rest," he said. "He (Schlesinger) didn't give me a good reason for this. He said 'his boss' told him to do this, but he won't say who his boss is."

A similar move by the Arlington Towers to eliminate open swimming was made Thursday, De Vos said. "It threw me for a loop," he said. "But I think when we get through to New York (the Madison Square Garden Corp., owners of the Towers) we may clear this all up."

De Vos said he thinks both hotels may want the district to pay rent for the facilities and made their decisions on that basis. "If that's what they want, fine," De Vos said. "We can arrange that."

He added he did not think the decisions will cause irreparable harm to the district. "I don't think it will hurt us. We're strong in so many other programs. We have too many other programs going."

Accused murderer of local girls arraigned on charges

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Danny A. Ranes, 29, Portage, charged with slaying four young women, stood mute in circuit court yesterday on murder charges involving the deaths of two of the victims, both of Des Plaines.

He was arraigned in separate courts on first degree murder charges in each of the deaths and pleas of innocent were entered on his behalf. No trial dates were set in the deaths of the two young women who vanished on a trip from Chicago to Michigan.

They were Claudia Bidstrup, 19, and Linda Clark, 19. The decomposed bodies of the two women were found in a car near Galesburg last July. Both apparently had been strangled and ropes were tied around the bodies.

IN ONE OF the cases, Ranes was sentenced to life in prison March 26 in circuit court in the death of Mrs. Patricia Howk, 29, Kalamazoo. She was found stabbed to death March 19, 1972. Her body was found behind a local building. Police said she had been raped.

Also pending against Ranes is a murder charge in the death of Pamela Fearnow, 19, Kalamazoo. Her decomposed body was found near Galesburg last Oct. 17.

Also charged with murder in the deaths of the two Des Plaines victims is Brent Eugene Koster, 16, Kalamazoo. Probate authorities waived jurisdiction over Koster when he was 15 years old last fall, so he could be tried as an adult. But his court appearances have been held in abeyance pending outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court case involving juveniles tried as adults.

Agencies set for bids on federal funds

National Library Week

Tours and refreshments are scheduled for National Library Week this week at the Palatine Public Library, 149 N. Brockway St.

Each morning, staff members will show people the facilities. Coffee and rolls will be available. Special programs currently in progress include a sculpture collection and art prints in circulation to patrons, puppet workshops and preschool programs in the Children's Department, a Great Books program, and movies shown for adults and children each week.

A Thursday night movie will feature Sir Laurence Olivier.

Environmental meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Palatine Environmental Control Board will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the health department, 49 S. Greeley St.

Palatine Township canvass

The official canvass for last week's Palatine Township election was completed Saturday, showing the following vote totals:

Supervisor: Harold I. Olsen, 4,187; Jack Scollay, 1,702; Clerk: Ruth Ellen Blowney, 4,340; Mary Sue Butler, 1,552; Assessor: Bernard Pedersen, 4,255; Edward Sullivan, 1,041; Collector: Albert F. DePue, 4,183; Sally Kehe, 1,690. Highway Commissioner: Robert Bergman, 3,452; Peter J. Gerling, 2,462. Auditors: Donald Bellm, 4,117; Liston Pennington, 4,144; Gary Price, 4,163; Charles Zimmerman, 3,917; David Mergenthaler, 1,634; George Stewart, 1,871; Stanley Martin, 1,664; and Paul McWilliams, 1,708.

Republicans won every position in the township government, most by a two to one margin.

Cub Pack carnival

Cub Pack 286 is planning a carnival for Saturday at Virginia Lake School gym from noon to 3 p.m. Tickets will be sold in advance on Friday after school. Children from all schools are invited.

Dance lessons to be offered

Professional dance lessons are being offered to children of Palatine Township by the Salt Creek Park District. The class is open to both boys and girls. Cost of the class is $5. For more information, call the district at 259-6880.

WITH HER HAIR standing on end in the wind, a young hiker rests at one of seven checkpoints along Sunday's 20 mile "Hike for Your Neighbor," to benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center. Nearly 900 hikers completed the 7½ hour march despite the cold, windy weather.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

Board of education postpones meeting

The regular meeting of the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education has been postponed one week until April 18 at 8 p.m. at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

The April 14 annual school election results will be canvassed at the meeting and the two new board members sworn in.

'Monte Carlo' night set Palatine Republicans will hold a "Monte Carlo Night" Friday to raise funds for the village election campaign.

Chips will be sold, and at the end of the evening can be converted to prizes.

The event is to begin at 9 p.m. at the Arlington Heights Elks Club, 2323 N. Wilke Rd. Tickets are available by calling 359-5521 or at the door.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre- and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Meet your candidates for village offices: Part 1

For village trustee

Kent L. Bradley

'We must become more aware of the needs of the elderly'

Kent Bradley views his candidacy as "a great opportunity to bring some new ideas to the village."

He's seeking a two-year trustee post on the Palatine Village Board as a Village Independent Party member to help carry out his ideas.

Bradley, 33, is especially interested in the problems of the elderly. With cut-backs in federal programs, he said, "we're more and more going to have to be aware of what their needs are."

He suggests a threefold approach to assisting senior citizens: providing free village vehicle stickers; working with the Chamber of Commerce and local merchants to set up a senior citizen discount; and arranging with volunteers to give rides to the elderly.

"It's easy to overlook these kinds of problems," Bradley says. "Pressure is brought on the village board for flooding and zoning and things like that. But that doesn't mean our senior citizens don't have problems."

Bradley is also interested in the flooding and zoning problems.

FLOODING PROBLEMS, he says, should be broken down into those which can be handled with short-range solutions, and those with long-range solutions. Efforts which could be done immediately, such as building retention basins and cleaning the creek, should be, according to Bradley.

His approach to zoning problems: "We need to have the plan commission sit down and do some comprehensive studies on the areas that are open in Palatine and make a determination on the type of manufacturing or commercial business we want to have in these areas."

Bradley, a former president of the Palatine Jaycees, also believes communication between the residents and village officials could be improved.

Kent C. Bradley

Seeking office for: Palatine village trustee, two-year term.
Incumbent: no.
Age: 33.

Address: 336 S. Rose St.
Resident since: 1966.
Marital status: wife, Jane; three children.

Occupation: systems group manager.
Firm associated with: Container Corp. of America.

Education: Purdue University, B.S.
Membership in civic and business groups: past president, Palatine Jaycees; member, Countryside YMCA.
Public offices held: none.

Palatine voters next Tuesday will select a trustee to fill an unexpired seat on the village board. They'll also pick a new village clerk.

Candidates for the two-year trustee seat are Bryan P. Coughlin Jr., a Republican, and Kent L. Bradley, a Village Independent Party member.

Running for the four-year village clerk term are VIP Marilyn J. Bogen and Republican Diane B. Greenlees.

Interviews with the four candidates are provided below. Later this week, The Herald will provide glimpses of the six candidates for full trustee terms and the two candidates for village president.

"When somebody calls the village, first of all, he deserves a respectful answer, and secondly, he deserves an answer."

Bradley says that the village water bill could be redesigned to provide space for residents to write comments.

"The one type of communication you're getting today is people aggressive enough to go to a board meeting or call a trustee," he said. That type of communication, Bradley feels, is distorted, conveying only the views of the factions vocal enough to make their points.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL cooperation, he believes is "an area to be explored," particularly with other municipalities. Villages could enter purchasing agreements to split the cost and use of equipment and materials.

Bradley also believes the village's approach to budgeting could be altered slightly, so it is managed by objectives. Department heads would be given objectives, and their efforts toward meeting these objectives would be checked at regular intervals. Bradley believes the village budget should be reviewed quarterly, rather than annually.

Bryan P. Coughlin Jr.

'You go down to the village hall, and they don't give you an answer...'

Bryan Coughlin insists he "never intended to run for office." But when the Republican Party approached him to run for a two-year trustee seat on the Palatine Village Board: "I was getting to the point where I was fed up enough that I accepted."

What disturbs him most about the village, Coughlin says, is "the question of responsiveness on the part of village officials."

"You go down to village hall and the attitude is, generally speaking, 'you people don't know what's good for you. We've got the answers.'"

Coughlin also takes exception to the way planning is handled in the village. A member of the plan commission since 1968, he says the group "doesn't plan," and is basically "a reactionary group, a zoning board of appeals."

Coughlin contends that the plan commission's priorities are wrong. "We spend an inordinate amount of time working out small details with developers," he said. "We bend over backwards for the developer."

COUGHLIN'S SPOTTY attendance at plan commission meetings has been cited by his opponents during the campaign, and Coughlin admits "I do travel, and I'm going to have to miss meetings, no question about it."

He said: "Most people, when they reach an executive position in a firm, have to travel. I don't think you'd want to cut out all the executives in town from public service." Coughlin is a vice president of the Midwest Stock Exchange.

He regards village government as a business enterprise, and feels it should be run in a businesslike manner.

Though Coughlin said he had not had time to analyze the present village bud-et, he said, "There is certainly enough money available to accomplish a lot more than we're accomplishing now."

COUGHLIN FEELS that one area in which more money is spent than necessary is in road improvement. Colfax Street, he says, "needs upgrading. But we don't need a beautiful four-lane super highway with sidewalks and street lights and everything like that." Hicks Road, too, "needs upgrading, no question about it. But how much upgrading do you want?"

In the area of flood control, Coughlin says: "We're not saying we have a big enough sponge to dry up every basement in the area. But we think we can keep it from getting worse. "I don't have the answers. But I feel we should sit down and get some answers."

For a starter, Coughlin doesn't believe the village should wait for implementation of the Salt Creek Watershed Plan. Priorities should be changed to free up funds in the budget for flood control projects, or, he contends, a bond issue should be floated to obtain the necessary funds.

VIP candidate sees the of fice as a way of 'getting involved'

"There are a lot of things the clerk can do," says Marilyn Bogen. And she'd like to be the one to do them.

The Village Independent Party candidate for village clerk says she'd like to perform some of the duties assigned to the clerk in the municipal code but actually handled by the full-time deputy clerk.

In particular, Mrs. Bogen believes the clerk should handle election arrangements. "That's the most important thing the clerk is responsible for," she said. "I'm sure it's being handled well, but I just would like to get involved."

Mrs. Bogen views the clerk's position as a way of getting involved in the village, where she has lived for three years.

Eventually, she says, she'd like to run for village trustee, but feels that for now, with her limited knowledge, she should run for a non-policy making position.

ALTHOUGH THE clerk isn't involved in making decisions, Mrs. Bogen favors the present system of electing, rather than appointing, the clerk.

"There are good points to both sides," she said, "but the way it's set up now, I prefer seeing the clerk elected."

The reason: "I'm not saying it would happen, but I would hate to think one

'No one really knows what the clerk does,' but first-time office seeker wants to find out

After attending a few coffees while on the campaign trail, Diane Greenlees remarked that "no one really knows what the clerk does."

She, for one, knows. And she'd like to perform the duties of the Palatine village clerk.

Mrs. Greenlees is seeking the four-year term as a Republican candidate. It's her first venture into politics.

"It was very difficult for me to run," she confessed. "The job didn't bother me at all, but running for office didn't thrill me too much."

But as it's turned out, "no one has asked me one thing" at the coffees, and Mrs. Greenlees has taken to approaching residents and telling them what the clerk's job involves.

RIGHT NOW, though the clerk has additional assigned duties, the only functions actually performed are taking minutes at village board meetings and signing ordinances.

Mrs. Greenlees says she'd like to do more, but at the same time would like to avoid a "small-scale power struggle" with the full-time deputy clerk, who performs virtually all of the elected clerk's duties.

$2,000 asked from city

Decision expected tonight on Opportunity Center cash

A decision on whether to give $2,000 to the Northwest Opportunity Center is expected to come tonight at a meeting of the Rolling Meadows City Council.

The council will hear a resolution from the city finance committee recommending the expenditure. The resolution was drafted by the committee two weeks ago after more than a month of deliberation on the proposal.

The funding request has created some controversy on the council and at times heated debates. Leading the opposition to the funding has been Mayor Roland Meyer, who has said he opposes the funding based on an agreement made with the center seven years ago when the center was established in the city.

Meyer has said the agreement provided that the center would be a federally-funded organization which would not seek local funding.

Center officials say they are asking for the money to compensate for the loss of federal funding due to the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity ordered by President Nixon. The $2,000 figure, center officials say, is based on 105 families from Rolling Meadows served at the center last year.

SEVERAL municipalities have already agreed to contribute to the center. They are Arlington Heights, which will give $4,600; Elk Grove Village, which will give $500; Hoffman Estates, which will give $1,257; and Wheeling, which will give $1,715.

Some city officials have questioned the credibility of the center records showing 105 Rolling Meadows families were helped, saying they do not believe that many needy families could live in the city. Opponents have also said the city's welfare department should alone take care of the city's needy.

There are indications that a resolution differing from the finance committee's recommendation may be presented by Ald. Daniel Weber (4th). Weber declined yesterday to discuss the nature of his resolution but said he believes it "circumvents the whole problem surrounding the question of funding the center."

The city council will also conduct a public hearing on the proposed 1973-74 budget at tonight's meeting. The budget calls for expenditures of more than $3,312,000. City Mgr. Jim Watson has said original predictions of a deficit budget have not materialized. He said expected revenue for the city will be about $3,350,000, which is more than is anticipated to be spent.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the council chambers at city hall.

Open house set at Meadows High

Parents will be able to visit the foreign-language, social studies and practical arts departments Thursday at Rolling Meadows High School.

The visit, sponsored by the school's Academic Booster Club, will begin at 7:30 p.m. The evening will also include a short booster club business meeting for the election of officers for the 1973-74 school year.

Rose expert to speak

Fred Jorgenson, a rose expert, will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the Garden Club of Crete on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

All Crete residents are invited to attend the meeting. For more information, call Mrs. Jeanette Rutter, hostess of the first meeting, at 397-1024.

Gene's walk costs Walker 20 bucks

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Agencies to ask tonight for cuts of federal funds

Area social agencies are preparing details for tonight's Palatine Township town meeting, when agency representatives make proposals for distributing the township's $48,500 in revenue sharing money.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in Sanborn School, Oak and Wood streets. During the past month, representatives of various social agencies have explained their needs to the township board of auditors. But final action by the board was held up until the new officers were elected last week. Four new auditors will preside at tonight's meeting as their first official action. More feedback on spending the money will be sought tonight from the electorate.

THE PALATINE League of Women Voters have asked for a place on the agenda at tonight's meeting to make a statement about the Bridge and the township board of auditor's role is the road fund.

The Bridge is the single largest project in the township budget, receiving $50,000 last year. At the last town meeting, league members criticized the town board for paying what they said was a disproportionate share of the Bridge's budget. The Bridge serves youth who live outside the township as well as those living here.

Agencies and their requests are: Palatine Township Youth Committee (to operate the Bridge youth counseling service, $63,000 to $73,000; Council for the Aging, $12,778; Northwest Mental Health Association, $12,000; and the Northwest Opportunity Center, $8,203.

The town meeting has traditionally been the citizens' chance to approve or reject the budget. That power was shifted to the town board of auditors, two years ago, making it the major decision-making force in the township.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

Park district gets 13-acre land gift

The Arlington Heights Park District has been given 13 acres along the eastern border of the Nike Base at Central and Wilke roads, President Nixon's office announced yesterday.

A nine-hole, "pitch and putt" golf course has been tentatively planned for the L-shaped land parcel, valued at $400,000.

The park district formally applied for the land in January after it was declared surplus to the military. Park officials hope someday to acquire the entire 137-acre Nike Base for development of a regional park.

"We've got a foot in the door, at least," said Tom Thornton, director of parks and recreation for the park district.

Thornton said preliminary studies indicate that the land could support a small golf course, but he added that development may be delayed because of a lack of funds.

"We're hoping to finance it through revenue bonds, but our attorney has indicated there may be some problems with this approach. If we can't use revenue bonds, the golf course will probably have to wait until we can issue more general obligation bonds," he said.

THE COST OF developing a golf course has been estimated at $80,000 to $100,000. The price includes a watering system and a small pro shop. Lights for the course would be an additional cost.

Thornton said it would cost park district residents about $1.50 to play a round of golf on the short course during the week, and $2 on weekends and holidays.

Pitch and putt courses have proved very successful in other communities, Thornton said, citing courses in Des Plaines and Skokie.

The property, which is bounded on the north by Central Road, on the east by the Americana Nursing Home, and on the west by a chainlink fence, is now planted with grass and several small trees.

"If we can't build the golf course, we'll use the land for passive recreation and maybe do some planting and grading," Thornton said.

He explained that the district may not be able to use revenue bonds, which are paid for through fees and do not affect the tax rate, because of a condition that the federal government could reclaim the land during a time of national emergency.

"Our attorney has indicated there may be some difficulty selling revenue bonds with that stipulation on the property. But this isn't a final decision," he said.

Thornton said the Department of Interior, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Lake Central Region is preparing deeds for the property. He said he has no idea at this time what the name of the new park will be.

Salt Creek meeting tomorrow

Local U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials will meet tomorrow with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) representatives to discuss the EPA objections to the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Program.

Earlier this year, the work plan for the watershed was submitted to various state and federal agencies for review. The only criticism of the project came from the EPA which objected to the quality of the water to be stored in the Busse Woods retention basin.

The SCS is now preparing a final report on the project, which will include a reply to the EPA's comments. The report and work plan will then be sent to Washington D.C., for final approval and inclusion in the 1973-74 fiscal budget.

THE REPORT and work plan must be submitted in time for Congressional approval before July 1, the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

J. D. Rector, local SCS official, said no date has been set for the report to be sent to Washington. He said the meeting with the EPA was called to clarify certain points in the EPA's review of the workplan.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee, said the EPA review was critical of the pollution level and excessive nutrients that might be present in the retention basin.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed work plan calls for a series of flood controls to be built across the creek. The largest of these would be in the Busse Woods section of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in unincorporated Elk Grove Township. The lake would serve as both a recreational site and a retention basin during flooding conditions.

FEDERAL FUNDS for about half of the $26.5 million cost of the plan are being requested. If Congress approves the funding, the money would be administered through the SCS.

Hamilton said the EPA's objections were not valid. He said the review was "nit-picking" and showed the agency did not understand the function of the retention basin.

"The EPA acts as though the project should solve all the problems. They ignore the real purpose of the project and the significance of flooding and recreation," said Hamilton.

He said the committee was aware of the possible water quality problems when the retention basin was included in the workplan. "If the lake problems were not solvable, then we wouldn't be doing it," said Hamilton.

Man wanted for draft evasion apprehended

A Rolling Meadows man wanted by the FBI for alleged military draft evasion was apprehended yesterday by Rolling Meadows police after being involved in a minor traffic accident.

Thomas C. Dodge, 23, of 4700 Arbor Dr., was turned over to federal agents yesterday. He had been picked up by police after Karen J. Hensley, 23, also of 4700 Arbor Dr., came to the police station to report a minor accident she had involving Dodge's vehicle.

Dodge was not charged by police but was held when a check of his license plates through the National Crime Index Computer (NCIC) revealed the federal warrant for draft evasion.

NCIC is a national computer link which stores information on driving records and criminal status of all persons with driver's licenses. Police Chief Lewis Case said whenever a traffic stop is made, police run an instantaneous check of persons through NCIC.

Dodge was placed in the custody of FBI agents pending arraignment.

Drug abuse program slated at city hall

been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre-and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Art exhibit, movie, talk highlight library week

An art exhibit, movie and lecture are among the activities scheduled at the Rolling Meadows Public Library, 3110 Martin Ln., this week in observance of National Library Week.

"Know Your Rolling Meadows Library" has been selected as the theme of the week-long schedule of activities.

An art exhibit featuring more than 75 paintings and drawings by students from Rolling Meadows High School and St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights will be on display in the new reference room.

Jean Anderson of Rolling Meadows will speak to interested adults on the history of dolls at 10:30 a.m. in the library tomorrow. Mrs. Anderson will use several dolls to illustrate her speech. The Rolling Meadows Golden Years Club has been invited to the lecture and a tour of the library.

Thursday evening has been designated family night. "The Bohemian Girl," a Laurel and Hardy film, will be shown at the library at 7:30 p.m.

Posters based on the theme "Widen Your World — Read" will be on exhibit during the week at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. The posters were made by Rolling Meadows scouts.

All library patrons checking out books during the week will receive a ball point pen as a commemorative of National Library Week.

Jean Weber, a library board member, will represent the library at Library Legislation Day in Springfield tomorrow. Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will be Mrs. Weber's guest at a luncheon in Springfield tomorrow.

Meet your candidates for city offices: Part I

1st Ward aldermanic race

Merrill Wuerch

Incumbent seeking first election to four-year term; 'I want voter'

Merrill Wuerch

Experience is what incumbent Ald. Merrill Wuerch (1st) says he is offering Rolling Meadows residents in his ward. "The people have paid for four years of experience," he says of his term on the council.

Wuerch is chairman of the fire protection committee, the public information and education committee, Civil Defense director, and a member of the city finance committee. Though he has been an alderman for four years, Wuerch will be seeking his first election to a full four-year term. He was appointed in 1969 to fill the vacancy left by James Watson, now city manager, and ran in 1971 to complete the remaining years of the term.

The April 17 contest will also be the first in which Wuerch will be opposed.

A lack of substantial issues in the campaign means voters will be choosing "strictly on the basis of qualifications," Wuerch says. "The issue is only who the people want to represent them."

Because of that, Wuerch says endorsements are not critical factors in the race. "I want the voter. The groups don't vote."

Like other candidates, Wuerch feels the only major problem facing the city is flooding. The large expenditure for flood control equipment purchased recently with federal revenue sharing funds was worthwhile, Wuerch believes. Other uses for revenue sharing he would recommend are the payment of outstanding bonds for the fire department and enlargement of the fire station.

ON FUNDING FOR the Northwest Opportunity Center, Wuerch said yesterday he has not made up his mind on approving the request. "I'm strictly looking at it as how many services they provide that we don't provide. I don't deny that they probably have a place in the community. But I want to go through the material they gave us and analyze it."

Wuerch says he is most concerned with duplication of services that might be occurring between the center and the city's welfare department. "If they could show no duplication of services, I would be in favor of some contribution, not necessarily the total amount ($2,001) requested."

A transportation system for the city is another revenue sharing use the city may have to consider in the future, Wuerch says. "Several years ago when I was on the water and transportation study committee, we found there was not that great a need for it. But I think as we get older as a community and as our residents get older, the need will become greater."

Financial assistance for the city park district is a matter that can only be considered when a specific money request is made of the city, Wuerch believes. "If the park district had a reasonable request, I as an alderman would listen. If it were a good request, we should consider it as we do for the school district and the library board. But I would want a reason why."

WUERCH DOES not think the city

Aldermanic elections in Rolling Meadows will be held next week. Five seats on the city council will be decided in Tuesday's contest.

Running for the 1st Ward seat are incumbent Ald. Merrill Wuerch and Mrs. Dean Wandersee. In the 2nd Ward, Ald. Thomas Waldron is running unopposed.

Following are interviews conducted with the 1st and 2nd Ward candidates conducted recently by the Herald.

could virtually take over the park district, but if a situation should arise where that might be necessary, he would not rule out annexation. "If a governing body can give people what they want at a certain tax rate, why should we take them over? But if they aren't doing things right, maybe we could consider it."

While he thinks there are no urgent matters to be taken care of by the city, Wuerch says revenue sharing can always be used to improve existing programs. "You can always improve on what you're doing. The main thing is giving the residents the best possible service for their tax dollars."

Future building in the city will probably take place on the western boundaries, he thinks. But while growth in the city is likely to be predominantly apartment construction, Wuerch says he hopes it can include a mix of single-family homes. "The plan commission is giving us a list of recommended zoning for lands outside the city. I'd rely on what the plan commission said for zoning."

With the price of land so high, single-family homes are not likely to be built in great numbers, but he thinks the city should not be forced into granting high density developments because of this.

Wuerch says he has changed his mind several times on the subject of pay raises for aldermen but now thinks the move might be in order. "I'm coming to the conclusion that what's good for the goose is good for the gander," he says. "If we give city employees a raise, why not the aldermen? We're subject to the same expenses as employees."

Mrs. Dean Wandersee

18-year resident only second woman in city history to try for council seat

Mrs. Dean Wandersee

One of the questions most frequently asked Mrs. Dean Wandersee during her campaign for Rolling Meadows' 1st Ward aldermanic seat is why she would want to get involved in the city's political arena.

"I had decided some months ago to run. For about five years I have been involved with the city (as a recording secretary at committee meetings and as a member of the zoning board of appeals.) I find it challenging and I take it seriously when I get a job."

Mrs. Wandersee, her husband and their four children have lived in Rolling Meadows for 18 years. In addition to her work with the city, Mrs. Wandersee is involved in Girl Scouting, having served on its council for ten years and as its community chairman for the past three years. Her husband, Vernon, has been a member of the city's police department for nine years.

Mrs. Wandersee is only the second woman in the city's history to seek the post of alderman and the response to her candidacy has so far been "very good," she says. "The first response is usually 'it's about time a woman got involved in this city.' One man said it makes sense that a woman run because she'd have more time to devote to it."

"I WON'T MAKE being a woman an issue, but I will point it out," she says. More important to her are a number of matters with which she feels the city should be dealing.

"There are some areas that have not been covered. Public relations is a little lax. After aldermen have been in office for a while, they forget the people they're serving."

One situation the city will have to face soon is the problem of the park district, Mrs. Wandersee says. "The first thing people want to talk about is the park district," she says. More cooperation between the city and the district to solve the multiple problems facing the district is needed, Mrs. Wandersee believes.

"The city and the district serve the same purpose, that is serving people. I think somewhere along the line they'll have to get together. It's ridiculous for these two governing bodies to be so far apart. I'm not in favor of the city taking control of the park district, but we could get together and work out some of these things."

On the uses of federal revenue-sharing funds, Mrs. Wandersee says expenditures for flood control are valid as long as city officials feel the purchase of flood control equipment will solve the problem.

CONTRIBUTING $2,000 to the Northwest Opportunity Center is another expenditure she favored. "To my satisfaction they have proven they have served citizens from Rolling Meadows." She added it might be to the city's benefit to give appropriated welfare money to the center, with the center then accounting to the city for the services it provides.

"I'm not sure the city should be in the business of welfare. The people I've talked to would favor the funding."

Other programs and projects she would work for include a limited mosquito abatement program for the city;

Seeking office for: Rolling Meadows alderman, 1st Ward, four-year term.

Incumbent: no

Address: 3612 Sigwalt.

Resident since: 1954.

Marital status: husband, Vernon; four children.

Occupation: Housewife.

Membership in civic and business groups: Girl Scouts, 10 years; Girl Scout community chairman, three years; Rolling Meadows Community Chest, board secretary, two years; delegate to national Girl Scout convention in 1972.

Public offices held: Rolling Meadows Zoning Board of Appeals, one year.

Mrs. Wandersee said she could not be sure how she would vote on a proposal to raise aldermanic salaries from $50 to $75 should that issue arise again. "I think of it not as salary but as a way to cover expenses in the job. I can't afford to spend a whole lot to be an alderman. If $100 per month is adequate and covers the expenses, I think it would be sufficient."

ON THE QUESTION of a transportation system for the city, Mrs. Wandersee says the city should study the proposal thoroughly before deciding to fund it. "If people won't use it, there is no sense in spending money for it. If the city is going to get involved in mass transit, it should take the time to research it."

Mrs. Wandersee feels suburban mass transit could be an area which would require joint cooperation between Rolling Meadows and neighboring towns. But joint ventures in many areas cannot always serve the best interests of the communities involved, she thinks.

If elected, she sees no conflict of interest problem arising because of her husband's position on the police department. "I realize that I will have to look at things overall. Being elected to an office is a new experience to me. I've talked to a lot of people. I've been encouraged all the way. We've been a part of Rolling Meadows for a long time, and I very much would like to win this election."

Thomas Waldron

'I like to stay independent,' three-term 2nd Ward incumbent insists

Thomas Waldron

What does a candidate who is running unopposed for office say to voters in a campaign? "I tell them to come out and make a showing," says Ald. Thomas Waldron (2nd), the senior member of the Rolling Meadows City Council.

Waldron is running for his fourth full term on the council in an uncontested race. But the veteran alderman still intends to visit every home in his ward to talk to residents.

"One thing you have to be careful of is a write-in vote, although winning on a write-in is very difficult when you're running against only one man," Waldron says.

Keeping national politics out of the city's affairs will again be Waldron's primary concern in the campaign he intends to wage. "I like to stay independent. I've seen in other cities how this (involvement in national politics) eventually hurts."

Waldron considers the lack of an opponent somewhat of a compliment from the residents and a sign that they approve of his council work.

"WHAT I'VE TRIED to do through the years is when someone calls me, I try to write or call to tell them what is going on in the city."

Though his campaign does not lend itself to a discussion of issues, Waldron will talk to residents about problems in the ward and city. "There are still pockets of flooding around Meadow and South St. When I first came here the area was still farm land. One of the tragedies was that they leveled the hills and made the land flat to put in soil drainage, which depends on the land not being disturbed. That is what is causing much of the problem."

The city is spending money to correct the flooding problem, he says, but there are other areas in which he would like to see the city work. "I would like to see a senior citizens housing complex for about 200 people."

Many people living in the city have elderly parents or relatives who would like to live in Rolling Meadows but cannot afford the high rents, he says. A federally-funded housing complex could help that situation, he thinks.

WALDRON WOULD also like to see the city devote efforts to helping train and hire semi-retarded young adults. "I don't think our chamber of commerce is doing enough to hire them. I haven't tried to get into that yet, but I would encourage the council to do this. We have so few problems in the city that I think we can get involved in things like this."

Assisting the Northwest Opportunity Center is another matter in which Waldron favors council support. "I think we should give money and I differ with the mayor on this. I can see the mayor's point (in opposing funding because of an agreement made seven years ago not to do so), but things have changed since then."

"I think people are being served on the fringes of the city, but I think we should fund it. I suppose it's a moral question and we should fund them no matter where they live."

"I think the mayor and the council are good-hearted people, but they don't want to be taken advantage of. If the need is proven, I think they will support it. I personally would like to see the center kept going even if they (the people served) are not from Rolling Meadows."

DAY CARE FOR children of working mothers and widows is another area in which the city should consider providing financial help, Waldron believes. "I think revenue sharing money could be used maybe for sharing the cost of a day care center."

An inner city transportation system would be a project Waldron would support, he says. "But every time we take a survey to see how many people would use a bus, we get a ridiculously low figure."

Waldron supports a pay increase for aldermen, but he does not think this should be made a campaign issue. "We're a lot different from trustees because there is more work involved with the city manager system. I think $75 per meeting isn't that unreasonable for two years from now, but I would not want this to become a political football."

Waldron's goal for the city is to get a golf course. But Waldron says he has no complaints about the growth he has watched in the city. "Very few people get the chance to see their dreams materialize. Every one of my dreams for the city, except the golf course, has materialized, and how many people can say that?"

Could have made difference in outcome

201 residents fail to vote for Township supervisor

by JERRY THOMAS

Two hundred and one voters who went to the polls in the April 3, Schaumburg Township election could have made a difference in the supervisor's race if they had decided to vote.

Vern Laubenstein, incumbent victor in the race won by only 84 votes, results of the official canvass showed.

There were 2,788 persons who came to the polls but only 2,434 indicated their preference for the top spot on the ballot. Another 153 ballots were declared spoiled by election judges because they were improperly marked.

Laubenstein received 1,259 votes and Dick English, his opponent, had 1,175. English said he can't understand how 201 voters would go to the polls and not choose a candidate for the top spot.

"I do not at this time challenge the vote but may reconsider this decision," he added.

"I don't know if I can accept the fact that people went to the polls and didn't vote for a top spot," said English.

English said poll watchers in precinct 39 report check marks for "yes" on ballots discarded by judges as defective. "In this precinct, 17 ballots were not counted because they were marked wrong and since the township has 40 precincts, it seems right that 153 could be marked wrong," he said.

"However, it's wrong that 153 people lost their vote because they didn't know how to mark a ballot correctly," he said. "But, it's the more than 200 votes not accounted for that bother me even more," said English.

Township Clerk Kay Wojcik, said it is not unusual for people to vote for some posts and not all. In a paper ballot election, there are usually many defective ballots, she added.

Michael Lavelle, election board attorney for the Cook County Clerk's office, said 153 spoiled ballots in a 40-precinct township is normal and slightly below what is usually expected.

Care advised in marking ballots

"As village and school board elections days approach, people need to be reminded what the correct way to mark a paper ballot is," said Dick English, who lost election to the Schaumburg Township Supervisors office by 84 votes.

English urged voters to acquaint themselves with the ballot before election day.

"When a voter takes the bother to go to the polling place and then loses his vote because he writes yes or places a check mark after his candidates name instead of an X, it's bad for him and for the candidate of his choice."

"I urge all voters to find out the correct way to mark a ballot and make their village and school board vote, which will both be counted on paper ballots, a vote that counts," said English.

THESE MARKS WILL BE COUNTED

THESE MARKS WILL NOT BE COUNTED

MANY AN ELECTION has been won or lost on the validity of the ballot marking. In the recent Schaumburg Township election, 153 votes were spoiled and not counted in an election that reelected the incumbent supervisor by 84 votes. This chart shows what marks on a paper ballot will or won't be counted by election judges.

Candidate seeks review of building department

An official review of Schaumburg's building department has been requested by Independent trustee candidate Suzanne P. Popp.

In a prepared release, Mrs. Popp pointed to anticipated income of approximately $800,000 through issuance of building permits this year. The candidate claims these funds will go into the general revenue fund and explained that her figures include new construction as well as additions and conversions on residential and commercial property. She said permits required for fences, air conditioners, and water softeners are included in her total.

"Every new home in the village has approximately $800 in permits on it, before construction begins," she continued. Vince Carsello, Schaumburg United Party campaign co-manager called the charge "radical and irresponsible."

AN ORDINANCE, obtainable for 30 cents, shows the largest house in Schaumburg carries permits fees totaling $600, he added.

Mrs. Popp also questioned actual inspection "since many residents throughout the village have had to organize grievance committees to approach the builders as well as the village on plumbing, electrical, structural and landscaping problems."

She thinks permit money is being disbursed from the general revenue fund to other areas of village operation "rather than first providing services to the source of income."

The candidate noted that in 1973, the building department provided $87,115 for one building commissioner and assistant commissioner, three building inspectors, two plumbing inspectors, two electrical inspectors, a plans examiner and a secretary and clerk typist.

"THIS 12-MEMBER department is serving Schaumburg — the first village to have more new construction than the city of Chicago with its 300-plus building department personnel," she said.

Citing "actual budget expenses for the department during 1971 as $71,715," she said, "this includes salaries for four men, one secretary and a clerk-typist."

Mrs. Popp thinks the building department was inadequate at the time Woodfield Mall was constructed and during the residential building by six developers within the Village. This is why so many residents are noting problems now," she believes.

Comparing the building department budget with bids for civic-cultural center furnishings and accessories totaling $70,157.20, Mrs. Popp questioned "this type of budgeting being for the welfare of the people," of Schaumburg.

"Is it more important to have a first class civic-cultural center now or to have first class construction in the village," she asked.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it . . .

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

I find it hard to believe, but reliable sources say the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township was opposed to salary increases for township officials.

Isn't that reminiscent of Hoffman Estates trustee's attitudes when the mayor of that village proposed boosting some salaries?

Anyway, there is supposed to be "bad blood" between some high level ROOST-ERS and township officials which, to me seem humorous because in many cases they are one and the same.

More on salaries. . . a Hoffman Estates trustee Dyrle Rathman has had a change of heart and thinks trustees and the mayor could use more of a raise than the newly elected officials will be receiving.

In fact, he doesn't think it will be a bad idea to start thinking about a full time mayor and trustees. Strange how people's opinions can change in six months or so isn't it?

Still on salaries. . . if flying Bill Stukas is elected to a trustee post in Hoffman Estates he will take a pay cut. The Civic Party candidate currently serves as village prosecutor which pays a smidge more than trustee.

IS SCHAUMBURG'S legal eagle Jack Siegel purposely dragging his feet in producing an opinion on a federal aviation administration application for funding? Also waiting action is the contract with consultants who will perform an airport feasibility study.

Odds favor Siegel's opinion not arriving before April 18, at the earliest.

Watch, too, for another resignation on the airport study committee. Vacancy on the committee is nothing new, since over the past year there has been at least a 75 percent membership turnover.

But, it doesn't seem to make much difference because nothing is happening anyway. For all I know the study could have been called off.

EXPECTING A blaze? Persons attending the Civic Party dance Saturday at Golden Acres feel really protected in the event of a fire.

Who wouldn't, with at least six Hoffman Estates firemen present?

SPRING APRIL birthday wishes to Tom Downey and Brad Gerlach who celebrated teen birthdays last weekend and to Hoffman Estates Trustee Ed Hennessy who looks forward to his on the 14th.

Well wishes too are in order for Mike Redmond of Hoffman Estates who was hospitalized at work recently. Mike is an administrator at Chicago's Weiss Memorial Hospital.

PTA notes

THE ARMSTRONG PTA is accepting ticket reservations now for a Family Circus Night planned at the school Friday. Tickets for 6 and 8 p.m. performances of the Borger Brothers Circus may be obtained now at the school, 155 N. Kingsdale.

Community band organizational meeting slated

Seventy-six trombones, assorted drums and other instruments are being sought by the Hoffman Estates Park District.

The instruments and their owners are invited to the organizational meeting for the Hoffman Estates Community Band.

Al Binder, park district director, said the band is being formed to give adults with musical interest an opportunity to perform together.

The meeting will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Helen Keller Junior High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Binder said the group will be directed by John Flaminio, Schaumburg Township Elementary School Dist. 54 director of bands.

THE BAND will perform at civic events and for community organizations, Binder said. He cited the annual Fourth of July celebration as a likely occasion where the band would play.

The band is open to musicians of all levels of ability, he said.

"Often people who have not played since high school or college feel unqualified for this type of program, but everyone is welcome," Binder said.

He added the music will be adapted to all levels of musicians.

Definite rehearsal plans have not been made as yet.

Binder said in order to get the community band program under way, all interested persons should attend the meeting Thursday.

Chamber to hear postal officials

The postal system will be discussed at tomorrow's breakfast meeting of the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

The meeting will be held at 8 a.m. in the Captain's Cove Restaurant, Roselle and Higgins roads, Hoffman Estates. Guests representing the U.S. Postal Service will be: W. Skibbe, officer in charge of Roselle, Schaumburg, and Hoffman Estates; Stan Rakowski and Ed Samborski, customer service representatives for the Northwest suburban area; and Mitchell Wisniewski, acting supervisor, Hoffman Estates branch.

The chamber also announced the May luncheon has been changed to Monday, May 21, at 12 noon at the Captain's Cove.

TV's Ned Locke to appear here

Chicago television personality Ned Locke will appear at 3 p.m., May 6 at the Lancer Steak House, Algonquin and Meacham roads, Schaumburg, in benefit performances for Twinbrook YMCA.

Locke has been a television writer, producer, commentator, weatherman, announcer and actor, but he is best known as "Uncle Ned," the ringmaster of WGN-TV's "Bozo's Circus." Since joining WGN in 1968, Locke has also been featured on programs such as "Lunchtime Little Theater," "The Clubhouse" and "Paddleboat."

As Robert C. Williams, executive director of the Twinbrook YMCA said, "This will be a great opportunity for the children of this area to see Uncle Ned, Cookie the Clown, and several great circus acts now, without having to wait several years for tickets to Bozo's Circus."

All proceeds will be used for the Y's youth program. Ticket donations for the circus are $1.25 each and children must be accompanied by an adult. Tickets or more information may be obtained by calling the Y-Office at 882-7250 or call 529-3614 or 894-4121.

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

Estimate damage at $20,000 in Sunday home fire

Fire officials estimated that more than $20,000 damage was caused by a blaze Sunday at the home of Mathew Louro at 297 Jefferson St., Hoffman Estates.

Hoffman Estate Deputy Fire Chief Edward Kalasa said yesterday the fire apparently started while several youngsters were pouring gasoline from a motorcycle tank into another container.

He said fumes from the gasoline came in contact with the pilot light from the furnace and ignited.

The fire spread when the youngsters attempted to kick the burning container outside the house, Kalasa said, adding the young people attempted to put the fire out themselves, but were not successful.

"Because of these delays, the fire was pretty well along before we were notified." When the first units arrived on the scene, flames were shooting out of the house from the first and second floor, he added.

Kalasa said the kitchen and the family room were gutted and the remainder of the house received heavy smoke and heat damage.

"The heat was so intense in some areas that a television set was melted," he added.

Apology sent to family

Elrod denies rap in death notice

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 828 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in an apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include:

supplemental food programs for pre- and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jackson hits Aigner for sprinkler opposition

Schaumburg Independent Helen Jackson continues to insist that her opponent Trustee Herbert Aigner has provided no satisfactory reason for his alleged opposition to sprinkler systems and fire walls in apartment buildings.

In the April 17 village election, Mrs. Jackson seeks election to a four-year trustee term. Aigner is running for a four-year term on the Schaumburg United Party ticket.

"If he's waiting for the experts, he may have a long wait," Mrs. Jackson said in a prepared news statement this week. "Evidently we would not be the first but the last community to move along with safety standards only when they are required by law and after the fact of a great number of tragedies," she said.

Mrs. Jackson believes Schaumburg "is a progressive community," that should show leadership when it comes to safety standards.

"This is only one of many questions regarding the safety of Schaumburg residents that goes unanswered," she continued, and listed lack of a safety wall around a detention pond to be built at Weathersfield Way and Braintree and lack of required fencing and other safety measures for backyard swimming pools.

Court orders issued before audience

New legal battle rages in hot village election

The Mount Prospect village election became a court issue again last night as Mayor Robert Teichert and three village trustees were served court summonses in the midst of a candidates debate. In a dramatic move, two court bailiffs entered the candidates' forum at Old Orchard Country Club to serve the summonses.

The summonses, were signed by independent mayoral candidate Michael Minton yesterday afternoon. Each candidate received two citations. The first asks an injunction be issued to stop the village trustees from acting as a "truth squad."

The second complaint takes back into court the issues of the village ballot. Minton filed a suit last month to get the ballots changed, because he contended the ballots were slanted in favor of Teichert and members of the Village Party.

That issue was resolved, with new ballots printed, after Circuit Judge Harry Comerford suggested the matter be settled without a court order. He did say at that time that the ballots appeared to be legal but were confusing and should be changed, since there was adequate time to do so.

Minton said he refiled the suit because of alleged misstatements by Teichert and the Village Clerk, Donald Goodman, as to what was said in court.

In the complaint asking for the injunction, Minton alleges he is being denied his "constitutional rights to free and open election" by the "truth squad," which has been in operation since Thursday.

The suit further alleges that the trustees, acting as the squad, subjected persons to "intimidation and harassment" by threats and harassment, ultimately to the removal of campaign signs from the windows of certain citizens.

The suit states that a "state of fear" has been created among residents and Minton's workers and supporters, "with a motive to suppress and stifle" Minton's campaign and to "conceal his political views and messages from the citizens of Mount Prospect."

In a statement explaining the operation of the squad, Village Party candidates said residents should hold Minton's campaign literature, get names and addresses of persons handing it out, and notify the "truth squad."

Minton refuses to divulge any details of the alleged incident referred to in the complaint. He said he did this on the advice of U. S. Atty. James Thompson, whom he said he spoke to yesterday.

Candidates who received summonses at the meeting were board members Bud Richardson, Patrick Link and Donald Furst. Trustees George Anderson, Kenneth Schelten and Daniel Ahern, who are not up for re-election, are also named in the suit.

More than 400 residents watched as the Chamber of Commerce candidates forum was interrupted by the serving of the summonses. Minton said he had asked that the citations NOT be served during the program.

Teichert said he welcomed the opportunity to testify at Wednesday's court hearing.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Village officials to oppose sales tax bill

Mount Prospect officials will testify in Springfield this afternoon against a proposed bill that could take away $374,750.27 from the village's sales tax receipts.

The hearing on House Bill 552, proposed by State Rep. Giddy Dyer, R-Hinsdale, is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. before the Cities and Villages Committee. Mayor Robert D. Teichert and Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley will attend the hearing to speak against the bill.

Under Mrs. Dyer's proposal, only 20 per cent of each penny of sales tax now going to the municipality in which the tax is paid will continue to be given to that community. The other 80 per cent of that penny will go to the counties for distribution to all municipalities on a population basis. Currently, one cent of every nickel collected in sales tax goes to the originating community.

According to figures released by the Illinois Municipal League, Mount Prospect would lose 25.28 per cent of its $1,107,799.05 share of sales tax monies. These figures are based on the year from July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1972 and were prepared under the direction of the Illinois House of Representatives' staff.

"TO US (THE LAW) would be crippling," Eppley said yesterday. He said both he and Teichert will stress the additional costs in services that the community has to bear because of the location of Randhurst and Mount Prospect Plaza shopping centers in the community.

"Our big pitch is the fact that we maintain many services for Randhurst. We even enforce our traffic laws there through a contract," Eppley said.

Eppley added that he has heard of a proposal to change the 20/80 per cent figure to a 50/50 per cent. The Illinois Municipal League figures show that even under this plan, Mount Prospect would lose $234,218.92, or 15.8 per cent.

Eppley said that of all the northwest suburban communities, only Palatine, Hoffman Estates and Buffalo Grove would gain funds through Mrs. Dyer's bill. The remainder would lose money.

Last month the Mount Prospect village board passed a resolution empowering Teichert to represent the board at the hearings.

Minton raps 'truth squad' for intimidation of voters

Michael Minton, candidate for Mount Prospect mayor, yesterday attacked the village board's "truth squad" as an attempt to intimidate voters.

"They (the board members) have intimidated and defamed residents of Mount Prospect by organizing what they term a 'truth squad,' but whose truth and who's telling the truth?" Minton said in a statement.

"Will this same 'truth squad' begin censoring all the reading material in our homes, or our school rooms, or that black-bound volume on the bestseller list over 1973 years — in the name of truth?" (He was referring to the Bible.)

All six village trustees, including three who are not seeking reelection this year, formed their "truth" group last Thursday, when they announced they would go door-to-door to refute what they called falsehoods contained in Minton's campaign literature.

In a statement primarily drawn up by Patrick J. Link, the trustees said, "Our community is being engulfed in a well-organized and heavily funded campaign directed against the mayor's office. The town is being flooded with material containing statements that are not only inaccurate but absolutely false."

THE TRUSTEES asked residents to get the names and addresses of anyone passing out literature and to call any village official if they have questions regarding the accuracy of any statement in the literature.

"To even suggest," Minton said, "that our literature not be read after one of my campaign workers has left it at a home before the police examine it is harassment, an open threat in its most paranoid level. We must allow the voters, the taxpayers who pay the bills, to decide what is the truth."

He accused the Village Party, which Mayor Robert D. Teichert heads and to which three of the trustees belong, of "clouding the issues."

Minton said he would have an independent lie detector agency "question me as to the sources of my campaign funds and the amount of money I have spent to date on this campaign."

He again asked Teichert, who is seeking a second term, to sign a fair campaign pledge and to disclose his income and assets. Minton has signed the pledge and has revealed his income and assets for last year. Teichert has said he would release his income figures for the past four years, but has yet to do so.

Teichert also issued a list of challenges to Minton last week, which Minton has yet to answer.

The election is a week from today. Albert Motsch is the third mayoral candidate.

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, snapping back at a butchers' union leader who urged President Nixon to fire him, charged that restrictive labor practices are part of the reason for high meat prices.

A leader of the American Indian Movement threatened that militant Indians would defend Wounded Knee, S.D., "with force of arms and loaded guns" if he could not meet immediately with White House officials.

The Democratic National Committee has asked for a federal court order granting it access to vital government documents on the Watergate bugging case — including the secret White House investigation of the affair.

Anthony Russo cried on the witness stand at the Pentagon Papers trial as he told the jury how deeply he came to feel for the people America was fighting in Vietnam. Russo is charged along with Daniel Ellsberg with espionage, theft of government documents and conspiracy.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., one of the Senate's leading anti-pollution advocates, predicted the Environmental Protection Agency would postpone the 1975 deadline on auto pollution standards.

President Nixon asked Congress for $361 million in additional budget authority for the current fiscal year, including $16.2 million to pay the claims of the prisoners of war.

A plan to create a six-county mass transit system for Cook, Lake, Kane, DuPage, Will and McHenry counties was introduced yesterday in the Illinois House.

The search is continuing for cans of mushrooms, possibly contaminated with botulism, sold inadvertently in commissaries at Great Lakes Naval Base, and at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul.

Israeli paratroopers and naval commandos attacking by sea, struck at four Arab guerrilla bases inside neighboring Lebanon, the Israeli military command said. Arab guerrilla sources in Beirut said the attacking Israelis killed two Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Three supply ships steamed up the Mekong River, through a barrage of Communist shore fire, attempting to reach the isolated Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Two more helicopters flying cease-fire control missions in South Vietnam were fired upon, and one was reported to have been destroyed. There were no casualties.

Preschoolers will have a special treat this week at the Mount Prospect Public Library. Extra story hours have been planned for today, tomorrow, and Friday at 10 a.m.

Dolly Miller, children's librarian, will show a story filmstrip in addition to reading stories each day. This is part of the library's observance of National Library Week. In the display case you'll also see pictures and stories about the library — past and present.

WHEN ANSEL and Evelyn Rahn, 116 S. George St., planned this year's vacation, they didn't have to choose between the mountains and the seashore. Their recent trip to Guatemala included both. It also included a visit with friends in Guatemala City.

"It was like taking a trip into another world," reported Evelyn.

SELECTIONS FROM "Godspell" will be presented tomorrow evening at St. Mark Lutheran Church by the Prospect High School Choir. This is one in a series of special Lenten services. Speaker will be Pastor Barry Johnson, executive director of Euriskon.

Euriskon is part of Key 73, this year's nationwide Christian evangelistic program. Families throughout the area have been invited to take part in this week's Euriskon program at St. Mark's. Running each evening through Friday, it includes family worship and fellowship activities.

SEAMAN APPRENTICE Jeffery Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Valentine of 620 S. Albert St., has completed his training in San Diego, Calif. He has reported for duty as radioman on the U.S.S. Cook Destroyer in Long Beach, Calif.

IT'S FUN to read about an ordinary person who suddenly skyrockets to success. Take Marilyn Durham, the 42-year-old Indiana housewife who decided to try writing a novel.

Her first attempt, "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," was selected as a Book-of-the-Month Club alternate. It has also brought her $100,000 for film and paperback rights.

The unusual thing about it is that she never took a writing course or tried any other writing for publication.

All of us who secretly feel we could write a great book may not achieve her success. However, many local writers and would-be writers are finding inspiration and helpful instruction at a weekly group called Off Campus Writers Workshop.

Each Thursday morning at 9:30, women from the north and northwest suburbs gather at the Winnetka Community House for manuscript criticism and professional instruction in writing.

This year's instructors have included Dr. Allan Bates, an instructor at Northwestern Illinois University, on fiction and drama; Bard Lindeman, editor of "Today's Health," on articles and non-fiction; Marcia Lee Masters, poetry editor of the "Chicago Tribune Magazine," on poetry; Richard Frisbie, editor of "Chicago Magazine," on articles and non-fiction; Wade Franklin, travel editor of the "Chicago Sun-Times," on travel writing; and Alice Cromie, writer for the "Chicago Tribune Book World," on juvenile writing and mysteries.

I discovered Off-Campus Writers Workshop two springs ago through a small notice in the Herald. The instructor for that week was Elisa Bialk, a well-known children's author.

Beginning April 19, Miss Bialk will again be leading a four-session series on writing for young people. These meetings are open, at a small fee, to anyone.

One of the exciting things about this group is hearing a story or article in rough manuscript form, then later hearing it has been accepted for publication. Two successful writer-members were honored at an autograph party following last week's meeting. Stella Pevsner of Palatine just had her third book published: "Call Me Heller, That's My Name." Berniece Rabe of Elgin was autographing copies of her new book, "Rass."

Stella's first book, "Break a Leg," was originally a manuscript done for a class session on juvenile writing. Now she is too busy writing to attend regularly.

If this sort of thing appeals to you, drop in at Off Campus Writers Workshop some Thursday morning. The Winnetka Community House is at 620 Lincoln Ave. Rita Turow, president of the group, will be happy to answer any questions about it if you call her at HI-6-3233.

ANN AND BONNIE Will were among several persons who browsed through the book section at the Mount Prospect Public Library during Saturday's book sale. The sale, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club, netted $272.95 for the library. The sale coincided with the start of National Library Week.

Ground broken for church addition

Cumberland Baptist Church, 1500 E. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, had groundbreaking ceremonies Sunday for a new $325,000 sanctuary addition.

The contemporary-designed sanctuary will seat 500. Completion is scheduled for December.

Pastor Robert Hails said two services are conducted each Sunday now because of overcrowding. The present building was constructed in 1961. Several village and neighboring church officials attended the ceremonies following regular services.

Funds for the addition are being raised by the sale of general obligation bonds to church and community members. Harold Lutz and Associates designed the structure.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs.

Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre- and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchhoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Planners deny 'mayoral control'

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission has denied a charge by mayoral candidate Michael Minton that the commission is controlled by Mayor Robert Teichert.

In a press release dated March 22, Minton said, "He (Teichert) can and will commit any high-rise and multi-developments he chooses while he controls the zoning commissions and village's unlimited building codes. I want to change this, clamp down on building permits and restore authority to the zoning commission."

All nine members of the plan commission signed a statement that quoted Minton's remarks and added, "The undersigned individually and collectively deny being under the control of Mayor Robert Teichert specifically, and/or any of the trustees."

In a final paragraph the commissioners said, "The minutes of all our meetings are a matter of public record and speak for themselves."

Signatures are by chairman Malcolm Young, J. C. Busenhardt, Eugene Bradtko, Robert Bennett, Marie L. Caylor, James Grier Jr., Harold Ross, Robert McBride and Lynn Kloster.

The plan commission members said they first learned of the statement in the press release when it was handed out at the Chamber of Commerce candidates' night April 2.

School superintendent hearings now at hotel

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board has changed the location of its superintendent candidate interviews from the Arlington Park Towers Carousel Restaurant to the School district's administration building.

Originally, the entire board had planned to interview candidates for superintendent at four dinner and two luncheon meetings at the restaurant. According to prices quoted by the Carousel, the total cost for all the dinners could have ranged anywhere from $140 to $332.

Last week, board member Peter Dudrow, who is in charge of the search for a new superintendent, said the board decided to move the location of the interviews because the Carousel did not have a private room available for the meeting.

At that time, he refused to reveal the new location because he said he didn't want to prejudice the current employment of any candidate who might be applying for the superintendent post.

The meetings are closed to the public because they are for the purposes of discussing personnel.

When asked if a memo from the administration office stating the new location and times of the meetings meant the board had decided to call off the dinner portion of the interviews, Dudrow would only say, "It means what it says. We plan a meeting, a closed meeting, at 7 p.m."

Village board to meet on 1973-74 budget

The Mount Prospect Village Board will meet in special session April 19 to tentatively approve the $6.6 million 1973-74 village budget.

An April 24 meeting had originally been set up, but according to Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, a meeting on that date would not permit the budget to be on public display for 10 days, as required by law. Under the budget system that Mount Prospect adopted last year, the budget must take effect May 1 and be on display for 10 days prior to that date.

Final approval of the budget will take place May 1 at the regularly scheduled board meeting. The final village board public hearing will be at 8 p.m. tonight at the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Northbrook resident faces check counts

A Northbrook man has been charged with deceptive practice after he allegedly cheated the Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect, out of $90 last December.

Police said Frederick G. Zielke, 31, was arrested Friday. He allegedly cashed bad checks at the motel on December 1 and 2, 1972. The checks were returned, marked "accounts closed."

Zielke surrendered himself on a warrant issued Feb. 2. He is to appear April 27 in Mount Prospect Court.

Data system to take over water billing

The Village of Arlington Heights will transfer water billing to the Northwest Municipal Data System next month, thus becoming the first of four communities to use the new computer service.

Mount Prospect, Park Ridge and Des Plaines will follow Arlington Heights in use of the National Cash Register (NCR) computer. Water billing for all four municipalities will be computerized by the end of October.

Payroll programs for the cities will be computerized by January, 1974.

The four municipalities are sharing the $24,000 yearly rental of the new computer located in Mount Prospect.

The computer billing is designed to save time and money according to Arlington Heights Finance Director Kenneth Bonder.

Silver dollars stolen

Canadian and American silver dollars totaling $115 were taken last week during a daytime burglary at the home of John P. Jones, 1113 Brentwood Ln., Mount Prospect.

Police said two portable radios and two watches, total value $360, were also taken. Entry was apparently gained when a basement window was knocked out. Jones was away from home from 8 a.m. to 10:15 p.m., police said.

Meet your Dist. 26 school board candidates

William Haase

William Haase

William Haase, 35, is a hard man to pin down. But only when he doesn't have all the facts.

Appointed to the River Trails Dist. 26 board last year, Haase is now running for his first full term on the school board. A CPA, he doesn't believe in making hasty decisions. As he says, "the primary job of a school board member is to bring as much knowledge to the board as possible in order to make intelligent decisions."

Because of his concern for research and planning, Haase has spent a great deal of his time in the last year gathering facts and information on board business. Most significant among his contributions last year was the idea to institute a financial forecast so the board could tackle the budget with a little more foresight than just a few months ahead.

One of the reasons he is running for another term on the board, he said, is to continue to put these plans into effect.

"My first area of interest is to develop comprehensive plans both for the coming year and the future, total plans so we have a sense of timing and direction," he said.

SOMEWHAT THE financial expert on the board, he is well aware of the financial problems Dist. 26 is facing in the coming year. At a recent board meeting he reported that, based on financial predictions, the district would have little or no money left in the building or education funds next year if the present level of spending continued. He recommended a review of the budget to see if significant cuts could be made.

Where those cuts can be made, he says, depends a great deal on what kind of cuts are necessary.

In the non-personnel area, better than half the cost are fixed and required. If you're only looking to cut about $9,000, you could probably do it through cuts in non-personnel items. If you're trying to cut between $90,000 and $100,000, there's no practical ways to achieve that in a non-personnel way."

DESPITE ALL THE recent talk about the possible financial advantages of unit districts, Haase said he is not sure whether consolidation would help Dist. 26 much. "With all the conversations, we haven't had a specific plan presented to us on how it would affect us," he said. "I think there are some people being short-sighted, looking on the unit district as a financial panacea. Twenty-four months from now we may be dealing with a totally different form of financing."

Outside of planning in the financial area, Haase said he is also concerned about increased evaluation of the district's staff and the development of increased rapport with the teachers.

"The staff is working much more effectively now than at the beginning of the year," he said. Supt. Tom Warden "has gotten a much greater sense of public relations."

Despite the dissatisfaction of some Voters will elect three school board members Saturday in River Trails Dist. 26. There are four candidates seeking two three-year terms and two candidates seeking one one-year term. Running for the three-year terms are incumbents William Haase and Michael Sheyker, both endorsed by the Dist. 26 General Caucus, and independents Rhetta Baum and Dr. Alexander Ronnett. Competing for the one-year term are incumbent Sylvia Lurie and caucus backed-candidate Robert Blomquist.

school board candidates with Warden, he said he feels Warden is "a strong educational leader."

"HE'S BEEN HERE less than two years and already he's accomplished a good deal. He encouraged the MALT program at Bond and he's had the guts to make SRA results available to parents."

In the area of teacher rapport, he said he thought the board had taken "some big steps" toward improved relationships. The best demonstration of this increased rapport, he said, was the recent quick settlement of the 1973-74 teacher contract. "The board has shown that we're interested in being fair," he said.

Here are his views on other school issues:

—Bond School Program: "I can't evaluate whether it's increased achievement," but I'd say if the Bond program accomplishes no higher level of achievement of the other programs but instills a love of learning, I think the program will have proved itself worthwhile."

For three-year term: independent

Rhetta Baum

Rhetta Baum

Rhetta Baum, 33, thinks a school board has a responsibility to inform residents about what it plans to do before it makes any changes in a school district. "You don't just push something through and then put your fingers in your ears and wait for the cannon," she says.

Running for one of the two three-year terms on the River Trails Dist. 26 school board, Mrs. Baum doesn't think the Dist. 26 board has done all it should to inform parents about changes. "I think it's been improved by the Marker (the school bulletin) coming out, but it's informing people about what is in progress, too, that's important. A good example is the recent problem at Park View," she said.

A resident of the district for four years, Mrs. Baum has two daughters who attend Feehanville School. Because of this, Feehanville is one of her main concerns as a candidate.

"I DON'T THINK things are as smooth as they should be at Feehanville," she said. "It has to do with the way the whole school is being run. I think it's because of the changeover in principals. I've given him (Principal Arthur Adelberg), every chance I've talked with him. But in speaking with the teachers, I've found that they don't respect him. He's trying to please, but I don't think he's the man for the job."

She is also concerned about the schools in general. "Some of the schools feel they're being cheated," she said. "I'd like to find out what's bothering the schools, to try to iron out any problems. I don't know that much about the budget now but I think there are different funds they (the board) could find the money in for what they need."

She said she is not happy with the district's administration. "I think the administration has some good ideas, but I also think Supt. (Thomas) Warden is trying to ram programs down the throats of the people. Mr. Warden is thinking progressively. But I think he has to realize the area he's in. I say he missed the boat because he doesn't know how to get across to people."

She said she doesn't know enough about Warden to judge whether he should resign (as one other candidate has suggested). But if he did resign, "I don't think I'd cry over it," she said.

Here are her views on other school issues:

—Declining Enrollment: "If anything, it should improve things. Class size should go down, which means they won't be so crowded. I think they can always find a use for the rooms as music or art rooms, for example."

School Finances: "I don't think we need a referendum. Our taxes have gone up every year since we moved in. And the prices of the homes are going up."

Teacher's In-Service Program: "I think the program needs revision. I'd like to see more discussion on what we don't like about the program. I feel the teachers are getting more out of it than our children are losing in education."

—Moving the Sixth Grade to the junior highs: "I'm against it. Emotionally, most of the mothers say the girls are too boy-crazy already and I don't want to push them into something over there. If they were moved, their privileges as sixth graders would be taken away. Also, I think there's a big difference between seventh and eighth graders and sixth graders — all being together and competing in sports and social action. I don't think it would be fair to the sixth graders."

—Individualized Instruction: "I think they should do it in all the schools. It has to be a help to the children. The trouble is it may especially help the fast and slow students. But I think it's definitely a good system."

For one-year term:

Sylvia Lurie

Sylvia Lurie

River Trails Dist. 26 is changing. Incumbent Sylvia Lurie wants to continue to have a say in that change.

"I think the district is in a difficult period, a period of educational change. The board spent most of its previous years building schools. Now we're looking to modernizing the education," said Mrs. Lurie, 34, appointed to the board last June.

"A board member plays an important role in the change. A board member has to help the administration understand what the public wants and, in turn, help the community understand what is happening," she said.

Mrs. Lurie, who is not afraid to speak her mind, feels she can fulfill that obligation. She believes she's done "a good job" in the past on the board. Although she is somewhat disgruntled about not receiving caucus endorsement, it has only made her work harder to try to beat her opponent, she says.

"I think a board member's job is to evaluate and interpret what the administration is doing and to bring outside criticism in. I think I'm involved in the community and can do that," said Mrs. Lurie. "You can't count heads in the community every time we take a vote. But we do have to talk to our constituents and find out where they are on issues."

A MAJOR ISSUE in Dist. 26 this year is money. The finance committee has predicted that if spending continues at the current rate the district won't have any funds left in its budget.

"The money situation is unpredictable because we don't know what the state is going to do about financing," Mrs. Lurie said. "I know we cannot look to increase taxes and I can't see cutting any in the building fund. Staff cuts are obviously the first answer to the problem and I would hope they'd be staff cuts through attrition. I would hope we could use more volunteers, para-professionals and team-teaching in the schools. That way we could save some money."

Mrs. Lurie also believes that the state should pick up a larger percentage of the cost of education. "The public has to pressure our legislators to respond," she said. "Real estate just can't cover it."

Mother of one, Mrs. Lurie serves on the Dist. 26 bargaining team and is the board representative to the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB). She lives at 122 Bonnie Brae in the Forest River subdivision. She has attended Roosevelt University in Chicago and Columbia University and City College of New York. She has a bachelor's degree in history.

Here are her views on other school issues:

—Administration: "I'm more satisfied with the administration now than when I came on the board. Then the superintendent did not have much experience and I think he made mistakes based on inexperience. I think the board now has a much better relationship with the superintendent than before."

—Unit districts: "I can't judge without specific plans for such a district. I would like to look at all alternatives. If Dist. 59 forms a unit, I can see where it will hurt Dist. 214. But 214 should have reacted to the possibility a lot quicker and come up with a constructive alternative."

—In-service time for teachers: "We have been talking about the need for accountability and upgrading our teaching staff. We have to put action where our mouths have been. It's giving teachers time to do jobs better."

—Declining enrollment in the district: "If we didn't have declining funds to go along with it, it would be great. It is conceivable we could rent out space in the schools. I hope we would not be involved in closing schools."

For three-year term: Caucus

Michael Sheyker

Michael Sheyker

"District 26 is changing from a developing school district to one with problems in administration and finances," says Michael Sheyker, incumbent Dist. 26 board member. Because of this, Sheyker said, it will be these two problems that will be of most concern to him if he wins another seat on the school board.

Appointed to the board last year, Sheyker, 34, is running for one of two three-year school board posts. The president of Metropolitan Key Punch Service, Inc., with a bachelor's degree in accounting, he has some definite opinions on the district's problems and its plans for future development.

One of his special interests on the board in the next year, he said, would be the development of the district's educational staff. One of the best ways to encourage his development, he feels, is by rotating teachers and principals from one building to another. "This would give them the exposure to different schools and different buildings," he said.

"For instance, the principal at Indian Grove has attacked certain problems and he probably has a viable solution to some of them now. By moving him to Euclid School next year, he might be able to solve the same problem there."

HE SAID HE feels that the present teachers' in-service program is a worthwhile idea. "However, the program is only as good as it's used. It's a little early yet to make a judgment on its benefit. I'd like to see the program continue on a temporary basis."

Though several school board candidates have expressed unhappiness with Supt. Tom Warden, Sheyker disagrees. "He's taken a district that was sort of set in its ways educationally and changed it. But I think because he's so strong in education it tends to bring up his administrative weaknesses in doing such things as timely reports or writing letters."

He said he thinks Warden is working much better with his staff now. "I'd say the crisis is passed. He's become more knowledgeable of his staff and his staff is more knowledgeable of him."

IN THE AREA of finances, Sheyker also has some ideas. "One thing I would like to have the board take the financial statements and print them once a month so that everyone can understand them," he said. (At present, board members receive only quarterly financial reports.)

He said he doesn't think the district will need a referendum to raise money in the near future. "I would only anticipate the need for borrowing for life safety code work," he said. "And this we can do without a referendum."

"I think what we're really saying is we have to be more careful with how we're spending our money," he said. "We

Dr. Alexander Ronnett

Alexander Ronnett

Dr. Alexander Ronnett is a man from the old school. He believes in educational methods that have been proven and refuses to believe in those that have not.

Ronnett, who is running for one of two three-year terms on the River Trails Dist. 26 school board, says that Supt. Thomas Warden has made a "hobby" of introducing new, unproven educational methods such as the open school into Dist. 26 schools.

"He has a lot of programs going on," Ronnett said of Warden. What the Superintendent should do, he said, is "concentrate and re-evaluate the old fashioned teaching system we had before. There was a much better effort to educate then," he said.

A physician with both M.D. and a D.D.S. degree, Ronnett said that he has made a comparative study of the achievement of students now in high school and college who attended Dist. 26 schools prior to the time that the new programs were introduced. "The comparative statistics show that they had much better preparation to compete," he said.

He is against the new methods because he feels they cheat the children in the district. "It hasn't been tested yet," he explained. Also, he said, the new programs are not accepted at higher levels of education.

HE SAYS HIS primary interest in running for the school board is to "preserve the high standard of education for which the district had been known and to improve the relationship between parents, teaching staff the board and the administration."

One of the first things he plans to do as a board member is replace Warden and his administrative assistant with "more competent individuals." But he hopes that after the new board is elected "Warden would be gracious enough to resign."

He said he has nothing against Warden personally. But, "I think he puts too many personal things into the job," he said.

He resents Warden and the board holding closed door sessions last year in the transfer of Bea Amundson as principal of haven't as a board yet reviewed the administrative expenditures. I'm really talking about nickels and dimes, add up."

The last thing the school board ought to do to balance the budget is cut back on teachers or programs, he says. "But if cuts are necessary, they should be made in borderline programs," Sheyker said. Money could also be saved by not replacing some teachers who leave the district.

In reference to decreasing enrollment, he said he doesn't think the loss in student population will be significant.

Here are his views on other school issues:

—UNIT DISTRICT: "I could see some real benefits from a unit district, but not along the line Dist. 59 is thinking of. I would rather see it on more of a town or village aspect than spread out over several towns."

—EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM: "I'd like to see further emphasis on individualized education (throughout the district), not necessarily multi-age like Bond, but I'd like to see the approach of teachers starting out with one or two students and going on from there."

Feehanville School, he said. "To me that's bad taste," he said. "Also, I don't want the board to have closed door decisions made without the consent of parents."

Besides replacing Warden as superintendent, his most important priority as a new school board member, he said, would be to "cut management fat."

"Before Warden came in we had 1,000 students enrolled," he explained. "Now we have only 800 students and double the personnel."

To eliminate administrative waste, Ronnett said he would reduce the central office secretarial staff and eliminate supervisory employees in the maintenance department.

To cut costs in other areas, he favors the elimination of "excessive programs that are not justified. I'd rather use the money to reduce class size," he said.

As another budget measure, he plans to evaluate every teaching position on the staff "to see what the benefit is to the district. I would eliminate the few teachers that show no ability in teaching through the use of teachers' board, peer review and parents' consultations," he said.

A FINAL action would be to eliminate "unnecessary specialized personnel" from the staff, to have them available on call only as needed."

For one-year term:

Robert Blomquist

Robert Blomquist

Robert Blomquist, 43 is aware of the kind of responsibility a school board member holds. "When you get down to it, it's a million dollar business," he explains.

But Blomquist, a project engineer for De Soto, Inc., who is running for the one-year term on the River Trails Dist. 26 school board, is the first to admit that having the responsibility doesn't necessarily mean having all the answers. "Just because there are seven people on the board doesn't mean they're all-knowing," he said.

"School boards tend to become insulated from communities they're working in," he said. Because of this, he views communication and involvement with the community as one of the most important responsibilities of a board member. "I think it is the school board's responsibility to report regularly to the community," he said.

But he also said that he feels communication should not just be one-way. A member of the Dist. 26 Citizens' Committee on Vandalism, he would like "to try to get the members of the community interested and involved in the school board via a visit the citizens' committees."

He said he feels that one of the instances where the school board might have done a better job with communication with the teaching staff, as well as the community, was in the transfer of two principals from Feehanville and the River Trails Junior High schools last spring.

"I think both the superintendent and the board at that time acted incorrectly," he explained. "My attitude is that a principal is a very key person. Since the principal is such a key person, he should have his time in a meeting with the board prior to the board meeting. They (the principals) should have been appraised of the situation prior to that. They should have met with the board, where the problem could have been discussed. I think a school board should not act instantly on the recommendation of a superintendent."

He is "not entirely satisfied" with the administration of the district, primarily with Supt. Thomas Warden. "I think he tends to act in some instances somewhat arbitrarily," he said. "I think he likes to take off on his own. He has a 'captain of the ship' attitude. I think the board has to direct him and not let him direct the board."

Despite his unhappiness with Warden, he said he would not go in as a new board member to ask for Warden's replacement. "I would like to see a man with better credentials if someone came along with better capabilities," he said.

Here are his views on other school issues:

—STAFF OR PROGRAM CUTS: "I wouldn't like to see any cuts made, to be honest. If they must be made, I would like to see cuts made in other than bread and butter subjects, other than reading and writing, etc."

—SCHOOL FINANCES: "The budget hasn't been presented to the point where I could study it yet."

—TEACHERS' IN-SERVICE PROGRAM: "I don't approve of it. The reason is that if this continues for 20 weeks, it will be four days of school they've taken away from the children. Why can't they just do it after school? The school district is really paying the bill for this released time."

Park district gets 13 acres at Nike site

The Arlington Heights Park District has been given 13 acres along the eastern border of the Nike Base at Central and Wilke roads. President Nixon's office announced yesterday.

A nine-hole, "pitch and putt" golf course has been tentatively planned for the L-shaped land parcel, valued at $400,000.

The park district formally applied for the land in January after it was declared surplus to the military. Park officials hope someday to acquire the entire 137-acre Nike Base for development of a regional park.

"We've got a foot in the door, at least," said Tom Thornton, director of parks and recreation for the park district.

Thornton said preliminary studies indicate that the land could support a small golf course, but he added that development may be delayed because of a lack of funds.

"We're hoping to finance it through revenue bonds, but our attorney has indicated there may be some problems with this approach. If we can't use revenue bonds, the golf course will probably have to wait until we can issue more general obligation bonds," he said.

THE COST OF developing a golf course has been estimated at $80,000 to $100,000. The price includes a watering system and a small pro shop. Lights for the course would be an additional cost.

Thornton said it would cost park district residents about $1.50 to play a round of golf on the short course during the week, and $2 on weekends and holidays.

Pitch and putt courses have proved very successful in other communities, Thornton said, citing courses in Des Plaines and Skokie.

The property, which is bounded on the north by Central Road, on the east by the Americana Nursing Home, and on the west by a chainlink fence, is now planted with grass and several small trees.

"If we can't build the golf course, we'll use the land for passive recreation and maybe do some planting and grading," Thornton said.

He explained that the district may not be able to use revenue bonds, which are paid for through fees and do not affect the tax rate, because of a condition that the federal government could reclaim the land during a time of national emergency.

"Our attorney has indicated there may be some difficulty selling revenue bonds with that stipulation on the property. But this isn't a final decision," he said.

Thornton said the Department of Interior, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Lake Central Region is preparing deeds for the property. He said he has no idea at this time what the name of the new park will be.

APRIL SHOWERS were colder and whiter than usual yesterday as a spring snowstorm caught local residents unprepared after a mild winter. While mothers searched for mittens and galoshes, public works crews in many communities had to reassemble snow plowing and salting equipment.

Wouldn't you just know it...

by BETTY LEE

It seems to happen every spring, just when we've packed away the winter. But every year it takes us by surprise.

A severe snow storm, which left as much as six-foot drifts in spots in Northwestern Illinois, swept past the area yesterday leaving only a temporary blanket here.

But while the snow fell yesterday, many motorists were stranded, and public works crews in most of the villages were alert and sitting tight near their plows and spreaders, ready for the annual spring snow.

The crews in Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg were a bit optimistic.

The plows and spreaders were already taken off the Rolling Meadows trucks. "We've been busy all morning getting them back on," said Dick Martin, Rolling Meadows public works assistant superintendent.

J. C. Smith, public works superintendent in Schaumburg, had all snow removal equipment cleaned and ready for summer storage.

He added that village equipment was ready for more snow by 8 a.m. yesterday and that main village streets were salted. "We are ready to go," he said.

Wheeling had already stored away a third of its snow removal equipment when snowflakes fell. They had to remount plow carriages and salt spreaders, and put snow tires back on some of their police squad cars.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, some residents in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect experienced a power failure. While some residents in Mount Prospect were attempting to cook their breakfast yesterday, several power lines snapped. Later in the morning Arlington Heights residents near Clarendon and Oakton, and Walnut and Mitchell found no electricity.

Residents who returned to O'Hare International Airport from vacations and business trips earlier in the morning were more fortunate than those who planned afternoon returns.

Most of the major domestic airlines cancelled some afternoon flights at the airport. Even those who were able to land in Chicago experienced some 20 minutes to more than an hour delay. "It didn't look like a very active afternoon," said one airline's public relations director.

Battering waves from Lake Michigan closed Chicago's lakefront Meigs Field.

Lakeshore warnings for waves up to 14 feet high were posted along the west and south shores of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Burns Harbor, Ind.

Commuters were tangled in snowbound traffic on the Northwest Tollway yesterday morning with cars at a standstill from Lee Street exit near Des Plaines to Sacramento Avenue in Chicago.

While accidents within the villages were minor, most involving a fender or bumper, there were several spin-outs and more serious accidents on the Tri-State Tollway.

Illinois State Police reported the closing of several roads throughout the state, especially in the Northern region. Hardest hit by the storm was Iowa, where almost all traffic and business activities came to a standstill.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS were up in parts of that state. The state Highway Commission pulled all its maintenance crews off the roads and warned all attempts at travel should be abandoned. Even the Iowa Legislature called off sessions, state offices in Des Moines were closed and universities, colleges and schools called off classes. The Des Moines Airport canceled all incoming and outgoing flights.

Deep snows crippled the south and central portions of Wisconsin and many schools and factories shut down. The Wisconsin State Patrol advised drivers not to travel unless it was absolutely necessary.

Motorists were warned against entering Wisconsin from the Chicago area.

Most Iowa and Wisconsin motorists were caught without studded snow tires on their cars, because in both states laws decree such tires must be off by April 1. The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department issued an emergency ruling permitting drivers to use studded tires through April 16.

2 Brookside homes seen by mid-May

The developer of the Brookside subdivision says he hopes to finish building two partially-constructed homes there by the middle of May.

Stuart Kreisman, president of the Revere Construction Co., said he plans to complete two houses and is negotiating the sale of two others, and that this will end his interest in the subdivision. The subdivision is located off Hintz Road near Camelot Park in northeast Arlington Heights.

Potential homeowners in Brookside have complained of having to wait nearly two years for the financially-troubled developer to build their houses. During the past several months the village board has put pressure on Kreisman to finish at least those houses where work had begun.

"I AM FINISHING up," said Kreisman who says he has sold 11 as yet unbuild lots in the subdivision to another builder, and now has only four sites left to finish.

The village board has ordered that sidewalks be built in the subdivision by mid-May either by Kreisman, or by the village at his expense. Street and sidewalk work in new developments is guaranteed by performance bonds which developers are required to post.

The board also has set a three-week deadline for the builder to fill, or construct a deck over an open excavation in the subdivision. Kreisman says he is negotiating the sale of the lot.

Jaycees seeking nominees for award

The Arlington Heights Jaycees are searching for area residents who qualify for the 17th annual distinguished service award.

This year, nominees may be male or female with no restrictions on age. In past years, nominees were limited to males under 35.

Persons wishing to nominate a candidate should contact Robert Miller at 439-7086 or Douglas Nelson at 394-1579. All nominations must be submitted prior to midnight May 1.

A panel of judges will select a winner at a dinner June 8. The banquet is open to the public. Reservations may be made by phoning Phil Jones at 259-4430.

Full showing expected at candidates' night

All five candidates for the Dist. 25 board of education are expected to attend tonight's Candidates Night scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas St.

The public meeting is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Council of PTA.

Running for three seats on the Dist. 25 board are William Beck, James R. DeVuono, Edith Jolly, John Patrick O'Brien and Richard Schlott. Voters will go to the polls Saturday.

More 'best sellers' seen

Starting in May, the long waiting list to reserve best selling books will disappear from Arlington Memorial Library. The library has subscribed to McNaughton Book Service, a system which will enable the library to loan best selling books without having residents wait for available copies.

Jay Larson, director of adult services, said the McNaughton plan will provide the library with multiple copies of best selling books. The library has option to purchase the books, or to send them back.

"We won't have to buy them if we don't want them, so by the end of the year we won't have an obsolete selection of best sellers sitting on the shelves," he said.

Larson said the plan was necessitated because residents were waiting as long as months for best sellers. "We hope to improve our reserve services by having several copies of the books people want most."

The McNaughton Book Service, located in Pennsylvania, will send 120 books per month to Arlington Memorial Library. Cost for this service will be $567 monthly, and the library may purchase any of the books for 75 per cent off the list price. The company, which offers similar services to other libraries, sends a monthly pre-publication of books from which to choose.

The nation

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, snapping back at a butchers' union leader who urged President Nixon to fire him, charged that restrictive labor practices are part of the reason for high meat prices.

A leader of the American Indian Movement threatened that militant Indians would defend Wounded Knee, S.D., "with force of arms and loaded guns" if he could not meet immediately with White House officials.

The Democratic National Committee has asked for a federal court order granting it access to vital government documents on the Watergate bugging case — including the secret White House investigation of the affair.

Anthony Russo cried on the witness stand at the Pentagon Papers trial as he told the jury how deeply he came to feel for the people America was fighting in Vietnam. Russo is charged along with Daniel Ellsberg with espionage, theft of government documents and conspiracy.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., one of the Senate's leading anti-pollution advocates, predicted the Environmental Protection Agency would postpone the 1975 deadline on auto pollution standards.

President Nixon asked Congress for $361 million in additional budget authority for the current fiscal year, including $16.2 million to pay the claims of the prisoners of war.

The state

A plan to create a six-county mass transit system for Cook, Lake, Kane, DuPage, Will and McHenry counties was introduced yesterday in the Illinois House.

The search is continuing for cans of mushrooms, possibly contaminated with botulism, sold inadvertently in commissaries at Great Lakes Naval Base, and at Chanute Air Force Base in Ran-toul.

The world

Israeli paratroopers and naval commandos attacking by sea, struck at four Arab guerilla bases inside neighboring Lebanon, the Israeli military command said. Arab guerilla sources in Beirut said the attacking Israelis killed two Palestinian guerilla leaders.

Three supply ships steamed up the Mekong River, through a barrage of Communist shore fire, attempting to reach the isolated Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Two more helicopters flying cease-fire control missions in South Vietnam were fired upon, and one was reported to have been destroyed. There were no casualties.

WITH HER HAIR standing on end in the wind, a young hiker rests at one of seven checkpoints along Sunday's 20 mile "Hike for Your Neighbor," to benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center. Nearly 900 hikers completed the 7½ hour march despite the cold, windy weather.

Gov. Walker out 20 bucks, thanks to Schlickman

Gov. Dan Walker owes the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows $20.

The debt was incurred by Walker as the result of Sunday's annual "Hike for Your Neighbor," to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center. Crossing political lines, Walker was the first to sign the pledge card of Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Walker pledged $1 for each mile Schlickman walked, probably never expecting to find Schlickman collecting the maximum $20.

Schlickman completed the 20-mile circuit through the Northwest suburbs and according to reports he was even in better shape than last year when he also marched.

Schlickman was just one of an estimated 900 marchers, mostly teenagers, who were not deterred by Sunday's cold and windy weather and turned out for the hike.

"EVERYTHING went fine considering the state of the weather. It was quite cold and windy but we are extremely grateful the snow and rain held off for a day," said Rena Trevor, chairman of the hike committee and treasurer of the Northwest Opportunity Center Board of Directors.

The turnout was approximately 100 more than last year. There were only a handful of dropouts, according to Mrs. Trevor.

Pledges made to marchers have not been tabulated yet, but Mrs. Trevor is hopeful last year's mark of $13,000 will be topped by nearly $5,000.

The funds raised through the hike have taken on new importance this year with the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cut off of federal funding. In order to maintain the present level of services, the Northwest Opportunity Center must raise nearly $130,000 locally.

Services offered by the center include: supplemental food programs for pre-and post-natal mothers and children up to six years old, family planning counseling, legal aid, housing referral, food stamps, job referral, income tax assistance and educational programs.

April 21 has been set as the official collection day. Marchers may turn in their pledge money from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 3411 Kirchoff Rd.

A REAL effort is going to be made to collect all pledges before the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Trevor. She said last year there were between 150 and 200 persons who completed the hike but never collected or turned in their pledges.

"Eager enthusiasm" was the only problem encountered on the hike. Mrs. Trevor said the marchers were so eager it was hard to keep them from starting before the leaders at the seven checkpoints.

At the Gregory School checkpoint the eager marchers couldn't wait for the leaders and walked several blocks in the wrong direction before the leaders could catch up with them and set them on the right course.

Sore feet were not much of a problem because most of the marchers had on good foot gear due to the cold weather.

An abundance of food to keep up the marchers' stamina, coupled with the cold, kept the marchers hiking at a fast pace. The hike, which started at 8 a.m., ended at about 3:30 p.m.

Data system to take over water billing

The Village of Arlington Heights will transfer water billing to the Northwest Municipal Data System next month, thus becoming the first of four communities to use the new computer service.

Mount Prospect, Park Ridge and Des Plaines will follow Arlington Heights in use of the National Cash Register (NCR) computer. Water billing for all four municipalities will be computerized by the end of October.

Payroll programs for the cities will be computerized by January, 1974.

The four municipalities are sharing the $24,000 yearly rental of the new computer located in Mount Prospect.

The computer billing is designed to save time and money according to Arlington Heights Finance Director Kenneth Bonder.

AN EXHAUST emissions check of 75 Arlington Heights cars Saturday resulted in only a 50 per cent "pass" rate, according to the chairman of this year's Earth Week steering committee, Gene Hanlon. John O'Connor and his two-year-old daughter, Katie, are checked through the testing lane which was set up at Miner Junior High School. Results of the test are now being analyzed by the Chicago Lung Association, which supplied equipment for the exhaust measurements.

Arlington rates low in exhaust emission tests

Only about half of the 75 cars tested for exhaust emissions this weekend in Arlington Heights "passed," according to Gene Hanlon, chairman of this year's Earth Week steering committee.

The 50 per cent pass rate was 20 per cent below the usual passing rate experienced by the Chicago Lung Association which supervised Saturday's testing at Miner Junior High School.

"The results of the test are being analyzed as to just which cars passed and failed and why," said Hanlon. Test results were not binding on motorists, but were designed to give each driver an indication of the exhaust level of his car and to provide data on a sampling of Arlington Heights cars.

The check point was staffed by six Arlington Heights teenagers — John Dalton, Dave Heinz, Mike Stoker, Dan Rhodes, Bob Fornella and Diane Miller — three adults, Clyde Rhodes, Tom and Gene Hanlon; and Glynn Kirbs of the Chicago Lung Association.

The exhaust analysis was one of several activities carried out last week during Earth Week 1973.

Accused murderer of local girls arraigned on charges

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Danny A. Ranes, 29, Portage, charged with slaying four young women, stood mute in circuit court yesterday on murder charges involving the deaths of two of the victims, both of Des Plaines.

He was arraigned in separate courts on first degree murder charges in each of the deaths and pleas of innocent were entered on his behalf. No trial dates were set in the deaths of the two young women who vanished on a trip from Chicago to Michigan.

They were Claudia Bidstrup, 19, and Linda Clark, 19. The decomposed bodies of the two women were found in a car near Galesburg last July. Both apparently had been strangled and ropes were tied around the bodies.

IN ONE OF the cases, Ranes was sentenced to life in prison March 26 in circuit court in the death of Mrs. Patricia Howk, 29, Kalamazoo. She was found stabbed to death March 19, 1972. Her body was found behind a local building. Police said she had been raped.

Also pending against Ranes is a murder charge in the death of Pamela Fearney, 19, Kalamazoo. Her decomposed body was found near Galesburg last Oct. 17.

Also charged with murder in the deaths of the two Des Plaines victims is Brent Eugene Koster, 16, Kalamazoo. Probate authorities waived jurisdiction over Koster when he was 15 years old last fall, so he could be tried as an adult. But his court appearances have been held in abeyance pending outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court case involving juveniles tried as adults.

Salt Creek meeting tomorrow

Local U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials will meet tomorrow with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) representatives to discuss the EPA objections to the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Program.

Earlier this year, the work plan for the watershed was submitted to various state and federal agencies for review. The only criticism of the project came from the EPA which objected to the quality of the water to be stored in the Busse Woods retention basin.

The SCS is now preparing a final report on the project, which will include a reply to the EPA's comments. The report and work plan will then be sent to Washington D.C., for final approval and inclusion in the 1973-74 fiscal budget.

THE REPORT and work plan must be submitted in time for Congressional approval before July 1, the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

J. D. Rector, local SCS official, said no date has been set for the report to be sent to Washington. He said the meeting with the EPA was called to clarify certain points in the EPA's review of the workplan.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee, said the EPA review was critical of the pollution level and excessive nutrients that might be present in the retention basin.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed work plan calls for a series of flood controls to be built across the creek. The largest of these would be in the Busse Woods section of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in unincorporated Elk Grove Township. The lake would serve as both a recreational site and a retention basin during flooding conditions.

FEDERAL FUNDS for about half of the $26.5 million cost of the plan are being requested. If Congress approves the funding, the money would be administered through the SCS.

Hamilton said the EPA's objections were not valid. He said the review was "nit-picking" and showed the agency did not understand the function of the retention basin.

"The EPA acts as though the project should solve all the problems. They ignore the real purpose of the project and the significance of flooding and recreation," said Hamilton.

He said the committee was aware of the possible water quality problems when the retention basin was included in the workplan. "If the lake problems were not solvable, then we wouldn't be doing it," said Hamilton.

Elrod denies charges on death 'notice'

by JOHN MAES

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod yesterday denied that his department released news of a hit-and-run death in Wheeling before contacting the victim's relatives.

But, according to a spokesman, Elrod is sending a formal apology to the wife and parents of Richard Flodin, 21, of 4258 Albany Ave., who was struck and killed by an auto March 27 on Palatine Road near Milwaukee Avenue.

Flodin's wife, Regina, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Flodin, 828 Willow Rd., Wheeling, charged in a letter Saturday to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

Candidates' night set for school hopefuls

Local school board candidates will present their views at a candidates night at 7:30 p.m. today at Elk Grove High School, Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Boulevard.

Scheduled to appear are candidates for the boards of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, High School District 214 and Harper College.

The Dist. 59 race is uncontested with three candidates for the three seats, each for a three-year term.

In the Dist. 214 race, there are five candidates for the three seats up for election. Each is for a three-year term.

The Harper race also has five candidates. There are two seats, each for a three-year term, and one seat for a one-year term.

The candidates' night is co-sponsored by the Dist. 59 School Community Council and the Dist. 214 educational association.

day to Elrod that news of Flodin's death was given to the news media before they were notified.

In the letter, Flodin's parents said they first heard of their son's death on a radio newscast. His wife, the letter said, was notified of the fatal accident by a neighbor who also heard the news on the radio.

Thomas Leach, spokesman for Elrod, said sheriff's police tried to contact Flodin's wife by telephone the night of the accident after her husband had been identified through a driver's license found on the body.

A WOMAN WHO answered the telephone call said she knew no one by the name of Flodin. Because there were no other addresses or telephone numbers among Flodin's identification, sheriff's police were stymied, Leach said.

"There's no way that woman could have been me," Regina Flodin said yesterday. "I came home late from work that night and there was someone in my apartment who would at least have taken a message had someone called, especially with news like this."

Sheriff's police that night asked Chicago police to send a squad car to the Albany Avenue address to notify Flodin's relatives but Leach said yesterday that there has been no confirmation that the car was sent. Mrs. Flodin denied that she received any notification from Chicago police.

Leach said no news of the fatal accident was released by the sheriff's department until the next day. He mentioned the Cook County Morgue, where Flodin's body was taken the night of March 27, as a possible source of the news release.

"WE RELEASED news of the death late in the afternoon of the next day" after talking to Regina Flodin, Leach said.

"And that was only because we thought one of our squad cars was involved. Before that (news of the death) could have come from somewhere else but it didn't come from (the sheriff's) office," he said.

After an investigation, sheriff's Patrolman Ronald Moers, 32, 1413 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and filing a false police report in connection with the hit-and-run death.

Moers' damaged squad car, which he had reported stolen, was found March 28 at a construction site in the 2400 block of Church Street, Des Plaines.

Moers was suspended from the sheriff's department and Elrod has asked for his dismissal. He will appear April 24 in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of leaving the accident scene and filing the false police report.

Leach said Elrod will send a letter of apology to the Flodin family. "We're sorry they feel this way and that they're offended," he said.
